B.C. Cities Concerned Over Cuts In Revenue

Financial Policy Of Province Main Convention Theme

Heated Discussions Anticipated at Convention of B.C. Municipalities Set for September 30-October 2 in Kelowna; Opposition to Changes Enacted at Last Session of Legislature Gains Force as Delegates Consider Convention Subjects.

Financial relationships of municipalities of British Columbia with the Province, which have been considerably changed as the result of legislation passed at the last session of the B.C. Legislature, promise to form the main subjects of long debates and many resolutions at the Convention of B.C. Municipalities which opens in Kelowna on Tuesday, September 30, and continues until October 2. The convention of the B.C. Good Roads League will, as usual, be held the day before the Union convention.

SMALLER SHARE OF PROFITS

Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt have all resolutions to bring before the convention, but outstanding matters of interest in which all municipalities are interested are changes made last session in distribution of liquor profits, motor license receipts and railway taxation which many of the municipalities claim will considerably reduce what they believe they can fairly claim as their share of this revenue.

Over 100 delegates representing fifty-five out of sixty-five cities and district municipalities in British Columbia will voice their views on the matters coming before the convention, all except a few small districts of the Province being represented. Disappointment has been freely voiced at the failure of the municipalities to secure some relief from school taxation, the only relief being offered at the last session being $200,000 to farmers and this does not apply until next year.

GANDHI NOW URGED TO JOIN PEACE MOVE

Interviewed By Indian Leaders Seeking End of Disobedience Campaign

Discussion in Jail at Yeroda Lasts For Five Hours

Bombay, India, July 23.—Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and M. Jayakar, prominent Indian leaders, had a five-hour conference with Mahatma Gandhi, Indian Nationalist chief, at the Yeroda prison in Poona to-day for the purpose of seeking a settlement of the present civil disobedience campaign.

The interview took place in the jail office with no other person present.

Neither Sir Tej nor Jayakar, would make a statement when they left the prison.

The two men recently obtained permission from the Viceroy, Lord Irwin, to visit Gandhi, in the hope of arranging some kind of a compromise ranging some kind of a compromise stored in India.

PROGRESS REPORTED

Although attempts by reporters to obtain a statement were firmly resisted by the two men, Sir Tej Sahadur's smile was taken by some observers to indicate the conversation had been of a most satisfactory character.

Both men later saw Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, noted woman leader, who for a short time took Gandhi's place as head of the civil disobedience movement until she also was arrested and was lodged in the Yeroda jail.

Sir Tej Sahadur and M. Yajakar will see the Mahatma again to-morrow.

Hanbury Attributes Canada's Progress To Liberal Policy

Trenchant Criticism of Conservative Leadership Featured Address of Burrard Liberal Candidate; Big Meeting Held Yesterday Evening at Empress Hotel in Support of Stuart Henderson, Victoria Candidate; C. H. O'Halloran Also Addresses Enthusiastic Rally.

Wilfred Hanbury, Liberal candidate in Burrard-Vancouver, yesterday evening gave a brilliant address at the Empress Hotel ballroom in support of the candidature of Stuart Henderson. Highlights of the speech were description of the Dunning budget as part of a great canal designed to divert a vast trade from the United States to British industry, an exposition that prosperity can only ensue when Canada's producers are provided with export markets, a striking contrast between Conservative pledges of creation of internal prosperity by restriction of foreign trade with the Liberal creation of prosperity by expansion of foreign trade, and a denunciation of the vacillating immigration and unemployment policies of Conservative leaders, as revealed when actions in the House of Commons were placed against statements made in campaign speeches.

William Kinsman, president of the Victoria Liberal Association, occupied the chair and had no difficulty in coping with intermittent interruptions, and the large attendance freely applauded the points made.

Other speakers were Stuart Henderson, the Liberal candidate in Victoria, and C. H. O'Halloran, Liberal candidate in Nanaimo riding.

Mr. Hanbury aroused applause by declaring "Mr. Henderson does not need as much help as some Victorians a few weeks ago thought he would. He is pretty well elected already."

COMPROMISE BY LORDS FINISHES COAL ARGUMENT

DICKIE STATES NAME ENOUGH TO CARRY HIM HOME

Says No Need to Beg Votes in Nanaimo Riding Because Its Conservative

"Yellow Dog" Statement Repeated at Meeting Held at Esquimalt

"Whether I beg for votes or not I'm elected because it's a Conservative constituency," stated C. H. Dickie, Conservative candidate for Nanaimo riding, in addressing the electors of Esquimalt at the Rex Theatre yesterday evening. During his speech Mr. Dickie again made his "yellow dog" statement, intimating that any type of a Conservative would be better than the brainiest Liberal in the Federal Government. The speech, with one or two innovations, was virtually a repetition of that which he gave at Lake Hill last week.

Premier Tolmie, Attorney-General Pooley and Brigadier-General J. A. Clark, former Federal member for Vancouver, spoke on behalf of Mr. Dickie, rapping the King legislation and upholding the Bennett principles. Reeve Brick of Esquimalt acted as chairman, and D. B. Plunkett, Conservative candidate for Victoria, was on the platform.

"SMILE THROUGH YOUR TEARS"

During the evening Mrs. C. H. Dickie again sang, "Smile Through Your Tears."

"I refer you to the testimony of my friends," said Mr. Dickie in answering C. H. O'Halloran's question, "What has Mr. Dickie done?"

"I will not enumerate the list, it would probably tire you," he added.

PREMIER KING ON TOUR NOW IN ONTARIO

Prime Minister Goes to Chesley After Great Election Meeting in Montreal

8,000 Voters of Canada's Largest City Gave Him Enthusiastic Welcome

Montreal, July 23. — Premier King to-day is continuing his Federal election campaign tour in Ontario. It was with impressions of one of the largest audiences addressed by any political speaker in Canada in recent years that Mr. King left here for Chesley, in Bruce County, 100 miles northwest of Toronto, where his programme calls for him to speak this evening.

In Chesley, the Prime Minister is assured of another large audience, as the town lies in a rich agricultural district and electors also will attend from a number of towns in Bruce County and the southern part of Grey County.

It was estimated 8,000 persons heard Premier King in the great Mount Royal Arena here yesterday evening. It was the Prime Minister's final meeting of the campaign in Quebec province and it was a most enthusiastic reception he was given. Repeatedly he was cheered and applauded and the close attention with which his address was followed left no doubt of the keen interest Montrealers have in the outcome of the election.

Alberni to Get Report on Its Civic Finances

Special to The Times

Alberni, July 23.—Citizens of Alberni will learn the true status of their civic finances at a public gathering on August 1, when the auditor's report on the city's position will be brought down. Since the destruction of the city hall a short time ago, work has been proceeding on the rearranging of records, many of which were damaged by the blaze. At Monday's meeting of the council it was decided to submit the auditor's statement to the citizens at the special meeting.

Gloomy Politicians Hurting Business Toronto Complains

Toronto, July 23.—The Financial Post, in its feature front page article, says:

"A business man who is a regular reader of The Financial Post writes us this week:

"'The chatter that is going on in political talks is stifling to business. People are beginning to worry. It is simply politics. The sooner that it is exposed as such, the better for everyone.'

"From many other business men The Post has received approval of its front page editorial of last week decrying the spreading of gloom propaganda for political purposes.

"The hypocrisy in this attempt to make Canadians so downcast and dejected regarding the future of their country that they will vote for this or that candidate who promises to correct conditions on July 29 if he is elected on July 28 is an insult to intelligent Canadians. Canada is going through a period of business recession and the boom conditions of 1928 and 1929 are no longer with us. In common with the rest of the world we have slowed down and are catching our breath for the next spurt upward. There is nothing in the current situation to suggest that a business catastrophe has overtaken us. Nevertheless the politicians are, for their own selfish purposes, attempting to paint such a lurid picture of ruin that the general public is beginning to catch the contamination and a feeling of pessimism is being created that will, if it is not checked in time, help to bring about serious conditions by checking expansion and slowing down progress."

With this article, The Financial Post republishes its most recent business chart, which is a regular feature of this paper each month. The chart has been brought up to date with the most recent available statistics recorded on it. It shows a considerable decline in business from the peak. But it also shows that we have held most of our gains of the last few years of prosperity. Business is about where it was two years ago, and two years ago everybody was satisfied that we were in the midst of the greatest prosperity in history. That should be enough to satisfy even the most confirmed hypochondriac.

The Financial Post in its weekly business review has recorded the rise and fall of Canadian business dispassionately and without resort to either excess optimism or pessimism. It will continue to do so, knowing that intelligent business men will not take minor or even moderately severe recessions as indications of a permanent halt in Canada's upward march. If the politicians will leave business alone and not attempt to trammel it by the instillation of general pessimism business men will soon have Canadian production moving upward again.

All Children and Valuables Removed By Residents As Bush Blaze Nears Highway

Nine Houses Endangered When Westerly Breeze Fans Flames Toward Settlement at Langford Station To-day; Firefighters Rushed to Scene to Save Homes; Fire Trenches Dug and Hoses Played on Roofs and Walls by Residents.

Fanned by a westerly breeze, fire which broke out just off the Island Highway near Langford Station, was sweeping toward the settlement there this afternoon.

Resident of nine homes in the vicinty had taken their children and valuables out by 1 o'clock, and were waging a stubborn fight to save the buildings from the flames.

A crew of thirty men, under Fire Ranger Campbell, assisted by residents, was fighting the main blaze which spread rapidly under the influence of the wind.

Sparks were falling in all directions at the settlement, and fear was expressed for the safety of a large number of residences. Second and third fires sprang up not far from the original blaze, and the firefighters were faced with gigantic tasck to bring them under control.

ATTACKS LARGE TIMBER

The area now burning is situated between Dunford Road and the Island Highway, about a quarter of a mile from the Langford Garage, at the railway crossing on the highway. Sweeping from the small bush the flames attacked large timbers which increased the intensity of the fire as they fell.

Homes owned by the following people were endangered:

A. E. Hall.
Mrs. George Newbury.
Herbert Pearce,
M. C. Luff.
Milton Aikman,
P. N. Welch.
C. Hems.
R. A. Pennington.

Greenhouses operated by the Chow Nee Company, Chinese, were in the path of the approaching flames.

The fire is believed to have started from a spark coming from a locomotive.

Just before noon smoke was noticed arising from the vicinity, not far from the railway tracks and within a short time flames had spread to a large area. The home of Mr. Welch, who is an employee of the Public Works Department at the waterworks property nearby, was close to the scene of the fire, and he immediately summoned assistance.

Fire Ranger Campbell was hurriedly called to the scene and enlisted aid of a gang of men at work on the Malahat Highway.

DIG FIRE TRENCHES

Fire trenches were dug around the home of Mr. Welch and several other houses threatened by the flames. Others procured hoses to play water on roofs and walls when sparks ignited the dry shingles.

Up to 2 o'clock, according to reports reaching the city, none of the houses had caught fire, but householders were busy removing valuable property and all living souls had retired to a safe distance, except those engaged in fighting the fire.

A fairly strong breeze hampered the work of the firefighters, gradually pushing the flames in the direction of the station at Langford. Meanwhile recruits were being sought by Fire Ranger Campbell to aid in combating the blaze.

UP-ISLAND FIRE

Vancouver, July 23—More than 700 acres are now covered by the forest fire which broke out several days ago at Trout Lake, west of Menzies Bay and north of Campbell River, on Vancouver Island. The outbreak has not yet been surrounded or brought under control.

A strong westerly wind on Tuesday carried the blaze into a stand of green timber.

Twenty men are leaving Vancouver to-day to relieve loggers who have been fighting the fire.

Forestry officials expect the fire to burn several weeks if hot, dry weather continues. A large crew of men will be required to prevent it from spreading.

The fire is burning in the same area where a blaze sprang up two years ago and threatened the surrounding settlement. On that occasion the flames were subdued after little damage had been done.

PANIC SCENES IN ITALY AS EARTH ROCKS

327 Persons Killed and 1,000 Injured in Southern Part of Country

Tens of Thousands Homeless, Say Government Officials After Check-up

Canadian Press

Rome, July 23.—Three terrific earthquakes in the "ankle" of the Italian "boot" to-day cost the lives of 327 persons and brought injury to a thousand others, according to estimates late this evening made by the Ministry of the Interior. Millions of lire in damage and tens of thousands homeless helped to sum up the tragic story.

Relief measures were immediately got under way by the government, Premier Mussolini ordering Senator Cremonesi with a special Red Cross train to the scene of the disaster.

Other rescue trains left for the stricken area from Foggia and helped remove the injured to hospitals at Potenza.

MANY HOUSES WRECKED

The reports said thousands of houses had either been demolished or wrecked to the point where they would have to be pulled down. These, including some rich old palaces and also churches and provincial cathedrals.

LIST OF CASUALTIES

The towns most seriously affected by the earthquakes as reported authoritatively were as follows:

Melfi—160 dead.
Rionero—20 dead, 50 injured.
Rapollo—20 dead, 30 injured.
San Sossio Baronia—14 dead, 100 injured.
Barile—11 dead, 40 injured.

In addition to these casualties there were scattered deaths in various surrounding towns.

San Rex Sossio Borania was destroyed by the quake.

BUILDINGS COLLAPSE

The tremors shook buildings and the casualties resulted from the collapse of walls, church steeples and the like.

In all the cities the frightened residents ran into the streets, panic-stricken. Some injuries resulted from the commotion.

GLENN CURTISS FAMOUS AIR PIONEER, DIES

Succumbs in Buffalo at Age of Fifty-two After Operation For Appendicitis

His Career Started in Bicycle Shop When He Was Sixteen

Buffalo, N.Y., July 23—Glynn H. Curtiss, widely-known aviation pioneer, died this morning in the Buffalo General Hospital.

Mr. Curtiss was brought to the hospital several days ago from his home at Hammondsport, N.Y., to undergo an operation for appendicitis. The operation was said to have been successful and he was reported recovering rapidly.

Mrs. Curtiss came here with her husband and had been almost constantly at his bedside.

Hospital authorities stated death was due to a pulmonary embolus, caused by a blood clot on one of the main arteries leading out of the heart.

Glenn H. Curtiss nurtured the young science of aviation in the middle years of its development when famter hearts had grown discouraged.

At the age of sixteen he started a bicycle shop, as did those other pioneers of United States aviation, the Wright Brothers. From that Curtiss went into bicycle racing. He sought some means to make the bicycles go faster, but there were no engines that would meet the demands, so Curtiss decided to make one.

USED TOMATO CAN

With a tomato can for a carburetor, he built his first motor bicycle in 1902. He continued to experiment with lightweight motors and evolved his famous V-type motor, a departure in design reflected in the radial airplane engines of to-day. In 1904 he set a motorbicycle speed recor dat Ormond Beach, Fla., of ten miles in eight minutes and 54 seconds, and in 1906, over the same

Son Lost Twenty Years Meets Father In City

Wilfred Kenyon Given Lift in Motor Car By Man Who Proves to Be His Dad

Had Been Separated For Twenty Years; Son Now Stoker in Canadian Navy

J. W. Kenyon, well-known Victoria orchestra leader of 365 Arnold Street, and his twenty-two-year-old son, Wilfred, of the Canadian Navy, are reunited to-day after a separation of over twenty-one years.

The story of the separation and reunion reads like a chapter of the most imaginative fiction with an ending just as happy. When Wilfred was ten months old he left Nanaimo and the father and son became lost to one another. As a young boy Wilfred went to sea and the chances of his father getting in touch with him were lessened. He served for a time on merchant vessels and later joined the Dominion Government patrol boat Armentiers. He now holds the rank of stoker in the Royal Canadian Navy. His father, as a bandsman, and the son, as a sailor, had marched in the same parades in Victoria and as recently as May 24 the son marched ahead with a detachment of sailors and the father followed playing the drums in a militia band.

Neither knew the other. The meeting happened quite casually the other day. Mr. Kenyon saw the sailor alone on Douglas Street. He drew up his car to give him a lift. During the ride he asked him his name.

Surprised that it was Kenyon he asked him his first names.

"Son, I'm your father," said Mr. Kenyon to the six-foot-three stoker, and in his excitement nearly drove the car into a telephone pole.

"You can't be," the son replied. "My father was killed in the war."

Explanations followed. Doubts and misunderstandings were swept away.

Mr. Kenyon and his son are rejoicing to-day over the reunion.

WILL BROADCAST KING'S SPEECH SATURDAY NIGHT

Premier's Montreal Address Will Be Heard Here, Starting at 6 o'Clock

Mrs. H. E. Smith and Mrs. J. H. Young Spoke Over CFCT This Morning

Word was received at Liberal headquarters here to-day that Premier Mackenzie King's final campaign speech in Montreal, Saturday night will be broadcast as far as Victoria through a country-wide hook-up. The Prime Minister will be heard here between 6 and 8 o'clock.

SPEAKS TO WOMEN

Mrs. H. E. Smith and Mrs. J. H. Young spoke over CFCT at 10 o'clock this morning in speeches which were primarily for the benefit of the women of Victoria. "Women are the nation's spenders and consequently have a very real interest in tariff policies and the budget," stated Mrs. Young after telling how the women of the Dominion were vitally affected by changes in the cost of living and the national income. "The cost of living has fallen in Canada during the last seven years, while in most other countries it has remained stationary or risen," she continued. "That means that we women have more to spend and experience less difficulty in meeting household expenses."

She sketched the amount and source

Railways of Canada Enter Aviation Field

Statements By C.P.R. and C.N.R. Presidents and J. A. Richardson, Head of Western Canada Airways, Indicate Big Developments

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, July 23.—Commercial aviation is to be developed in Canada in alliance with the transcanada rail systems, according to statements made here by James A. Richardson, owner of the Western Canada Airways, and in Montreal by E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Mr. Beatty stated the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National systems had reached "an agreement in principle" on the projected organization of a Canadian aerial transportation system, embracing eastern and western Canada, and that the ownership would be shared equally by the two companies.

ANNOUNCEMENT AWAITED

Mr. Richardson, who is owner of the Western Canada Allways and associated with Canadian airways in the east, confirmed the statement made recently by Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, that the stepped into aviation.

Sir Henry's statement was that "the Canadian Pacific Railway and ourselves have acquired an ihterest in the Western Canada Airways and the Canadian Airways, which is the big aviation concern of the east." Mr. Richardson stated that "what Sir Henry said is correct. Further announcement in connection with the deal cannot be made until a later date."

Both the national rail lines president and the airways head foresee a great future for the liaison between Canada's cross-continent land transport systems and its highly-developed aviation organizations. The railways' action is "significant as indicating the trend in the near futurne," in the opinion of Sir Henry Thornton. The acquisition of an interest in aviation by the railroads "should accomplish much that is worth while," Mr. Richardson believes.

BEATTY'S STATEMENT

Montreal, July 23.—In reference to newspaper reports with respect to possible aviation developments in Canada, E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, made the following statement yesterday:

"By amendment to its charter, made in 1919, the Canadian Pacific Railway Company was empowered to establish and operate services of aircraft of all kinds, and in recent years it has, through its express department, entered into contracts for express services with established Canadian air service companies. Discussions have taken place between the presidents of the Canadian National Railways and this company looking to participation by both companies in the ownership of airway companies, both in eastern and western Canada, and these discussions have proceeded to the point where an agreement in principle has been reached. It is anticipated each of the transcontinental railways will have an equal interest, and when negotiations have been concluded an announcement in greater detail will no doubt be made."

To instruct its younger employees in the details of shipping as well as geography, a Chicago department store has installed a miniature railroad representing a large area on its roof.

EVELINE F. IS GAME TO TAKE DERBY

Chestnut Filly Gives Splendid Exhibition to Win Feature at Saskatoon

Saskatoon, Sask., July 23.—Eveline F. Sam Corbet's game little chestnut filly, with Mattioli up, won the eighteenth annual running of the Saskatoon Derby at the Exhibition track here yesterday.

In winning the feature race on the week's programme and the richest purse on the western fair circuit, $800, Evelin F. turned in one of the finest exhibitions of gameness ever seen on local tracks. After being away last from the post and meeting with a mishap at the first turn, she raced in the rear of the field until six of the ten furlongs had been covered, then responding to Mattioli's urging, she began overhauling the others one by one until at the last turn there was but Compline Bell in front of her. In the thrilling stretch battle she managed to beat the Fort Qu'Appelle mare to the post by a nod. Crossantiania finished third. The winner paid only $6.75, $4.20 and $3.45.

RURAL GOSSIP PAYS WELL

Place bets paid the best returns on the mutuels. The longest price was paid by Rural Gossip, who rewarded her backers with $20.00 for $2.00 place ticket.

Riding honors for the day were divided between Clegg, Mattioli and La Boyne, with two wins each.

FERGUSON IS SCORED FOR HIS FALSE CLAIM

Heenan Proves Premier of Ontario Wrong About Immigration From S. Europe

Port Francea, Ont., July 23.—"The ten-day silence" of Premier G. H. Ferguson of Ontario in the face of the exposure of his "groundless immigration charges," charactedized by Hon. Peter Heehan, Federal Minister of Labor, here yesterday evening, as "further proof of Mr. Ferguson's treacherous deception on this immigration question," Mr. Heenan is engaged in a final pre-election visit to each section of the Kenora-Rainy River riding, in which he is seeking re-election.

Speaking at Barwick and Stratton, the Minister said:

"Ten days ago, Mr. Ferguson charged that Southern Europeans were being brought into Canada by the train load at the public expense and that he had protested to Ottawa. Since that time he has only referred to the subject to explain that he did not mean what he had said—that he had meant newcomers from the British Isles, and that he had protested to Britain's representative in Ottawa, not to the Dominion."

Mr. Heenan reviewed the King Government's record and referred to co-operation in the present election between prominent trade unionists and the government party as evidence of the satisfaction with which workers of Canada viewed the government's lavor record.

"Are you going to follow a policy of drift, as the Liberal government has observed, or are you going to back a platform which will entice our youth back to this land and build up Canada?" asked Mr. Dickie.

He showed the difference between the causes of unemployment in the United States and Canada. "Moreover," Mr. Dickie stated, "the United States treasury is full and can assist the unemployed."

"We in Canada have never known such prosperity," he said, laying the land's comparative poorness to its lack of protection.

"Nine-tenths of this Dunning budget is absurd," stated Mr. Dickie.

"We wish to trade within the Empire and to build up such a policy at the Imperial Conference. But we must look after Canada first to serve the Empire best.

WILL STOP IMMIGRATION

"If we are returned to power, we will close the gates of immigration until we have made provision for those people who live here," he said.

"Keep your money in the country and you will keep the people," Mr. Dickie stated in urging his audience to support the building of a tariff wall in Canada to bring it to the United States standard of prosperity.

He repeated his sensational "yellow dog" statement, inferring that any type of a Conservative would be better than the brightest Liberal in the Federal government.

Quoting Mr. Bennett, he promised the Conservatives "would put in a policy which would permit Canadian manufacturers to go ahead."

"We've only been playing at government. Give us a chance and if we are not successful throw us out," Mr. Dickie said.

He indicated that the Liberal ship of state needed to be sent to the drydock.

"We will send a clean ship on the ocean, and when it has become encrusted with the barnacles of corruption, send us out."

The candidate also spoke on the returned soldiers problems, saying they were not party questions.

TOLMIE CRITICIZES KING ON UNEMPLOYMENT

Criticism of Premier King's alleged lack of action in replying to his request for assistance in aiding the unemployment in British Columbia featured the address of Dr. Tolmie.

"We have listened to Mackenzie King telling us we have not an unemployment problem in Canada Whether we like it or not, we have," the Premier stated.

"Mr. Beatty, in a statement to the New York Times, stated that there was more unemployment in Canada than there has ever been before."

"The coal mines, particularly in the Crow's Nest and Nanaimo have suffered from the depression. Mr. Nels Lougheed has told us that the marketing of our lumber would be very difficult in the near future," the Premier continued. "A similar depression is also felt in the mineral and wheat markets."

"When the Conservative party was in power it shared the responsibility of unemployment with the provinces and municipalities," the speaker maintained.

SOUGHT AID IN 1929

Dr. Tolmie stated he had urged Premier King in 1929 to assist unemployed. He had been told his request would be given consideration. "Mr. King has been considering it ever since," he said.

As late as March, Mr. King and his Liberals had voted down a motion, supported by all the Conservatives in the House, seeking relief for the unemployed, Dr. Tolmie averred.

"While we have Mr. King dodging the issue, President Hoover in the United States, along with Congress has voted a billion dollars for unemployment.

"We provinces have no control over immigration and consequently have no means of preventing unemployment.

WHAT B.C. HAS DONE

Answering the question, "What has British Columbia done for unemployment?" Dr. Tolmie stated he had asked for a larger appropriation for public works than had ever been asked before. He was not in favor of the dole but preferred to give the unemployed means of making a living, he said.

"Beside the usual grants, $5,000 had been given to Nanaimo and $11,400 to Fernie for unemployment, Dr. Tolmie added, noting neither was a Conservative riding.

Besides this 7,000, men were being put to work on roads to assist in the solution of unemployment. In giving contracts for the work, provision had been made for local residents, he stated.

The statutory grants were the same as ever, noted Dr. Tolmie, in speaking of Mr. King's donations to the province. He added that highway grants had been minimized by Premier King.

"We are all British Columbians, with the interest of the province as well as Canada and the British Empire at heart. I think the best thing we could do would be to change the deck and give the new boys a chance.

KING DID ANSWER TOLMIE

"The Prime Minister of Canada did answer Dr. Tolmie's request for assistance for unemployed," General Clark stated. He read from Hansard, saying that Premier King had said Dr. Tolmie had asked a hearing for a B.C. delegation on the matter, but had not sought definite relief.

As a member of the delegation, he alleged the Prime Minister was not courteous to the representatives.

Mr. King disregarded the importance of the unemployment question, General Clark said.

He considered the Premier's "five-cent piece" speech an answer to Dr. Tolmie's request for assistance.

"Let me represent Canada at the Imperial Conference, and I'll call a conference on unemployment when I return," was Mr. King's attitude to the question, General Clark stated. "Mr. Bennett would call a conference before he went," he added.

BUDGET A FAKE

The speaker referred to the Dunning budget, saying it was "fake and fraud." He noted Ramsay Macdonald, Baldwin and Lloyd George had approved the budget. "I doubt very much if they have even read it," he added.

General Clark referred to B. C. Forbes's evidence on the budget, saying, "Forbes, of the Hearst Press, the greatest enemy to empire trade, as a witness, should put you on your guard against it."

He criticized the countervailing duties, saying if Canada stopped the importation of all stuffs affected, it would not divert Canadian trade from the United States to Great Britain.

"Since the Mackenzie King regime we have bought like drunken sailors from the United States, and we have allowed our boys to follow our natural resources out of this country," the speaker said.

He stated the money expended in United States trade would support hundreds of families in Canada and would assist development in the land.

"Extend preferential trade to all parts of te Empire, but protect the workers of Canada," the speaker concluded in voicing the Conservative platform for the Imperial Conference in London.

RED TICKETS

"Mr. O'Halloran has been talking a lot about Mr. Dickie's speech in Esquimalt last year," said Mr. Pooley. "I wonder if Mr. O'Halloran has ever heard of the red tickets. I have. I've a collection of them.

"The Liberals are fighting to have their members sent over to the Imperial Conference in London," he added.

"Have they always wanted trade in the Empire? When Laurier in 191[illegible] went to the country on the reciprocity treaty they did not have the same views. I do not know if Mr. O'Halloran was old enough to take an interest in politics at that time, but as far as Stuar Henderson is concerned, he stumped the country on that platform. The Conservatives threw Laurier out of power on the issue Either the Liberals have very short memories or else there are a lot of turncoats in the party," he said.

POLICY STOLEN

"Mr. Dickie came out with a clear-cut policy of protection which his opponent, Mr. O'Halloran, has adopted," stated Chairman Reeve Elrick, before introducing the speakers.

"Many references have been made against Mr. Dickie's alleged partisan speech last year," the Reeve said. "It is interesting to note that in the selection of polling booths here, all were chosen on property of Liberals," he stated, adding that it was a significant fact that the majority of employees at the drydock were Liberals.

Death Summons Mrs. R. Moulton Of Cobble Hill

The death occurred at St. Joseph's Hospital this morning of Olive Mirian, wife of Robert Moulton of Cobble Hill, in her forty-second year. Born in Hastings, England, Mrs. Moulton was a resident of Cobble Hill for many years, being the daughter of one of the pioneer families in the district, coming to Vancouver Island at the age of five years with her parents, who settled at Cobble Hill. Her passing away will be felt by a large circle of friends in that locality.

She leaves to mourn her loss, besides her husband, two small children, Francis and William; her mother, Mrs. A. Cheal, and an uncle, Alfred Cheal, all residents of Cobble Hill. The remains are reposing at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel until Thursday afternoon, when they will be forwarded to R. H. Whidden's Funeral Parlors, Duncan, B.C. The funeral will be from St. John's Church, Cobble Hill, where service will take place at a time to be arranged later.

That good old-fashioned flavor

NO DOUBT about it—old-time cooking was delicious. But it may have been our youthful appetites, rather than the quality of the food itself, that gave it that super-flavor we all remember. The good cooks of those days never had a chance to buy such groceries as modern housewives use.

The coffee on your breakfast-table—one of the half-dozen best-known brands advertised to-day—has a flavor that you could find only at a few famous restaurants, forty years ago. The cakes that mother used to make would have been even lighter, fluffier, if she had had modern flour and shortening to work with.

Every day the advertising columns tell you where to buy and how to use cooking materials that are better-tasting, purer, more conveniently put up than ever before in history.

All through your housekeeping the same rule holds good. There are better things nowadays to eat, to wear, to use. Read the advertisements and know what they are. Then ask for them by name.

Make it a habit; reading the advertisements pays YOU.

NEW BUILDING UNDER LAST YEAR

Canadian Press

Ottawa, July 23—Value of building permits issued in sixteen Canadian cities during June was $17,835,478, according to a report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. This represented a decrease of $1,685,824 from the May total, and a decrease of $9,881,114 from the total recorded in June, 1929.

The report said, "The aggregate for the first half of 1930, though lower than in 1929 or 1928, was nevertheless considerably above the average for the last ten years, while the wholesale cost of building materials was lower than in most years of the record."

Value of the permits issued in the various cities during the first six months of the year was $83,214,024. At the half-way mark in 1929 the total was $124,609,267, and in 1928, $102,036,987.

U.S. POPULATION

Washington, July 23.—A total of about 122,967,000 people—just a few thousand under 123,000,000—probably will be shown as the population of the United States for 1930, when the final count is announced here by director W. M. Steuart of the census. The 1920 population was 106,710,620.

New Paper Plant Making Good At New Westminster

New Westminster, July 23.—Westminster Paper Company, of New Westminster, is making initial shipments from its new mill to Australia. An advance shipment of a large order has left Vancouver for the southern Dominion, and with it went a shipment for Suva, in the Fiji Islands. The Australian order consisted chiefly of wrapping paper, paper napkins and paper towels, while the shipment to Suva was principally of toilet tissue. Several cars have already been dispatched since the new plant commenced operations, Toronto and Winnipeg being among the eastern and prairie centres receiving the products from the new plant of the Westminster Paper Company.

This is very gratifying and should be of great interest as there is a large proportion of the bonds and common stock held by local people, which is another proof of the faith they have in supporting British Columbia industries.

CHICAGO TRIBUNE FILES BIG SUIT

Chicago, July 23.—The praecipe of a suit for $250,000 damages was filed in court yesterday by Robt. M. Lee, city editor of The Chicago Tribune, against the Illionois Publishing and Printing Company, publishers of The Chicago Herald and Examiner.

The suit is based on an article in connection with the Lingle murder investigation, published in yesterday's issue of the defendant paper.

SHIPYARD FIRE CAUSE OF LOSS

Hamburg, Germany, July 23.—Eight fire brigades and five fire boats yesterday evening checked a great fire that had started in the Vulcan shipyards and destroyed a big storehouse.

Ferry service across the Elbe River was suspended while the fire boats were in action. Large masses of valuable finished steel and iron parts were destroyed. The blaze started after the shipyards had closed for the night.

WIFE SLAYER IS JUDGED INSANE BY QUEBEC JURY

Sent to Montreal Insane Ward For Deed Committed Last November

St. Hyacinthe, Que., July 23.—Firmin Leduc, sixty-year-old furniture merchant, charged with the murder of his wife, yesterday was found by the jury to be mentally unsound and incapable of standing trial. He was ordered placed in the insane ward of the Montreal jail.

Last November 21, Leduc went to the parish priest of St. Hyacinthe and stated he had killed his wife. The priest hurried with Leduc to his home and found Mrs. Leduc lying near death on the kitchen floor. She had been beaten over the head, and died a few minutes after the priest's arrival.

Paul E. Amyot, a neighbor, was also found in the house, unconscious from a blow on the head. He recovered and told police he had been attracted by cries for help and had attempted to aid Mrs. Leduc but had been struck by Leduc and rendered unconscious.

CRERAR SPEAKS IN MANITOBA

Minister of Railways Scores Bennett For His Tariff Attitude

Reston, Man., July 23.—"Conservatives are attempting to spread New Zealand butter over the country in the hope that the farmers of the west will overlook or forget Hon. R. B. Bennett's pledge to raise the tariff if his party is returned," said Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Railways and Canals, in a speech yesterday evening.

Mr. Crerar outlined the record of the King Government.

Senator Robert Forke, who referred to the contribution of the Progressive group to prairie achievement, was accorded a whole-hearted ovation.

BENNETT SCORED FOR TALKING OF ANNEXATION

Oshawa, Ont., July 23.—Speaking before a large gathering here yesterday evening, W. H. Moore, former Tariff Board chairman and Federal Liberal candidate in the riding of Ontario South, declared "talk of annexation by the Conservative leader is an insult to the loyalty and intelligence of the people of Canada. There is no disposition for annexation in this country, and Mr. Bennett knows it," he said.

"The Conservatives are advocating industrial independence," he proceeded. "That is a fine sounding catch phrase, but there is no place for catch phrases in this election. Canada cannot be industrially independent when cotton, rubber, aluminum, linen and so many other of our raw materials have to be imported. The Conservatives ask us to follow the United States, but I say, don't be like the United States; let us strike out on a destiny of our own."

MANY PEOPLE IN AUSTRALIA OUT OF WORK

Canberra, Aus., July 23.—The position of Australian industry is now so serious that 18.5 per cent of the working population of the country is out of employment, declared Hon. J. V. Latham, leader of the Nationalist opposition, in the House of Representatives yesterday. The federal budget, with its imposition of an extraordinary tariff and taxes, was the subject of debate.

Mr. Latham pointed to the slump of stock issues. The taxable income obtained from wheat and wool last year was only £55,000,000 (about $275,000,000), compared with £67,000,000 (about $435,000,000).

The opposition leader insisted federal expenditures must be reduced and that salaries of ministers and members of Parliament should be cut as a beginning and an example. Increased taxation, he maintained, would greatly impair the recuperative powers of the Australian people.

Lightning Kills Boy on Prairies

Beatty, Sask., July 23.—Lightning killed young Eddie Boh here yesterday. The body, with clothing burned, was found near a blazing stack of hay during an electrical storm in this district. A brother, busy at haying operations, discovered the fatality after he had seen the team which the boy had been driving come wandering home.

B.C. TAKES OVER PEACE BLOCK ON FIRST OF MONTH

Vancouver, July 23.—A special dispatch to The Vancouver Province today stated that British Columbia will take over the administration of the Peace River Block and the Railway Belt on August 1, under tentative plans announced by the Government to-day. Efforts are being made now to adjust the necessary administrative details by that date.

The actual transfer, which has been a subject of controversy for a quarter of a century, will be accomplished without the disturbance of existing administrative machinery. For the time being Federal officials will carry on under Provincial Government direction. As soon as possible, however, the administration will be entirely overhauled to eliminate the present duplication by Federal and Provincial officials, particularly in the railway belt where two sets of machinery have operated side by side for years. In some offices the provincial officials will be able to carry on alone, possibly with the addition of one or two Federal officials familiar with the Federal territory. In the Forestry Department, however, it may be necessary for the Province to take over a number of Federal officials, as the work of forest patrol in the large areas to be transferred is too much for the existing Provincial staff.

NEW INDUSTRY FOR THE NORTH

Winnipeg, July 23.—Barren muskeg lands of the north country may yet be money-makers. According to Fred V. Siebert, superintendent of the Canadian National Railways natural resources department for Manitoba and Saskatchewan, an industry may be established in Manitoba for making insulating material from sphagnum mosses found in muskeg bogs along the Hudson Bay Railway.

Unliminated areas of muskeg, he points out, are available.

The product has been tested and found suitable for many insulating uses. It may also be utilized for manufacture of insulating brick. It is stated by officials of the natural resources department of the railway that use of suitable bogs for production of heat insulators will provide a market for sodium sulphate found in large quantities in Saskatchewan. The chemical is used in reduction of peat to fibre.

Bank Analyzes Employment Across Canada

Toronto, July 23—In a detailed analysis of conditions in the various parts of Canada, contained in the Bank of Nova Scotia quarterly survey of business conditions, it is pointed out that there is considerable variation in the state of trade. In certain areas the unfavorable elements in the situation, seem to have, for the time being, assumed a preponderant influence. In other areas there is evidence of an encouraging vitality in the industrial situation. It must, of course, be taken into consideration that during the second quarter of the year an increase in industrial activity normally occurs in Canada. The index for employment in Canada, as a whole, rose slightly from April to May and has maintained that figure in June indicating a degree of stabilization during that period. It is now at a point 6.4 per cent below the peak last year. Employment in manufacturing has, however, continued to recede and is now seven per cent below August, 1929.

THE PROVINCES

In the Maritime Provinces, largely due to increased employment in construction, the index of employment has risen steadily during the quarter and is now only a fraction of one per cent below the peak of last year. In British Columbia the index has not changed during the quarter indicating on the whole stable conditions. In Quebec the index remained unchanged on June 1, was followed by further declines the following month. In the Prairies there is also little evidence of stability. The situation is, of course, complicated by continued decline in prices and a still large visible supply of Canadian grain and the usual uncertainty of the crop growing season. There is, however, some signs of resiliency. Revenue car loadings in the eastern division are irregular, but above the average of the years, 1923 to 1927, while the index for the western division shows improvement.

ONTARIO MANUFACTURING

Continued depression in various branches of manufacturing, upon which the industrial activities of the province are, to a large degree, dependent, has been an unfavorable feature of the situation during the past quarter. Production of automobiles, except in one or two factories, has been low. The number of workers employed in the iron and steel industries, as a whole, decreased during the quarter, and was some 17½ per cent lower on June 1 than on June 1, 1929. Some increase in activity has, however, been reported of late. Boot and shoe manufacturers also report some improvement. Activity in the textile mills has continued to recede.

Scranton, Pa., July 23.—The engineer and fireman were killed when the "puller" engine of the Lackawanna Limited passenger train of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad exploded at Leigh Summit, about twenty miles from here, late yesterday.

NATIONAL PARK WORK

Regina, July 23.—Preliminary survey of the northern part of Saskatchewan in connection with the Provincial Government's scheme for solution of unemployment, has been completed, according to Hon. J. A. Merkely, Minister of Labor and Industries. The proposed camp scheme can now be inaugurated, he says, in co-operation with officials of the Prince Albert National Park. It has been decided 500 men may now be employed there cutting away dead and burned wood.

FEDERAL VOTERS IN KITCHENER HEAR BENNETT

Dominion Conservative Leader Continues Election Campaign Tour of Ontario

Kitchener, Ont., July 23.—Closing a busy day of election campaigning during which he had delivered two other addresses, Hon. R. B. Bennett, Federal Conservative leader, spoke here yesterday evening. A luncheon address before Toronto Conservatives had been followed by an afternoon address at a meeting in Dundas.

EMPLOYMENT MOVES

Speaking in Kitchener, Mr. Bennett said that to Canadians throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion, he wished to put this question for decision: "What is best for your country within the Empire, your home, your family, your future?"

Mr. Bennett, dealing with Premier King's plan for a Federal-Provincial-Municipal conference to end unemployment, asked: "Is there anything a conference can tell us that we do not know? What we want is action—not a conference." A special session of Parliament, he believed, should be called immediately after the election to proceed with national undertakings and relieve conditions not only for the present, but for the coming winter.

TARIFF QUESTION

Every country in the world except Canada, Mr. Bennett said, had raised its tariff since the Great War and there was great stimulus to production. "The King administration," he went on, "proceeded to lower the tariff of the Dominion and has lowered it three times in eight years.

A man in the audience arose. In spite of the low tariff rates in Canada, he said, there was less unemployment.

There was a mingling of booing and cheering.

"Ladies and gentlemen," Mr. Bennett broke in, "that is a fair question, but unfortunately it is not true."

The opposition leader said he invited any fair question and again the man rose as if to speak. A policeman approached him and he left the hall.

THIRTY YEARS IN FIELD

At the Conservative luncheon in Toronto Mr. Bennett said:

"Thirty years ago I entered the public life of this country. I can claim through all that time to have been closely in touch with political affairs, and to have taken part in many election campaigns.

"But in my experience, never before has there been the same subordination of place and class interests to the interests of Canada as a whole; and never before have I known the people of all callings in all provinces so nobly determined to advance that interest by their united effort."

To the people of Canada so minded, the Conservative leader said he had presented the policies of his party. He had said that in them there would not be found any appeal to sectionalism or pandering to a class.

LATEST NEWS SHOWS HOLDINGS ACQUIRED BY PENNSYLVANIA RLY.

Pennroad Corporation Investment affiliate of the Pennsylvania Railway announced that it had tightened its grip on the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railway, and also had acquired holdings in the Delaware & Hudson, the Southern Pacific Co., Missouri, Kansas & Texas, and the Baltimore & Ohio, with the holdings directly controlled by the Pennsylvania Railway. The new acquisition gives working control of the New England line.

Consolidated Gas Co. of New York—Because of the increased use of gas for residential heating purposes the Consolidated Gas Co. of New York announced that it had filed with the Public Service Commission a new schedule of rates proposing a twenty per cent reduction in the charge for gas intended for such use. If the approval of the commission is obtained the new schedule, applying only to consumers whose heating requirements are at least sixty per cent of their total annual gas consumption, will go into effect on August 1.

Oil—Considerable criticism is being voiced by oil observers of the recent predictions by some financial writers of a collapse of retail oil prices this fall. At the same time a great deal of complimentary comment is heard on the position which Standard Oil of New Jersey took some months ago in declining to be a party to a general boost in service station prices for gasoline at the start of the big consuming season. Such action would have weakened the price situation and might have led to chaos later in the year, it is remarked. At the same time the holding of prices at current levels has aided in bringing all refiners to the realization that by over-production of gasoline they must be doing something very detrimental to their companies and to the oil industry as a whole. Executives of the leading companies assert that with refining and crude producing operations so reduced that large amounts of oil are being withdrawn from storage, it will be possible to maintain stable prices this fall and winter.

North American Co.—When stockholders of the North American Co. on August 6 approve the proposed changes in capitalization, the company will assume a place among the largest industrials. One of the changes in the capital structure will be an increase in the authorized common stock from 10,000,000 to 50,000,000 shares, and this action will give North American rank with the utilities which have the largest common share capitalization. When plans for the capital change were announced, rumors started that North American planned to acquire new properties and otherwise engage in a campaign of expansion, but Frank L. Dame, the president, steadfastly denies that the company had anything like this in view. Mr. Dame points out that North American Co. must provide for normal expansion, its needs in that direction being indicated by its steady growth in the last 10 years.

British Can Co.—Formation of a new company to consolidate American stock interests in the British Can Co. Ltd. will be announced in the near future, the New York American learns. It is expected the stock of the new holding company will be listed on one of the American Exchanges.

Additional areas planted in rubber in Sumatra last year brought the total acreage up to nearly 900,000.

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S OPPORTUNITY

JUDGING FROM THE ABLE MANNER in which Mr. W. F. Hanbury, Liberal candidate for the Vancouver constituency of Burrard, expounded the policies of the party to which he belongs to an enthusiastic audience at the Empress Hotel last evening, the next Parliament will find in him a very useful addition to the forces which Mr. Mackenzie King again will lead.

Opposing Mr. Hanbury as the Conservative party's standard-bearer is Mr. R. J. Hamilton, who is on record as opposed to the Australian trade treaty and to the British preference. Mr. Hanbury, on the other hand, sees in the Dunning budget a new opportunity for Canadian industry and a practical means of developing Canadian trade with Great Britain in particular and with the empire in general.

Mr. Hanbury combines youth and enthusiasm with a thorough understanding of the needs of the constituency he hopes to represent at Ottawa, while his grasp of national conditions and national aspirations adequately equips him for public service. After his address last night, more than ordinary interest will be manifested locally in the result of the poll in Burrard next Monday.

It is natural, of course, that Mr. Hanbury should be vitally concerned about the fate of the trade treaties with the Antipodean Dominions and the development of trade with the empire generally. He recognizes, as do Liberals everywhere in this province, that British Columbia's industry has derived enormous benefits from the operation of the arrangement with Australia in particular. Indeed, our whole maritime business on this coast is related in the most direct manner to the promotion of business between Canada and the Pacific countries of the empire.

This is patent even to the Tolmie government—although its ministers and supporters in the Legislature are out campaigning for the very man who would at once put an end to the present treaty if he could have his way. With provincial funds it very properly assisted the delegation of British Columbia lumbermen who recently toured Australia and New Zealand with the object of stimulating the demand for our forest products.

It is inconceivable, as Mr. Hanbury suggests, that anybody in this province should support a party that would not hesitate to strike a blow at inter-empire trade. Yet Mr. Bennett and his followers have announced in specific terms their implacable hostility to the existing agreements with the Antipodes, the British West Indies, and the tariff concessions which enable goods from Great Britain to enter Canada at a lower rate of duty than is charged on goods from foreign countries.

If Mr. Bennett had his way, he would try to club Britain and demand that the British people be taxed still further in order to give us a bigger economic advantage—already in our favor to the tune of approximately three dollars to one. The Conservative leader says he would "blast" his way into the markets of the world. His party stands alone in its disregard of that time-honored axiom that trade, to be worth anything in the long run, must be based upon good faith and goodwill—not upon the "blasting" process of a politician hungry for office.

In this matter of trade with the empire Canada has established herself as the leader—under Liberal governments. In this election, therefore, the whole question takes on new significance. It is for the people to decide next Monday whether they prefer to endorse an administration pledged to develop business between the members of the Britannic Commonwealth of Nations, to reduce the empire's dependence for supplies from foreign countries, or whether they will send a government to Ottawa which, on the open confession of the leader who wants to be called upon to form it, would at once put an end to all the inter-empire treaties into which Canada has entered, and abolish the British preference.

The issue, therefore, is Canada with the empire, or against empire? The endorsement of the King government assures greater economic co-operation with all British countries.

AN IMPARTIAL VIEW

WRITING IN "AGRICULTURAL AND Industrial Progress in Canada," a monthly review published by the Department of Immigration and Colonization of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, Mr. John F. Sweeting, the company's industrial commissioner for western lines, says summer trading in the west is on a fair level, and that with it is a feeling of confidence as to the immediate future.

Recent investigations suggest to Mr. Sweeting greater stability in the affairs of this part of Canada than is generally believed. Although it is recognized that the range of business operations has been somewhat restricted, in company with the rest of this continent, the west is to-day less affected than at one time was the case. Output of the products of agriculture, and of manufactured articles, is greater and more varied, and there is to-day in the prairie provinces a development of natural resources in mining and non-metallic minerals, together with new developments, that are producing trade openings in what is a constantly expanding market. The increase in railway construction, the building up of the tourist trade, and the opening of the mining areas are important factors in this relation, Mr. Sweeting concludes.

This official's impartial view of economic conditions in the territory to which his activities are confined is strangely in contrast with the doleful pictures which some politicians are painting. Mr. Sweeting has no political axe to grind, so he expresses himself with absolute candor. His opinion should carry weight.

PREFERS A YELLOW DOG

MR. C. H. DICKIE'S REMARK THAT Nanaimo would be better represented at Ottawa by a yellow dog than by the best Liberal mind is unworthy of one who has sat in the House of Commons for nine years and who aspires to sit there again. It is a reflection upon the constituency in which he is a candidate and an insult to a large number of electors of that district who, no matter what their political views may be, are good citizens and entitled to respect. We take it for granted that not many of Mr. Dickie's own followers share his petty view in this particular, and that most of them are heartily ashamed of it.

There is a certain special significance in Mr. Dickie's splenetic outburst, however, which no doubt will arrest the attention and engage the thought of the voters of Nanaimo constituency. They are likely to ask themselves how any member charged with so much bitterness against a large proportion of the people of his own district, and whose point of view in political matters is so restricted, can effectively represent them in Parliament. Is it Mr. Dickie's idea that whoever is elected for Nanaimo district represents merely those who voted for him? Does he think that this is the way to promote at Ottawa the progress and welfare of one of the most promising sections of British Columbia? We are sure Nanaimo realizes that nothing could impair its prospects more seriously than a representation in Parliament based upon so narrow a conception of responsible government.

A DAY OF DISASTER

FROM GERMANY AND SOUTHERN Italy to-day comes news of disaster which has carried death and destruction in its wake. More than one hundred merry-makers who had been watching the pyrotechnic display arranged for President Hindenburg's visit to Coblence went to their death last night as the pontoon bridge which spans the Moselle just before it enters the Rhine collapsed under the unusual strain imposed upon it. Darkness naturally hampered the work of rescue and before very much could be done the unfortunate victims had been claimed by the swirling waters. Something like 250 people in southern Italy lost their lives in a series of earthquakes which occurred this morning.

Precaution, perhaps, might have prevented the disaster which has shocked the whole of the Rhine valley and plunged a nation into mourning just at the time it was enjoying the festivities which marked President Hindenburg's part in the celebrations following the evacuation of Allied troops. The disaster in Italy, however, is a stern reminder of Nature's unaccountable moods. At almost regular intervals it seems that that unhappy country must suffer the effects of the earth's convulsions. Nothing can be done about it. Compared with these processes even the power of a Mussolini is as nothing. Old Vesuvius mocks the dictatorship.

MILLIONS OUT

MR. PLUNKETT IS GETTING VERY careless with his figures. He told the workers at the plant of the Victoria Machinery Depot yesterday that Canada last year bought goods from the United States to the value of $980,000,000 and sold to that country only between $400,000,000 and $500,000,000 worth.

The Conservative candidate is entirely wrong. If he will consult the official figures issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, he will discover that in the fiscal year ending with last March Canada's imports from the United States were valued at $847,466,079, or a decrease of more than $20,000,000 compared with the previous twelve months. He also will discover that our exports to the neighboring republic in the fiscal year ending with last March were valued at $536,611,950, or an increase of nearly $16,000,000 compared with the previous twelve months.

It will be observed from the official statistics that Mr. Plunkett is out $133,000,000 in the value he gives for last year's imports from the United States, and anywhere from $36,000,000 to $136,000,000 out in the value he gives for exports in the same period.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

THE MONROE DOCTRINE

The New York Times

No longer do the nations of Latin America need the shielding support of the United States. For the present, at least, there are no indications that any European nation thinks of extending its sovereignty over any portion of the New World. If only there were like assurances that the United States would no longer find itself obliged to assume responsibilities in the Caribbean area when danger threatens, most of the fear of the United States in Latin America would disappear. Time alone will convince the Latin-Americans that the United States has no "imperialistic" designs in that region, and desires nothing so much as to see the smaller and less advanced States—such as Haiti and Santo Domingo—able to keep order and live up to their obligations without American intervention.

RADIO LISTENERS AND THEIR LETTERS

The Ether-vator in World Radio (London)

It is almost a truism to say that the psychology of the listener is one of the most interesting problems of broadcasting. Stations all the world over receive daily probably hundreds of letters written by listeners in all walks of life, in which in one way or another, opinions on the programmes are expressed. The programme department of a broadcasting authority undoubtedly learns a great deal from these letters, which frequently serve as a valuable guide in programme-building. Listeners are at any given moment composed of so many varying types that it would be interesting for a broadcasting station to collate and publish a suitable selection of such letters, so that the writers could see themselves as in a mirror. A correspondent informs me that the Westdeutsche Rundfunk has occupied itself with this question for some time past, and that it is about to publish a book entitled "The Listener and Ourselves." The object of this publication appears to be primarily to classify the various types of listeners on the strength of a large number of letters received. We shall there read of the "querulous listener," of the "well-meaning listener," of the "listener with the small horizon," and of many other sections of the listening public. Great pains are being taken with the compilation of this book, and I am looking forward with interest to its publication, which will probably take place during the autumn.

A THOUGHT

Light is sown for the righteous, and gladness for the upright in heart.—Psalms xcvii 11.

True gladness does not always speak: joy, bred and born but in the tongue, is weak.—Richter.

Loose Ends

Mr. Hoover makes a profound utterance—which is all wrong—the weather inspires remarkable sagacity and—the government looks out the window.

By H. B. W.

PRESIDENT HOOVER made a present the other day of a copy of the Declaration of Independence to a friend in Rochester, N.Y. Beneath the signatures of John Hancock and the others, Mr. Hoover wrote: "No American of our generation could worthily add his signature among these men." This, surely, is a remarkable and intriguing statement. It is the opinion of the President of the United States that the public men of this time do not equal in character and ability the public men of the eighteenth century—that the men who are carrying on the Republic are not as worthy of their trust as the men who founded it. If this be so, it is a serious matter indeed. It is serious not only because it shows a decline in the standards of public life in the United States, but because it shows a decline in the ability and character of the whole nation. For the public men nowadays, by and large, reflect the nation with remarkable accuracy. Fortunately, Mr. Hoover is probably quite wrong.

IN THE FIRST place, of course, the fathers of American independence had a simple job compared to the problems of modern statecraft. To fight the war with Britain and draft a constitution required tremendous courage, but it was straightaway business. In those days the world ran according to simple rules which anyone could understand. The signers of the declaration knew that if they did certain things, certain results would follow. But their successors in the United States Congress have no idea what will happen when they do anything. All the old rules of the game have disappeared and new ones have not yet been discovered. The United States is at the highest pitch of prosperity one month and the next it is in the trough of a great depression, and every economist has a different explanation for it. Something happens in Wall Street and millions of investors are suddenly wiped out. A tariff is erected to protect the watermelon industry of Mississippi and for some curious reason the glove industry of New Jersey is thrown into disorder. All the peoples of the world want disarmament and no more war, and most of them are busy piling up armaments and preparing for a war which probably would destroy them.

THE FATHERS of the Republic had nothing like this to cope with and probably could do no better than the men who are trying to cope with it now. Our abilities have not declined but probably have developed rapidly since the days of our ancestors. The trouble is that the difficulties of our civilization have developed still more rapidly. Our ancestors were on top of their job, for the world changed slowly then, and they had plenty of time to master it. The world changes so fast now that it is always ahead of our understanding. The job is on top of us. It is not as comfortable as it used to be, but it is far more interesting.

HUMAN THOUGHT reaches its most dizzy heights in contemplation of the weather, and particularly of warm weather. I suppose that before noon to-day I met and spoke with a dozen men, and each one of them made identically the same profound observation, "Hot to-day, what?" I began to think after a while that it might be true. But our heat here is a poor imitation of the weather which, according to the researches of The Manchester Guardian, swept over England in the year 1389, and the recalling of which may have a cooling effect now. In that year one Nicholas Coxe recorded that the heat was so intense that it burnt a great hole in an unnamed river near Bedford, so that the people could walk along the dry river bed, while the water stood straight up like a wall at each end of the burnt-up stretch. The veracity of this record cannot be questioned, for the worthy Nicholas was an angler and accustomed to tell the truth. While he did not say what he and the other anglers were doing during this interesting phenomenon, it is believed that they patrolled the river bed with a basket and picked up grilled trout. And I have no doubt that they also said one to another, as profoundly as we do now, "Hot to-day, what?" Whereat their neighbors would reply with equal sagacity, "Yes, but it's not the heat, it's the humidity."

I SEE BY the papers that the government of British Columbia is going to strain all its resources to save the three sick maple trees on Belleville Street. While this column was the first agency to call the attention of the government to the plight of these trees, I do not flatter myself to the extent of believing that I am responsible for the government's decision. Still, as the announcement of this decision followed within a day or two of this column's little plea, the coincidence is curious. Experts of the department of agriculture, the papers say, are going to investigate the condition of the trees, see what is wrong with them and prescribe a remedy. No doubt they will say that the theory of this column, namely, that the trees are starving to death for lack of new soil, is all nonsense. Still, it is as sound as any other theory, unless the experts can find some better explanation for the dejected and deathlike look of the maples. If they can cure them and restore their withering foliage to its old luxuriance, I shall not quarrel with them over their diagnosis. The cure is the thing. The papers say that Premier Tolmie and Attorney-General Pooley looked out of their office windows last week and were appalled at the aspect of the maples, for both of them are men who know and admire trees, Dr. Tolmie being the proud owner of what is believed to be the largest oak in Canada. I do not wonder that they are appalled. The maples of Parliament Square took half a century to grow, and at the present rate will probably be dead in another year or two.

NOT INVOLVED

To the Editor:—A Toronto weekly publication of widespread circulation contains a statement in its current issue associating the Canadian fine paper manufacturers with certain political propaganda aimed at the Liberal party and attempts to hold them responsible for the same. Will you kindly extend to us the courtesy of your columns to deny unequivocally the truth of the statement. The paper manufacturers, as such, are taking no part in the election and are not concerned with politics in any shape or form. They have had no more to do with the propaganda in question, either collectively or individually, and are no more responsible for the same, than the writer of the article to which they take exception.

DISLIKES OUR LEVITY

To the Editor:—I would like to voice my humble but vigorous protest against the general levity of remarks in your 'leader' of yesterday, regarding the recent regrettable incident in the House of Commons.

John Beckett is given undue publicity for his childishness, which brought discredit on himself and on the Labor Party to which he unfortunately belongs.

Contrary to your opinion as expressed, school children in England or elsewhere are very unlikely to confuse such foolishness with any historical event, because of any similarity of names.

'Comparisons are odorous'; there was dignity in the process of removal 'of the bauble,' the lack of which displayed by Labor Member John Beckett, it is hoped will be punished by a permanent suspension, and in conclusion I would frankly admit that it is hard to understand why The Times should make so little effort to maintain a dignified aloofness from commenting on the "sorry" act of such a nonentity.

MUSIC IN THE SCHOOLS

To the Editor:—When one peruses the syllabus of the Summer School for teachers being held in Victoria High School, it convinces you that music and its kindred subject are being given their rightful place and attention in the curriculum of our school system. There are six courses and five teachers under this heading out of a total of twenty-six courses in the syllabus, which fact will no doubt prove to our teachers the importance the Provincial Department of Education attach to this subject now.

An announcement in the syllabus that is worthy of note by the parents of all children or students who are learning or are able to play an orchestral instrument, is as follows:

"Students of Summer School are invited to bring their musical instruments, in order that they may take part in the work of the Summer School orchestra.

"There will be a daily practice, and the organization of High School orchestras will be duly considered, together with suitable music for same.

"This is an excellent opportunity for the Summer School students to continue their musical studies."

This, I believe, is a new departure and under the able leadership of Mr. Harold Taylor should be of great benefit to our young musicians, who are in a position to take advantage of same.

The attention given to music and singing in our public schools has gradually increased during the last four or five years, and to my mind one of the most interesting and valuable school periods to the students is the music appreciation lesson. This study or subject is taught through the medium of special records, reproduced by the means of one of the latest type phonographs.

Either the record explains itself or the teacher reads the explanatory text from the music appreciation textbook which accompanies the set of records.

It would be well to mention here that these phonographs are not provided by the school boards, but are obtained by the principals out of the funds raised by themselves, or purchased by the schools' Parent-teacher Association.

The class method of teaching music that has come to the fore of late years in certain of the city schools is to be commended, as it has permitted a large number of school children to take up the study of piano or violin, who perhaps would not have been able to have done so otherwise.

Mr. George J. Dyke, an exponent of every phase of music, was permitted to commence several classes in the schools here some years back and enrolled a large number of students for the violin. During the past three or four years he has gathered the violin pupils together and given several concerts at various city schools, these concerts certainly proved to the majority of the parents that the class method was fundamentally sound.

The class method of piano teaching has been in operation for the past year at two of the city schools. Mrs. Marion MacGovern is conducting same in the Quadra School, and Miss Olive Campbell teaching the class method in Sir James Douglas School. Having attended several class demonstrations held by the above teachers, I am convinced that this method is excellent and well worthy of the support that it is getting from music-loving parents.

By the class method the pupil may lose a little in individual attention from the teacher, but on the other hand, the class method offers them many splendid advantages, such as the opportunity to compare their work and progress with that of others, the privilege of hearing others work criticized and commended, the great advantage of the group enthusiasm and friendly competition which is engendered.

Theory and the fundamental principals of music are much more easily taught in classes.

Personally, I hope that this class method of teaching will be extended to every public school in our city, as the pupils seem to thoroughly enjoy their work and, further, it is endorsed by several music organizations, bureaus and schol boards.

A YELLOW DOG

To the Editor:—The Liberal Party seem to be very fortunate in bringing out vote catchers, such as they are accused of in the Dunning budget, but if we had a few more Mr. Dickie's helping us Mr. Bennett should have few supporters in the House of Commons in the next Parliament. Mr. Dickie having reduced his Conservative friends to the status of a yellow dog, should be equal to reducing his own status to that of "has been" on the political scrap heap, Mr. Dickie no doubt would be among the first to whine at his humiliation if he had to sit beside a yellow dog as a supporter of Mr. Bennett. No doubt the Liberals of Nanaimo are elated at the prospect of getting rid of Mr. Dickie, as well as the satisfaction of know they do not have to stoop to such tactics to get votes.

I. PLAYFAIR.

SOME ARGUMENTS

To the Editor:—During the Conservative meeting held in the Sir James Douglas School in support of Mr. Plunkett on Friday night, the Conservative speakers were loud in their praise of the qualities and statesmanship of Mr. Bennett. Mr. Lindsay Crease, K.C., speaking of Mr. Bennett, drew attention to the history of his life, and mentioned that he is a true Canadian, a true statesman, and a big man. He did not mention if Mr. Bennett represented the "moneyed class" or the "workers," also, how he was going to solve the unemployment situation which we hear so much about, when some of the brightest and most influential men in the world are trying to solve the same problem. While Mr. Bennett may be a big man, I think that the voters of Victoria know that it will take a much bigger man than Mr. Bennett to solve our unemployment situation here in Canada, and that no one big man can do so, as it is a world condition. He also drew attention to his great success in business. This may be so; but did he make his success by trading with Great Britain and the British Empire, or with the United States? And who now owns control of the E. B. Eddy Match Company of Hull, Quebec. This I understand was once owned by R. B. Bennett. Is it now owned by British or American capitalists?

Harold A. Beckwith accused Mr. MacKenzie King of acrobatic feats, backflips, somersaults, etc., and said that he occupied every position on the stage from the back-drop to the footlights. Any of the people of Victoria who attended the public meetings held by Mr. Bennett and Dr. Manion in Victoria, know that Mr. MacKenzie King cannot compare in any way with the acrobatic feats put on by those gentlemen. The speech of Mr. King at the Royal Victoria Theatre was a masterpiece of statesmanship. Can the voters of Victoria say the same of the speeches of Mr. Bennett and Dr. Manion? True, we were treated to a rapid barrage of elegant words, but I for one, failed to hear a real constructive policy brought forward in the interests of Canada by either speaker, but heard speeches consisting of nothing but mud-slinging and fault-finding of one of the best governments that Canada has ever had. (Most thinking Conservatives will agree with me that these are the facts).

R. A. Wootton, president of the Victoria Conservative Association, declared that the Liberal government had allowed the country to become flooded with eggs from the U.S.A., and while he condemns the importation of eggs into this country, he did not mention the number of eggs which we export to Great Britain and Australia each year. He also condemns the treatment to the dairymen of British Columbia. How many dairymen in the Fraser Valley, for instance, want to, or will, manufacture butter even if the importation of butter into this country was prohibited. My observations from this point are that most of the farmers of this country prefer to sell their milk and cream for the manufacture of ice cream, condensed milk and powdered milk. However, Mr. Wotton may be in a better position than I to judge the dairy business, being a good lawyer, he may be in closer touch with the farmers. But for the information of Mr. Wootton, I would like to draw his attention to the stand of Dr. Tolmie in the House of Commons, when Minister of Agriculture, in reply to a resolution brought forward by A. W. Neil of Alberni, on May 15, 1922, on behalf of the dairymen of Canada,

Dr. Tolmie: "I do not think that the dairymen of Canada have a right to demand such protection. If the buttermakers of the United States can make butter at a profit, not withstanding he sale of oleomargerine in that country, surely the Canadian dairymen can do likewise."

In a four-page speech of Hansard, the doctor defended the sale of oleomargerine. He considered butter too high at 48 cents per pound, in comparison to oleomargerine at 26 cents per pound.

Hansard, 1922, page 1,786, volume 2: In 1918 oleomargerine manufactured in Canada was 10,683,179 pounds. Imported for use, 3,494,822 pounds.

I leave it to the housewife whether it is better to import good New Zealand butter into Canada at a reasonable price or to use much inferior oleomargerine at 26 cents per pound.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Truth" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday. The Golden Text was from Psalms 108, 3, 4, "I will praise thee, O Lord, among the people, and I will sing praises unto thee among the nations. For thy mercy is great above the heavens, and thy truth reacheth unto the clouds."

One of the Scriptural texts contained in the lesson-sermon was: "Lord, who shall abide in thy tabernacle? Who shall dwell in thy holy hill? He that walketh uprightly, and worketh righteousness, and speaketh the truth in his heart." (Psalms xv, 1, 2).

Following the reading of the Bible texts, passages were also read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, one passage being the following from page 261: "Hold thought steadfastly to the enduring, the good, and the true, and you will bring these into your experience proportionably to their occupancy of your thoughts."

Price Fixing Schemes, Dangerously Expensive, Prolong Depression

By LAURENCE STERN

The final break-down of "New Era" psychology in recent months appears to emphasize the fact that the years have brought no real change in the complex factors underlying cyclical changes in the business trend.

Many serious students still believe it should be possible for business, under national leadership, to cope with such changes, to minimize their effects, if not to avoid them. The record of 1930 gives little support to this theory. It is now universally realized that political efforts to meet the economic issue have failed.

No quarrel can be found with the idealistic hope that modern business will find ways and means of eliminating past errors of judgment. The essential trouble is that economic experiments can be confined to the laboratory. They are dangerously expensive, and, in practice, we have abundant evidence that they frequently make matters worse.

Unfortunately, there is no reason to believe that the lessons of 1930 will have any more permanent influence than those of 1907 or 1921. One of the lessons of almost all past depressions is that recovery is retarded by the reluctance of retailers to conform promptly with the decline in wholesale commodity prices.

That situation is duplicated to-day as it was in 1921. Apparently it finds correction only in the gradual process of competition, with some of the larger selling organizations eventually exercising a price-cutting leadership striking enough to command attention and imitation.

It would seem that the hopelessness of most price-fixing arrangements had been conclusively demonstrated in recent years. Artificial support has been an utter failure in wheat, in copper, in rubber, in cotton, in coffee and in sugar.

Yet there are recurrent indications that the theory is not dead. A responsible Senator suggests that the Farm Board buy another hundred million bushels of wheat with public money. Brazil talks of burning 4,000,000 bags of coffee. Cuba concentrates anew on thoughts of controlled sugar production.

SCHEMES FAIL

It is bad enough that the various price-fixing schemes have failed. It is worse that by interfering with normal economic adjustments they have very likely intensified and prolonged the general depression.

In an interesting discussion of this general subject, the Alexander Hamilton Institute says, in part:

"There remains a body of opinion which holds that positive damage has been done by efforts at the stabilization of wheat and cotton prices. It is pointed out that, encouraged by the efforts of stabilization and optimistic utterances, confidence has been stimulated and purchases on a scale down encouraged. It is further said that hedging, a normal method of price insurance, has been discouraged, through uncertainty as to the position of a buyer with tremendous financial resources. But going further than the immediate results of efforts at price stabilization in the wheat and cotton markets, there is the entire matter of artificial price control. Is it sound? Will it ever work?

"It is to be recalled that in not a few cases, genuine ills have induced measures of artificial control. The coffee planters received low prices when their production glutted seaboard markets. Brazil sought to remedy this by withholding coffee from the seaboard. Rubber prices were at discouragingly low levels when measures of control were adopted.

"But the remedy, tested in the laboratory of experience, has not worked. Whether known as valorization or restriction or pooling, the method has been the same—to hold a surplus of production from the market in order to prevent its depressing effect on prices. The prices thus established have been artificial. In every case there has followed an increase of production when producers not affected by restrictions or those enabled to produce at a profit because of the high price have expanded outputs and added to the surplus on hand. Finally, there has been the growth of the surplus to unwieldy size; problems of financing, of storage or of loss of markets—and then abandonment.

"The record appears clear that artificial control cannot combat the normal working of the forces of demand and supply. So long as an economic order exists in which a high price encourages production and discourages consumption, an effort to maintain an artificial price in cases where there is anything short of a monopoly has always been foredoomed to failure. And a monopoly price must yield in the face of a falling off in purchasing power and a decline in demand for the product.

"While these things are true, they do not necessarily support a conclusion that all co-operative effort to improve prices is necessarily unsound. There is a human factor. In every case where control has been attempted, the effort has been to establish a price as high as the traffic would bear. The difficulty has lain in part in overreaching. A survey of the many efforts put forth at control will show some stages in which that control has been highly or partially effective—but invariably a stage in which too much has been attempted and the result of charging all the traffic would bear has resulted in a detour of the traffic."

AMTORG INQUIRY

New York, July 23.—The president and vice-president of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, which spends more than $100,000,000 in the United States every year, testified yesterday that although Amtorg, a United States corporation, was directed by the Soviet Government, it took no part in communistic or other political activities. The inquiry is being held by a committee of the House of Representatives.

BRIGHT SKIDWAY FOR EXHIBITION

Browning Amusement Company Will Again Bring Many Attractions

Announcement was made to-day by W. H. Mearns, secretary of the British Columbia Agricultural Association, that the Browning Amusement Company of Salem, Ore., will again bring over its best equipment to brighten the skidway of the Provincial Fall Fair at the Willows from August 18 to August 23.

The Browning Amusement Company, which has as great a variety of attractions as any operator on the continent, will provide the usual color and merriment without which no fair is complete. The old favorite merry-go-rounds will be on hand supplemented by many later inventions. There will be rides especially for children and bigger and more exciting rides to thrill the adults. The largest ferry wheel ever operated in Victoria will give fair visitors a chance to soar to a height where they can overlook all the fair grounds and see a large part of the city of Victoria. There will be a smaller ferris wheel for children.

A glider, a whip, a zoomer, baby seaplanes and miniature ferris wheels, minstrel and circus side shows, wrestling and the usual concessions there blankets, hams, gay dolls, gold fish, canaries or other glittering prizes are offered will also be in the Skidway.

IT GAVE ME NEW LEASE ON LIFE

Reports of Remarkable Results From Sargon Continue to Pour In

Within the past few years medical science has made some amazing discoveries—discoveries that will have a far-reaching effect upon the health and well-being of humanity. Many of the beliefs, practices and theories we have followed for a life-time have been absolutely disproved and the old discarded for the new.

Out of this maze of scientific research and investigation has been evolved a new, revolutionary formula—Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills—a powerful, invigorating treatment whose triumphs over stubborn and almost hopeless cases have literally amazed thousands who have put it to the test.

Introduced in this section only a short time ago, reports are already pouring in telling of the remarkable results Sargon produces. Read what Mrs. Mary A. Burman, 518 College Street, St. James, Winnipeg, recently said:

"For two years I suffered almost continually with pains in my right side and back, that were almost more than I could stand. Whenever I bent over slightly, it felt like a knife was sticking through me and it was an effort for me to try to do anything—the least exertion made me gasp for breath. A rheumatic condition settled in my knees; I became subject to chronic constipation and for years was forced to take a laxative almost daily.

"Through a friend of mine I learned about this new Sargon treatment and three bottles improved my condition so wonderfully, I can scarcely realize I was ever the victim of such suffering. It rid me of every pain and ache I had; gave me new strength and energy, and a new lease on life itself!

"One of the things I'm proud of most is that, for the first time in years, I am free from chronic constipation. The Sargon Soft Mass Pills, that they recommend with the tonic, get credit for that and have regulated me in such a thorough, natural manner, I no longer have to dose myself with laxatives of any kind.

"I appreciate the wonderful new health the Sargon treatment brought me and only hope that my experience will prove a message of cheer to others."

Sargon may be obtained in Victoria and Vancouver from all Owl Drug Stores, in New Westminster from the Bews Drug Co., and in Esquimalt from Fulmer's Drug Store. (Advt.)

CANADA DOLLAR BEST IN WORLD

New York Shipping Gold Here to Make Up Exchange Balance

New York, June 23.—The Canadian dollar is now the highest valued money in the world. It is worth more than the United States dollar, and to hold the balance New York is shipping gold to Canada.

The Canadian dollar is up and the United States dollar down to such an extent that shipments of gold to Canada in the present movement reached a total of $2,000,000 with the announcement to-day that an additional $1,000,000 had been sent to the Dominion. The Canadian Bank of Commerce shipped $1,000,000 yesterday.

The second was disclosed in withdrawals listed in the daily gold statement of the Federal Reserve Bank. The identity of the shipper was not known.

At the close of last week the Canadian dollar reached a premium of 5-32 of one per cent. At which figure a slight profit could be made in shipping gold to Canada.

Transactions were arranged on the basis of last week's price, and only a reaction in the exchange yesterday prevented a much heavier export.

Sleep in Any Position You Feel Best, Say Medical Experts

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

There are all sorts of opinions as to the way in which people want to sleep. Even the United States army urges soldiers to lie flat, sit straight, stand tall, and during sleep not to pull up. The vast majority of medical authorities recommend that one avoid sleeping on the back because this has been associated with bad dreams.

It has been argued that one should not sleep on the left side because this interferes with free action of the heart and requires the stomach to pump its contents against the force of gravity. The vast majority of medical authorities tell people to sleep in any position in which one can sleep most comfortably and sleep best.

In order to determine just how people sleep and in what position, investigators in the Mellon Institute developed a device for photographing a normal man while asleep. Beside his bed a clock was placed and the motion picture camera used in the investigation revealed the position of the patient and the time at which he happened to be in that position; at the same time an automatic device recorded the change in position and the time at which it took place.

Not only were records made of the normal man, but also of patients in a tuberculosis sanatorium, and of young children, so that in all 150 people were studied. The most typical of the healthy sleepers changed from one position to another between twenty and forty-five times in any night of eight hours' sleep. The shortest period between changes of position was two and a half minutes. Practically half of the postures that the sleeper assumed were held for less than five minutes; about one-fifth, from five to ten minutes; about one-tenth, from ten to fifteen minutes. Less often than once a night did a healthy sleeper lie in one position for an hour. Only when a person was given a heavy dosage of sleeping medicine did he lie in one position very long. A healthy sleeper never lay in one position for two hours.

In concluding their consideration, the workers of the Mellon Institute point out that apparently the most restful, quiet sleep is characterized by the use of a considerable variety of bodily positions, all of which are contorted; none of which indicate anything like complete relaxation of the muscles, such as one may observe in a fainting person. The change of positions seems to be well adapted to the relief of irritation of some portion of the body set by the last position, or perhaps by the day's activities. In order to get a healthy person to spend a night in any one position it would seem to be necessary to strap him on a frame or else to put him in a cast and then prop up the cast.

LOCAL DOCTOR WED IN EAST

Dr. J. L. M. Anderson, Late of Jubilee, Marries Miss Matlack

A well-known victoria doctor was the bridegroom in the ceremony which took place in Toronto recently, when Miss Marjorie Matlack, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Matlack, was united in marriage to Dr. John Lovell Murray Ahderson, only son of Rev. and Mrs. F. W. Anderson, of Nanaimo. The officiating clergyman was Rev. Dr. J. Lovell Murray, uncle of the groom, assisted by Rev. Dr. R. S. Laidlaw, minister of Erskine United Church.

Dr. Anderson has been house doctor at the Jubilee Hospital during the past year, but recently accepted the position of superintendent of St. George's Hospital at Alert Bay.

The ceremony took place on Saturday afternoon, July 19, in the chapel of the Canadian School of Missions, University Campus. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was charming in a graceful gown of flesh shade chiffon and lace, the long tulle veil being arranged in cap style and caught with pearls. Her bouquet was of bridal roses, lilies of the valley and Shasta daisies.

Her attendants were Miss Ruth Knatz, of Detroit, as maid of honor; Miss Eleanor Griffith and Miss Margaret Banfield, of Toronto, and Miss Mary Hostetler, of Fort Wayne, Ind., as bridesmaids. All of these wore similar frocks of lace in pale shades of green, mauve, blue and canary, respectively, with large mohair hats trimmed with streamers of matching velvet ribbon. They carried old-fashioned nosegays of mixed flowers.

The groom was attended by Mr. Joseph Roy Matlack, and the ushers were Dr. Will Young, Dr. King Johnston and Mr. Bruce Murray, all of Toronto. The widding music was played by Miss Irwin, organist of Erskine United Church, and Mr. Arthur Brown, Toronto's popular baritone, sang during the signing of the register.

A reception was held after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, 451 Parkside Drive, when Mrs. Matlack welcomed the guests, wearing an attractive gown of black and white flowered chiffon with matching hat and corsage bouquet of pink roses. The bride and groom left immediately after the reception for the Pacific Coast. They arrived in Nanaimo after a short stay at Banff and Lake Louise en route, and will spend a week as guests of Rev. and Mrs. F. W. Anderson in St. Andrew's manse. After August 1 they will be at home at Alert Bay.

Mrs. J. O. Cameron Chosen President of Victoria Musical Arts Society

Mrs. J. O. Cameron was unanimously elected president of the recently organized Victoria Musical Arts Society at the first meeting of the new board of directors held yesterday afternoon. Other officers elected were: First vice-president, Mrs. W. B. McMicking; second vice-president, Mrs. F. G. Aldous; secretary, Mrs. T. H. Johns; treasurer, Miss G. Harper. Conveners of committees appointed were: Programme, Mrs. W. A. Jameson; press, Mrs. T. H. Johns, Mr. Burdon-Murphy; printing, Mrs. J. Rose.

The discusions of the directors resulted in many proposals and plans which when incorporated into the programme of the new society will make it an outstanding factor for the promotion of music and art in the city.

The programmes for the season are to be highly educative in character dealing, particularly with modern music. A proposal to form study clubs within the society met with favor. Any phase of art which would interest a group of the members such as the opera, the drama, terpsichorean art, may be studied in the group and the results of the research be presented for the benefit of the whole society.

JUNIOR CLUB

A junior club will be carried on by the society on a large scale and the fostering of amateur talent is one of the objectives of the Musical Art Society.

The programme committee is arranging a very outstanding programme for the opening meeting in September, at which meeting anyone wishing to join is most heartily invited to do so. It is hoped that everyone, ladies and gentlemen, interested in the promotion of music and the allied arts in this city will become a member of the Musical Arts Society. Membership cards may be obtained by writing to the secretary, Mrs. T. H. Johns, 27 Olympia Avenue.

QUIET WEDDING AT CEDAR HILL

Miss Florence V. Bond Becomes Bride of John E. Pugh

At St. Luke's Church, Cedar Hill, attractively decorated with masses of Shasta daisies and roses for the happy occasion, the marriage was quietly solemnized yesterday evening of Florence Velma, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Bond, 1133 Palmer Road, Lake Hill, and Mr. John Edgar Pugh, youngest son of Mr. H. Pugh, Finnerty Road, and of the late Mrs. Pugh. Rev. S. Ryall officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a sleeveless frock of white georgette and lace, and a filmy veil of net arranged to her head with a wreath of orange blossom, and she carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and sweet peas. Her only attendant was her sister, Miss Lulu Bond, in a gown of sunrise lace with uneven hemline and a large mohair hat to match. She carried a bouquet of pale pink carnations and sweet peas. Mr. Ray Hunt supported the groom. During the signing of the register, Miss Ada Wright sang "All Joy Be Thine."

A small reception followed the service at the home of the bride's parents, where the bride and groom, standing beneath a white floral bell hung from an arch of white and silver, assisted by Mrs. Bond, wearing a smart costume of deep wine red crepe de Chine and hat en suite, welcomed the guests. The supper table was centred with the three-tier bride cake, surrounded with vases of sweet peas.

Mr. and Mrs. Pugh left later for a wedding trip to Seattle and Mount Rainier, the bride traveling in a frock of flowered organdie in shades of orange, over which was worn a coat of navy blue trimmed with fawn broadtail, and a fawn hat. On their return they will make their home at Finnerty Road, Cadboro Bay. Among the many beautiful presents received was a silver tea service from the staff of the Hudson's Bay Company, where the bride had been employed.

These Strange Guns of Peace

Giving Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice the rich nourishment of hot cooked cereals

FLAVORY! Crunchy! Meltingly good to eat. That's Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice Grains . . . "grains shot from guns"!

Choice, plump grains of wheat and rice are actually sealed in shining bronze guns. Then the guns are revolved in fiery ovens to develop all the natural rich grain flavor. When the guns are fired, 125 million explosions occur in every grain. This breaks open every one of the millions of tiny food cells. The grains become as completely digestible as though they had been cooked for hours. That's why Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice are rated "virtually as nourishing as hot cooked cereals."

And these dainty nuggets of nourishment have all the rich flavor of new nut-meats. All the buttery crispness of fresh toast. You never tasted grain foods in a more enticing form. Serve with fruit and cream for breakfast. As an easily digestible luncheon dish for children. Crisp in butter to make a delicious new kind of popcorn. BUSINESS WOMEN TO STUDY PLACE OF OLDER GROUP

U.S. Federation to Make Survey of Women of Forty and Over

Chicago, July 23.—The position of the women of forty years of age and over in the field of business and the professions will be made the subject of a special survey this year by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women as the result of a vote taken at the annual meeting of the executive board, says Marjorie Shuled, writing in The Christian Science Monitor.

The survey will be conducted under the direction of Dr. Lillian M. Gilbreth, well-known industrial engineer and national chairman of research for the federation. The problem is one which affects all women in business, according to Dr. Gilbreth, whose recommendation for the survey was accompanied by a statement that the mature woman faced by the necessity for self-support finds it difficult to get employment in the business world.

It was also declared that since experienced women are being discharged from their positions younger women now in the field will find the number of their working years shortened unless this policy is changed.

SOUND TRAINING PROPOSED

Following the survey there will be a definite programme for increasing opportunities for the older business woman. What constitutes sound training for the business woman today, and exactly what elements should enter into such training will be investigated by a special committee to determine a standard which the federation can advocate to raise the personal and technical requirements for preparation of business women.

In order to improve facilities for vocational guidance and vocational placement throughout the country, which is one of the main purposes of the national federation, studies of vocational literature in libraries have been conducted in 151 communities and of local agencies for vocational guidance and placement in 152 communities.

Dr. Gilbreth urged that these surveys be completed by the 1,200 clubs in the organization, and that practical steps be taken to improve the guidance facilities through co-operation with other service organizations and particularly with the school authorities.

17,679 NEW MEMBERS

Accessions to membership during the fiscal year amounting to 17,679, were reported by Mrs. Ellen Libby Eastman of New York City, membership chairman.

These figures include 5,093 members in 143 new clubs, and 12,586 members added to already existent clubs. The total membership of the organization is now slightly under 60,000. The distribution of membership is as follows: 233 clubs in towns of under 2,500 population; 285 clubs in towns of under 5,000; 235 in towns under 10,000; 181 in cities under 20,000; 97 in cities under 50,000; 69 in cities under 100,000; 66 in cities over 100,000.

SEEK MORE MEMBERS

The federation during the coming year will concentrate on enrollment of the outstanding women of each state; stabilization of the membership of organized groups; organization of clubs in all cities of 50,000 population and over; and organization of committees located near federated clubs.

A comprehensive history covering the first ten years of achievement of the federation will be published shortly, according to an announcement made by Miss Helen M. Bennett of Chicago, Ill., national magazine committee chairman.

WOMAN BECOMES EDITOR OF PAPER

Washington Herald, Hearst Organ, Appoints Former Countess

Washington, July 23.—The Washington Herald makes the following announcement: "Mrs. Eleanor Medill Patterson, beginning Wednesday, will assume the direction of the Washington Herald, as editor in chief."

Mrs. Patterson and her family have long been known in Washington in official and other circles.

The new editor of The Washington Herald comes naturally by journalistic ability. Her grandfather was Joseph Medill, founder of The Chicago Tribune, and she has written several novels and signed articles.

Mrs. Patterson is a first cousin of the late Senator Medill McCormick. She is the sister of Joseph Medill Patterson, publisher of The New York Daily News and Liberty Magazine.

Mrs. Patterson has long been anxious to engage in active newspaper work which has occupied members of her family for three generations.

For a long time she endeavored to purchase The Washington Herald of which she now becomes the active editor. But, Hearst newspapers are not for sale.

Mrs. Patterson will work as editor of The Herald under the regular Hearst newspaper contract.

Mrs. Patterson, who was formerly the Countess Cizycka, and who subsequently married the well-known lawyer, Elmer Schlesinger, at her mother's request, has resumed her maiden name which is the same as her mother's, Eleanor Medill Patterson.

YOUR BABY and MINE

by Marietta Meyer Eldred

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

HERNIA SHOULD NEVER BE LEFT UNTREATED

Because this is not a medical department, we feel it out of our province to mention subjects which demand medical attention, but umbilical hernias are so common among young babies that we may be pardoned for mentioning them in the column.

A large majority of babies have protruding navels. How large a proportion I do not know, but it is markedly noticeable. The reason for it is a simple one. The muscles over the abdomen are not properly knitted together. This is just a condition that denotes improper or incomplete development of the baby at birth, or it may develop after birth if the child is poorly nourished, the muscles weak and of poor tone and thus easily ruptured.

CONSULT DOCTOR

The best help for the young baby is proper strapping with adhesive tape. This the doctor will do, showing the mother how it is done, so that she will feel able to remove the tape when it is getting too loose to be of service, and to replace it exactly as before.

The use of ether on the outside of the adhesive will dissolve the glue so that it can be peeled off without any pain to the child.

If this strapping is continued for a long period, sometimes as long as a year, and isn't successful in encouraging the muscles to grow together, then some more drastic method will have to be used. This is entirely a matter for the doctor in charge to decide.

With the older child who develops a rupture it is doubtful, in my mind, whether the strapping will be successful, but at least there is no harm in trying them. They do hold the rupture in place and prevent the real danger of the bowels becoming entangled. The segments of bowel which protrude through the rupture must be kept in place.

DON'T LEAVE UNTREATED

Mrs. V. G. asks this question: "I have a boy close to seven years who has a protruding navel. Is it dangerous and is there a way of working it back into position? I shall certainly thank you for a comment on this."

I would take the child for a thorough physical examination, Mrs. V. G., and let the doctor decide how dangerous it would be for the rupture to go on without an operation. If he feels that strapping it firmly will hold it in place, then he will instruct you about removing and replacing the tape when necessary. There are various methods of dealing with umbilical ruptures, but only a doctor is competent to advise them. One thing we are safe in saying, which is that they are not to be left untreated.

PREMIER KING ON TOUR NOW IN ONTARIO

Members of the Federal cabinet who accompanied Premier King on the platform were Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, Fernand Rinfret and Senator Dandurand. A radio broadcast carried the speeches throughout Quebec and the Maritime Provinces.

TWO CHAIRMEN

The meeting was presided over by two chairmen, one French-speaking and the other English-speaking. The former was Armand Daigle, president of the Reform Club, and the latter Major George W. Stephens.

The arrival of the Prime Minister shortly before 8.30 was the signal for a great outburst of cheering. The speeches of welcome given in French by Mr. Daigle and in English by Mr. Stephens were punctuated with applause.

On behalf of the French-speaking women, Mrs. Pierre F. Casgrain voiced a welcome, while Dr. Grace Ritchie England, Liberal candidate in the Mount Royal division, spoke on behalf of the English women.

In the name of the Young Liberal Association, Jean Martineau, president of that organization, spoke briefly in French.

He was followed by Hon. Fernand Rinfret, Secretary of State, who also spoke in French.

The Prime Minister, introduced by Major Stephens, received a tremendous ovation. Cheer after cheer came from the great crowd as the audience rose to its feet to do him honor. As the cheers died down Mr. King pronounced the first words of his address in French. They were drowned in a renewal of the cheering, this time a tribute to the effort he was making in the French tongue. For about five minutes he spoke in French.

Continuing in English, Mr. King expressed regret he had not "mastered the beautiful French language."

He commented on the interest women were taking in the campaign, which he declared a good thing.

PRINCIPLE OF UNITY

"It has been my privilege in this campaign to visit all parts of the Dominion," Mr. King said. This had given him an opportunity to judge the situation throughout Canada. He was only sorry every Canadian could not have a similar opportunity. Canada was a unit. This must not be forgotten and the policies of the government must be designed to benefit all parts of the Dominion.

BRITISH MARKET

At present Canada was suffering from a certain amount of depression, said Mr. King. This was reflected in unemployment at points in the Dominion.

All over Canada prior to the coming into power of the Laurier Government in 1896 there had been serious depression in Canada, continued Mr. King. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, however, saw the great possibilities of the British market for Canadian grain, and, in order to develop that market, he brought in the British preference. Sir Wilfrid had seen that if Canada was to sell her grain in the British market, she must buy from Great Britain. That was one great object of the British preference.

"What was the result of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's action?" asked Mr. King. It had resulted, he answered, in immediately stimulating trade between Canada and Great Britain. Unemployment had decreased, soon employment increased and as the years passed, Canada became prosperous.

Sir Wilfrid had brought in what was known "as the golden era of Canadian prosperity."

Moving forward to 1921, when a Conservative Government was in power, Mr. King said conditions were somewhat similar to those when Sir Wilfrid came into office. The present government had found a period of depression. Out of it the Liberal administration had produced a period of prosperity. Trade had doubled, debt had been reduced, and Canada now stood fifth among the trading nations of the world.

RAW MATERIALS

Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, had complained Canada was exporting her raw materials, but as a matter of fact the Dominion imported more raw materials than she exported, said Mr. King. Would Mr. Bennett stop the importations into Canada and close Canadian cotton mills? asked Mr. King. Trade was exchange and any country which wished to trade must be prepared to exchange its commodities for those of other countries.

CONTRAST SEEN

The Prime Minister contrasted conditions in Australia, where a high tariff was in effect, with those in Canada. Australia, he said, quoting from a news dispatch, reported a shortage in revenue amounting to $66,000,000.

"Australia," resumed Mr. King, "was reporting a shortage of $66,000,000 while Canada had a surplus in the last budget of between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000."

He added that at a time when Canada was doing away with its sales tax, Australia was putting on one. And Australia was a protected country.

BENNETT'S PROMISES

The Conservative leader was making great promises throughout the country, asserted Mr. King. "It has been estimated by more than one paper that the cost of projects promised by Mr. Bennett is already over a billion dollars," he said. Where would the opposition leader get the money? he asked. Mr. Bennett had said he would raise it out of taxation. Well, if he did, Canada would soon be in a position similar to that of Australia.

Mr. Bennett's attitude was injurious to Canada, declared the Prime Minister. On the one hand the Conservative leader was making extravagant promises, while on the other hand, he and his associates were raising a "blue ruin" cry throughout Canada, and thus discouraging the investment of foreign capital in the Dominion.

MONTREAL TERMINALS

There was a great difference, continued Mr. King, in the attitude of Mr. Bennett now toward large expenditures and the position he had taken in the House of Commons when the $50,000,000 vote for the Montreal terminals was under consideration. At that time Mr. Bennett had asserted "that obligations of this kind must be met," and that while he did not wish to be considered an alarmist, he thought very grave consideration should be given before embarking on such expenditures. Mr. King quoted from Hansard in support of his statements. But, he commented, would not the obligations which Mr. Bennett was so ready to assume at the time of an election have to be met?

"If Mr. Bennett was alarmed when he talked about fifty million dollars, he must be in a state of frenzy now when he talks about a billion," Mr. King remarked, and the audience applauded.

The proposal of Mr. Bennet to call a special session of parliament to discuss unemployment was criticised by Mr. King. A special session of parliament would cost $2,000,000. Why not, he asked give the $2,000,000 to unemployment relief?

This proposal met with applause.

MONTREAL STAR'S TWO STORIES

When he was dealing with the importance of trade development within the Empire, Mr. King said Mr. Bennett, "and I regret to say a considerable section of the Conservative press," were endeavoring to belittle the Dunning budget. The Montreal Star, for instance had belittled the budget in a recent editorial in an edition issued in Canada, but said Mr. King, he found to his amazement that the same paper was publishing an edition for circulation in Great Britain which took a very different position.

He quoted extensively from that edition. "You would think the owner of the paper was the author of the budget," he asserted as the audience laughed. Mr. King asked the people to read The Montreal Star as it was published in Great Britain and not in Canada. By so doing they would get the truth about the budget.

W.B.A. Review.—The regular meeting of Queen Alexandra Review, No. 1, W.B.A., was held Monday evening in the K. of C. Hall, Government Street, with Mrs. Ricketts in the chair. Mrs. Swanwick of Review No. 7, Vancouver, was a welcome visitor. Only two members were reported on the sick list. After a short session, the business meeting was adjourned. A card party under the convenership of Mrs. Stevens followed. The prize winners were: ladies, first, Mrs. Gilchrist; second, Mrs. J. Taylor; gentlemen, first, Mrs. MacAllister; second, Mr. Milne. Mrs. Campbell arranged the refreshments, assisted by Mrs. Fryer and Mrs. Gardiner, concluding a very pleasant evening.

CONRAD NAGEL AT CAPITOL THEATRE IN "SECOND WIFE"

What does "clicking" mean in Hollywood?

A vivid answer to this question is Conrad Nagel's success in all talking pictures.

Nagel has "clicked."

Those who have seen his dramatic performance in Radio Pictures "Second Wife," now showing at the Capitol Theatre, agree that he "clicks" as successfully in a "class" picture as in the crook and underworld productions which he recently popularized.

EX-SERVICE MEN GIVEN ROLES IN "JOURNEY'S END"

Service records among fifteen members of the principal staff and cast of "Journey's End," showing next week at the Playhouse Theatre, showed a total of seventy-nine years and three months war service. Director James Whale, in casting for the all-dialogue Tiffany-Gainsborough production of R. C. Sherriff's great stage play, gave first preference to ex-service men, preferably veterans of the World War.

WINNIE LIGHTNER STARS IN COMEDY AT THE COLISEUM

Although "She Couldn't Say No," the Warner Bros. and Vitaphone picture now showing at the Columbia Theatre, is only the third or fourth feature-length production in which Winnie Lightner, its star, has appeared, she is no stranger to the Vitaphone. She appeared in two short subjects for Vitaphone in 1928, billed as "The Song-a-Minute" girl and has since starred in "Golddiggers of Broadway" and "Hold Everything."

ZEPPELIN RAIDS OVER LONDON ARE FEATURE OF FILM

With the warfare between Zeppelins and London air defences during the world war as its basis, "The Sky Hawk," which has been playing at the Coliseum Theatre, is one of the most thrilling productions on record. Much of its interest is due to its being the first all-talking Movietone romance of the world aflight. A notable supporting cast includes Billy Bevan, Joyce Compton, Lennox Pawle and other established screen celebrities.

IRENE RICH CAST AS ROGERS'S WIFE AT THE DOMINION

Will Rogers will have no other screen wife than the adorable Irene Rich.

Some years ago, Will, the genial wit and philosopher, essayed to star in a few silent productions and Irene Rich was his screen wife then. When Rogers signed up with Fox Movietone he proposed that Miss Rich be cast again as his leading lady.

The result is screen history. "They Had to See Paris" was nothing short of a sensation and added vitally to Rogers's already wide popularity.

When it was decide that his second venture on the audible screen was to be "So This Is London," which is the Dominion Theatre's current attraction, showing for the last time to-night, none other than Irene Rich would suit Will as "Mrs. Hiram Draper."

STIRRING PICTURE MOVES AUDIENCES AT THE PLAYHOUSE

"Kitty," a World Wide imported picture which is now showing at the Playhouse Theatre, is a heartrending love drama which brings the tears to the eyes and finally smiles of happiness. It is poignant in its grief, in the separation of two lovers, but ends with joy and sunshine in their reunion.

It is a talking picture and the dialogue sequences are excellently done.

The Turkish crown jewels, for many years hidden in the Green Vaults of Constantinople, are among the world's largest collections. The Sultan's throne is of massive beaten gold, studded with diamonds, rubies and emeralds set in mosaic. It has been appraised at $15,000,000.

HANBURY ATTRIBUTES CANADA'S PROGRESS TO LIBERAL POLICY

"Who is to pilot the ship of state during the next four years? That is the important issue in this election," said Mr. Hanbury. "When Conservative speakers tell us unemployment is related to immigration and that if restriction of immigration had been enforced by the Liberals there would have been no unemployment to-day, they forget their earlier statements may be quoted.

"Dr. Manion in the House of Commons last year said increase of population, brought about by bringing people in, would not only lessen unemployment but bring about greater employment.

"Hon. R. B. Bennett then said, 'My complaint is not merely that the number of British people is not large enough, but that we can take in Canada many times the number we are now receiving of all kinds,'" he recalled.

"These gentlemen are quite capable of saying one thing to-day and another very different thing to-morrow. In their effort to be all things to all men they are not going to get very far with the people of this country.

"The leader of the opposition has stated that, if returned to power, he would deal with immigration in a very different way. Remember, the Liberals have been restricting immigraton," Mr. Hanbury warned.

PLEDGES MADE GOOD

"When considering who shall be captain of the ship Canada, regard the record of Mr. Mackenzie King. He has made promises which he has carried out. He has reduced the debt of Canada, reduced taxes, put the Canadian National Railways on its feet, returned the natural resources to the prairies and the railway belt of B.C. to this Province.

"Contrast with this record the advice of a leading Conservative candidate to 'vote for a yellow dog.' I resent that sort of thing.

"In Mr. Mackenzie King we have a man we can respect. You have on one hand, Mr. Bennett, holding Canada up to ridicule and on the other the dignified figure of our Prime Minister.

WIDE OR NARROW VIEW

"The policy offered by the Conservatives is internal prosperity by restriction. Contrast it with the policy of prosperity through trade expansion, as offered by the Liberal party," Mr. Hanbury said, pointing out that prosperity was brought to the United States by enormous increase in population, due to immigration. That influx through forty years compelled development of resources and offered an increasing home market.

"A high tariff keeps foreign goods out of the United States. Europe cannot sell its goods to the States, the nations therefore cannot buy the products of American industry. So an accumulation of goods has been created behind that high tariff barrier and therewith we see millions of men being thrown out of work for lack of markets for the goods the manufacturers cannot sell. That condition will continue until the tariff of the United States is changed," he forecast.

BASIC PRINCIPLES

Mr. Hanbury said the primary industries of Canada, selling in markets open to world competition, do not require protection, while the secondary industries, manufacturing raw materials chiefly of Canadian origin, under Liberal policies have adequate and reasonable protection. "Then what industries have we to benefit by a higher tariff? The primary industries must suffer from high tariffs, the secondary industries are satisfied, so there remains only the industries least natural to Canada which can benefit from Mr. Bennett's tariff. Those are the things it is most natural for us to purchase from other lands, exchanging for them the natural products of Canada or the goods manufactured by us of those products," he said.

PROSPERITY CREATED

Touching upon the progress of Canada since the Liberals regained power, in 1921, Mr. Hanbury said Conservatives complained that Liberals took credit for prosperity. "I am one of those who certainly do ascribe the credit to Liberal trade policies, and the people of Canada are going to show on July 28 that they are of the like opinion.

"What is the Liberal trade policy designed to do? It is designed to build up the export trade of Canada. Does it help Winnipeg? Do you not think it also helps the seaport cities, and aids Victoria city and harbor?

"Victoria, the gateway to the western world! Imagine what that means if we have foreign trade. What does it mean to Victoria for freight boats to call here? What does it mean if the boats do not call here?

"Foreign trade means the British preference. There is only one way to make prosperity in Canada. That is to produce. We can only produce if we have a buyer and it is the Liberal policy to find that buyer," Mr. Hanbury asserted.

He believed the people of British Columbia were not placing sufficient stress on the British preference, which meant so much to British industries. He read an editorial from The Daily Province to the effect that the future of Canada and the Empire, for the next ten years, would be decided on Monday.

"If we people of Canada return a Conservative government, it will be a mandate to Mr. Bennett to revise the terms of the British preference," he warned.

TRADE DIVERSION

Denying Conservative assertion that the Dunning budget had stolen Conservative high tariff ideas, Mr. Hanbury said what had been done was to build one part of a great canal to divert trade from the United States to Britain.

"This British Empire budget was brought down by Mr. Dunning on May Day. I believe the time will come when May Day will be celebrated through the Empire as the day when that great leader, Mackenzie King, held up the British Empire budget as a guide towards unity of the whole Empire," he concluded.

NOT SEEKING BENCH

Stuart Henderson, Liberal candidate, denounced Conservative rumors that he was seeking appointment as a judge. "To change my whole career at my time of life, with the income I make, to take a position I refused twenty years ago, would not appeal to me. This story is a red herring drawn to distract attention from material matters. I am a candidate because I believe Victoria needs a man who can get up at Ottawa and do something for Victoria, and I am a man who can do it for you," he said.

Touching upon tariff arguments, Mr. Henderson expressed the opinion that in a few years the United States would find its tariff increases would bring about ruin. "It is taking from one man to benefit another. A nation

Drastic Changes Planned For Constitution of Amateur Rules

New Rules Would Give Every Sport Power to Govern Its Own Affairs

Constitution and By-laws Committee of A.A.U. of Canada Is Named to Reconstruct and Revise Regulations; Revisionary Document Will Be Presented November 6, 7 and 8.

MORE LATITUDE IN INTERMINGLING OF PROFESSIONALS AND AMATEURS

Chairman Kirby Thinks A.A.U. Should Not Assume Administrative Duties in Any Games or Sports; Should Give More Attention to Youth of This Country; Present Handbook Declared To Be Sound.

Vancouver, B.C., July 23.—W. H. Kilby of Montreal, chairman of the constitution and by-laws committee of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, announced the personnel of that committee here today as follows: J. H. Crocker, Toronto, Ontario; Cecil Duncan, Ottawa, Ontario; A. I. Daniel, Brandon, Manitoba; F. W. Edwards, Fort William, Ontario; J. G. Morkin, Winnipeg, Manitoba; J. G. Merrick, Toronto, Ontario; C. D. Shipley, Amherst, Nova Scotia; John Muter and Major W. G. Swan, Vancouver, B.C., and G. J. Plain, Montreal, Quebec, secretary.

This committee, the formation of which was authorized at the annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union in Hamilton last fall, has for its object the reconstruction and revision of the regulations of the governing body, bringing them up to date and making them more workable.

Mr. Kilby has sent out a circular to committeemen for opinions. On receipt of these he will sent out a questionnaire to all sporting organizations in the Dominion and still later the result of these findings will be promulgated in a revisionary document which will be introduced at the annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union in Vancouver on November 6, 7 and 8.

TO GOVERN THEMSELVES

Under proposed changes each sport would govern its own affairs provided the amateur laws were lived up to. More latitude would be given with respect to the intermingling of professionals and amateurs. The idea of one-man clubs would be frowned upon.

Mr. Kilby has very definite ideas as to revisions of the Amateur Athletic Union handbook, but he is strongly of the opinion that fundamentally the book is sound. In regard to professionalizing of athletes, he favors hitting at the source of the trouble, which he describes as the man who doles out the money rather than the athlete. He believes that in this way the practice can be stopped more quickly than by trying to get the athlete to tell all he knows.

REVISIONS

Following is the list of the clause revisions as proposed by Chairman Kilby:

"I believe we should deal from page 149 inclusive, and page 119 to 135 inclusive of the present handbook, giving particular study to the basic principles of amateurism so well set forth in the foreword.

"That the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, or its successor in name, should be a body representative and legislative, and should not assume administrative duties in any games or sports.

"That the universities, Y.M.C.A.'s, properly organized athletic clubs and industrial bodies who are now subscribing in a general way to the principles laid down in the present handbook should be the foundation for our considerations of amateur principles expressed in up to date terms.

"That more attention should be given to the youth of this country, keeping in mind the fact that Canada is a young country, and that the spirit of fair play expressed in athletic activities is reflected in national character.

"That governing bodies of sport, other than those already acknowledged as in the amateur fold should be included in the federation of governing bodies to form the new legislative and representative federation.

"That consideration must be given to international sport alliances, but that such consideration should not overrule the fact that we are legislating in a sport way for Canada first."

"Chuck" Klein Is Showing Way To National Batters

New York, July 23.—Chuck Klein, clouting outfielder of the Philadelphia Nationals, has obtained a monopoly on most of the National League's hitting honors.

Latest figures show the Quaker star leading the league in batting with an average of .405, in runs with 87, in runs batted in with 103, and in hits with 140.

In addition he is only two home runs behind Hack Wilson, who sets the league pace for the circuit swatters with 29.

"TOM" DUGGAN DIES AFTER A HEART ATTACK

Prominent Sports Promoter Passes Away Suddenly at Montreal Home

Played Big Part in Development of Ice Hockey, Baseball and Horse Racing

Montreal, July 23.—Thomas J. Duggan, prominent sports promoter, who has played a leading part in hockey and race track activities in Canada and the United States for many years, died suddenly yesterday evening.

Duggan, who was forty-eight years old, died suddenly in his home, following heart seizure. He had been in apparently good health and was busy at his usual activities throughout the day. Only a short time before he was stricken, Duggan was talking to a prominent local sports promoter of the tragic death in an automobile accident to-day of their friend, "Paddy" Harmon of Chicago, builder of the Chicago Stadium. Duggan died before medical aid could reach him.

Prominent in professional sport for twenty-five years, "Tom" Duggan's associations extended into many fields, including baseball, hockey and horse racing.

ENTERS PRO SPORT

While engaged in advertising and real estate business in Montreal he entered professional sport with the old Federal Baseball League with a franchise in Buffalo.

Mr. Duggan built the Mount Royal race track in Montreal and the Devonshire Park at Toronto, and held financial interests in several United States tracks. In development of professional hockey Duggan played a leading part. He built Mount Royal Arena in Montreal for the ice game and made several unsuccessful bids to secure the Canadian Hockey Club. He held two franchises in the National Hockey League, which he sold to New York and Boston. His deal with Charles Adams over the Boston franchise resulted in long litigation which was only recently settled.

Duggan's most recent venture was dog-racing, which he promoted in the vicinity of New York after an unsuccessful effort to start the sport in Chicago.

Navy "A" and Y.M.I. "B" clash this evening at 6.20 o'clock at the Canteen grounds in the second game of their three-game series play-off for the championship of "B" section of the Victoria and District Softball League. Navy lost the first game to the institute men, 7 to 2, and are favorites to repeat to-night. While these two teams are fighting it out, Hustlers and Beavers will resume hostilities in their struggle for the "D" section title at Central Park. Hustlers defeated Beavers, 10 to 6 in the first game.

Hillcrest's captured the runner's-up prize in the Victoria and District Section "A" Softball League yesterday evening when they downed the North Saanich Service Club, 9 to 8, behind the steady pitching of "Doc" Poynts at the Central Park.

Decide Finalists In Pitching Contests

Twelve Boys Earn Right to Pitch Next Week in "Old Wooden Face" Finals

Sid Carr Tops Seniors While Jack Wallace Outclasses Junior Field

Some spectacular scores were recorded in the semi-finals of the boys pitching contest sponsored by The Victoria Daily Times at Central Park yesterday evening. Over forty of the best young pitchers in the city competed for the right to toss them up in the finals next week, and as a result of their efforts six boys form each class will have one last try at "Old Wooden Face" before he retires for the season. A large crowd of spectators saw the pitching and went away well satisfied with the brand of hurling displayed by Victoria's younger stars.

Sid Carr, one of the aces of Central Park, led the seniors with a total of eight strikes in his two turns in the box. Sid put across six perfect heaves on his first attempt to tie the record and then coasted home with two more strikes on his second round.

John Casilio, Victoria West, and A. McKen followed close behind with seven strikes apiece, while John O'Connell was fourth with six. Apart from the leaders the score was comparatively low and a total of three was good enough to win a place in the half dozen places for the finals.

WINS EASILY

Jack Wallace spread-eagled his field in the junior event, finishing with the fine tota lof nine strikes to lead Ivor Fuller by three points. Jack Okell and M. Waller followed with five strikes apiece.

Those qualifying for the finals with scores:

Bobby Jones On Golf

It seems to me that a good many people are allowing themselves to become too greatly disturbed over the action of the U.S.G.A. in adopting as the standard, the larger and lighter ball. Surely six one-thousandths of an inch and seven one-thousandths ounces cannot make as much difference as some seem to think.

Of course, the new ball will behave somewhat differently than the present one. Being larger and lighter, even though the change is not great, it will be more sensitive to air currents as well as to errors in hitting; it will not bore quite so resolutely into a strong breeze; and it will probably be more easily affected by irregularities of the putting surface. But there are many compensating advantages and it seems to me that those advantages will be felt most by the kind of player who needs them most.

It has always been my contention that no person should attempt to play a ball as small and heavy as the present standard until he becomes a better - than - ninety player. This applies particularly to the older man who beginning golf late in life does not expect to accomplish low scores and is content to play in his class and enjoy himself. For this man it is too difficult to hit the present ball hard enough and accurately enough to play the game with any great satisfaction. In he finds the ball in a close or cuppy lie, as he often does, he is up against an impossible problem. He lacks both the physical strength and the skill needed to play the shot. He must top the ball out or dig it out and make the best of it.

LARGER BALL HAS BETTER LIE

This man really ought to play a floater. The larger ball would find fewer holes in the fairway, it would require much less power and accuracy to start it on its way, and it would furnish a far more pleasant afternoon for the plodding duffer.

But nothing in the world could induce this man to stoop to such indignity so long as a ball like the pros use was available. It is the same complex that causes him to use an iron at the short hole when he could hit a full drive with perfect safety.

I think there is little question that the new ball will bring higher scores to those players who have a certain amount of skill without perfect control. That class, of course, embraces all golfdom beyond the duffers and beginners, for we all possess skill only to a degree. No one has it all. For the man who is able to handle the heavier ball, the lighter one will be less easily manageable. Half-missed shots, which result well enough now, are likely to go completely to the bad, and small errors, with the more sensitive missile, will become grave mistakes. But when we worry about all those things are we not admitting that our outlook upon the game is wrong? Aren't we interesting ourselves more in making low scores, than in deriving enjoyment from the playing of the strokes?

The excellence of a score or of a shot depends entirely upon the difficulties met and overcome. Once we dispel from our minds the idea that the score-card is the measure of a game of golf (which it is not, although it may be of a match) then it becomes unimportant whether the total is seventy-five or eighty-five so long as it is well done.

WILL ADD INTEREST TO GAME

When we look at it in that way we should welcome a change which brings back to the game for the expert the long iron, spoon and brassie second shots, and which keeps the less expert player keyed up and interested in making progress. We should always remember that shots from the rough and hazards are as much golf shots as the drives from the tee, and while excursions into such regions may be not always opportune, if it is the joy of golf we seek they are part of it.

BEGGS SURPRISE WITH DECISIVE WIN OVER FORDS

Outscore Garage League Leaders 19-7 Behind Pitching of Fred Hughes

Bill Bridgewood Stars For Winners With Two Circuit Smashes

Beggs scored a decisive and surprising win over league-leading Fords in a regular Garage League ball game at the Royal Athletic Park yesterday evening. The cellar occupants turned on Doc Todd's offerings and clouted them to all corners of the lot for a 19 to 7 victory.

Fred Hughes held the Fords scoreless for the last five innings after he had allowed them to score all their runs in the first two stanzas. Meanwhile his mates were hitting them high, wide and handsome at the expense of Todd and his successor, Finch. A six-run uprising in the fourth really won the game for the Beggs.

Bill Bridgewood, skipper of the tail-enders, led the attack with two home runs.

The score by innings:

Beggs	4	4	0	6	1	2	2	—	19
Fords	4	3	0	0	0	0	0	—	7

Batteries—Hughes and Robillard; Todd, Finch and Williams.

Billy Townsend Will Meet Lemar At Los Angeles

Los Angeles, July 23.—Billy Townsend, hard-hitting Vancouver, B. C., junior welterweight, has agreed to meet Johnny Lemar, Los Angeles Mexican scrapper, in a ten-round bout at the Olympic, probably August 8, Matchmaker Wad Wadhams announced to-day.

THE SPORTS MIRROR

WHILE the smoke dies down around the figures of Schmeling and Sharkey, what about Stribling and Tuffy Griffiths? Stribling knocked out Otto Von Porat flat in one round. Before the fight Porat said he was aiming for Schmeling but that he feared Stribling more than Schmeling. Maybe he was right. Griffiths has, for the third time, proved his superiority over Blubbery John Risko, who has demonstrated that he is as good as the rest of the heavyweights. How about a Stribling-Griffiths go, with Stribling throwing his cautious methods to the winds and stepping in the ring to win by heavy punching? That would be a good fight. And the winner would make a much more satisfactory opponent for Schmeling than the perennially disappointing Sharkey.

The Griffiths-Risko fight, one of the few main events in the last two months not ending in a foul, was so arranged that the customers would get to see a re-match for about three-fourths of the original ticket price in case of a foul; the promoter's profit being made up by the fouler forfeiting his first purse. At least that scheme gave the fans a fourth of the break they should have had.

Now that the New York Commission has ordered boxers to be prepared with armor sufficient to prevent damage to them from a foul punch, and has refused to listen to any more claims of foul, we will submit Sharkey as world's champion beyond a doubt, because he can shut his eyes, swing, and punch in the groin all his wild heart desires. If that is what the commission was attempting to do—to make things certain for Sharkey—they have done their best.

Now let Judge Landis change the baseball rules so that no skill in batting be required, so that every ball touched by the batteris a fair ball whether it comes down between the first and third base lines or not.

* * *

Let us do away with control on the golf links. Why make a player hit the ball straight down the middle? Let us cut the grass short in all directions, remove all out-of-bounds, and let the wildest slugger win. What a lot of fun there would be.

* * *

Schmeling by the way, has made quite the wisest comment on this latest bit of ruling, expressing disapproval of the free fouling rule. "A man fighting for a world's championship should know how to control his blows," said Schmeling.

First word of the after-effects of night baseball on the players is not so cheering. Players of the Oakland club, Pacific Coast League, say it took them a week to get their eyes used to daylight playing after playing in night games. Their eyes were red and swollen. 'If night baseball becomes the vogue, I'm going to quit," said one. "I don't get any thrill out of night baseball, and I'm not going to wreck my eyes playing it."

Players at Bannockburn Golf Club, near Washington, D.C., are given rating cards with their caddies. They put down whether the caddy swings clubs, replaces divots, takes his turn holding the flag, etc. Caddies are graded on these report cards and are paid accordingly. That's a good way to get service. We'd like to see the greens committee keep report cards on the old birds who take five minute waggles, argue their scores on the putting green, and refuse to let twosomes through.

Pete Des Jardines, Stanford University diving star, and Olympic champion, is having trouble with the A.A.U. over his amateur status. Articles have appeared saying that Des Jardines intends to turn professional, while he vigorously denies it. And to back it up, he has been cleared in an investigation by the Florida local A.A.U., where the professional offers were supposed to have tainted him. Nevertheless, the U.S. A.A.U. has barred him from intercollegiate and A.A.U. competition for this season. And he hopes to be reinstated by November.

Doug Fairbanks, who wouldn't enter the British amateur although urged to do by Bobby Jones, shot 81-77 for thirty-six holes over the Royal St. George's course before the Walker Cup matches. That is not bad for a 6,751 yard championship course. If he'd only had a camera man along he could have had a 66.

Surprises Seen In Western Tennis Meet

Bud Hocking and Edwards Team Up Well For a Win

Victoria Stars Eliminate Jack Brawn and Dunc Williams, Vancouver Pair, in One of Keenest Matches Yesterday; Kirkbride Shows Splendid Form to Extend Bradshaw Harrison, Clay Court Champion; Mrs. Perow and Joe Coughlin in Upset Win Over Charlotte Miller and Bob Hoogs.

Vancouver, July 23.—Several surprises featured the second day's play in the western Canada hard court tennis championships at the Vancouver Tennis Club. Chief of these was the defeat of Miss Charlotte Miller and Bob Hoogs of Berkeley and Eugene by Mrs. Perow and Joe Coughlin, sensational southpaw star of San Francisco. The winners took the match after failing to get a game in the opening set.

Another match of unusual interest was that in which the veteran Ashley Milne and Con Colin met and vanquished Henry Prusoff, clay court finalist in singles, and Bill Warren, both of Seattle. This feat was accomplished in straight sets.

George Dixon and Geoff. Peers of the Vancouver club, earned a fine win at the expense of Billy Newkirk and McDonald of Seattle. Thus Newkirk, who was beaten in his singles the previous day, only has the mixed event to contest. The Vancouver pair, at the top of their game were vollying well while both took the net and scored ace placements fepeatedly by strong overhead smashes. The scores were 6-3, 5-7, 6-4.

VICTORIANS WIN

Commander Edwards of Victoria, who has a set from Cochet as his particular claim to fame, as well as the club championship of Victoria, paired with Bud Hocking and had a very good win at the expense of Jack Brawn and Dunc. Williams of the Vancouver club. The Victorians did the trick by scores of 6-4, 7-5. This was one of the most interesting and keenly fought battles of the day, all four players driving hard and accurately.

Don Lewis and Bob Johnson of Portland won the odd set from Bill Thompson of Portland and Les Porter of Jericho. Porter well held his own with the hard-hitting Americans.

KIRKBRIDE PLAYS WELL

Bradshaw Harrison, who has little opposition in the upper half of the draw, was given a hard workout by Kirkbride of Victoria. The latter, a splendid stylist, backed up his good form by some really excellent play which only the greater generalship of the clay court champion could master. Frank Gove of California and Rosenveig of Jericho hooked up in a real marathon, the players battling for two hours in the heat of the day to a three-set decision which went to the southerner.

Don Lewis took the measure of Jack Brawn in two well played sets, while Coughlin beat Commander Edwards also in two. Eddie McIlwaine took a set from Prusoff in their second round match.

Helen Tatlow put up a fine game against Mrs. Gross, going out in straight sets, but the second went to fourteen games.

Miss R. Ellis played fine tennis to dispose of Mrs. Edwards of Victoria in two of the hardest fought sets of the day 8-6, 6-4.

JOE STECHER PLAYS WITH PORTLANDER

Former Champion Finishes Kruse Off in Quick Time After Losing First Fall

Body Slam and Deadly Scissors Finish Portland Grappler; Bout Is Rough

Vancouver, July 23.—After taking things easy for three rounds and apparently allowing Bob Kruse to secure the first fall, Joe Stecher, former heavyweight wrestling champion of the world, settled down to serious business in the fourth and fifth rounds, and within the space of one minute threw the Portland grappler twice to win the headline bout on Tuesday night at the Arena before a good crowd. Jack Forsgren and Abe Colman grappled to a draw in the three-round semi-windup, while Jack Strong of Australia took the only fall of the two-round preliminary from Jack Russell of Drumheller.

Stecher contented himself by playing safe in the first round, never once attempting his famous leg-scissors, although he punished Kruse badly with a couple of toe holds. Kruse secured the first fall in the second canto with a reverse wristlock in 2 minutes 1 second.

Kruse was warned for holding the ropes and kicking, and also for punching with his fists in the third round. Stecher clamped on another bad toe hold and then got out of a short-arm scissors to punish his opponent with a double toe hold. Immediately the bell sounded for the fourth round Kruse dashed out of his corner waving his arms like windmills and dashed at Stecher. The Nebraskan grasped him with an inside crotch hold, lifted him in the air and crashed him to the mat with terrific force to fall on top and take the equalizing fall in 34 seconds. Kruse was badly stunned and had to be carried to his corner.

The fifth round had barely started ere Stecher obtained his favorite leg scissors, and it was all over in 2.1 seconds. Stecher's weight was announced as 222 and Kruse's as 208.

PADDY ASKS TO BE LAID IN STADIUM

Last Request of Promoter Is That He Be Buried in Great Sport Arena

Thousands of Children and Others Mourn Man Who Helped at Christmas

Chicago, July 23.—The last request of P. T. "Paddy" Harmon, dreamer and builder of the world's greatest indoor sports arena, was "I hope you'll lay me out in the Stadium—my Stadium."

Just before he died yesterday from injuries suffered when his automobile overturned in a ditch, Harmon asked to go once more to the $7,000,000 west side building, the highest material accomplishment of a career that started as a street lighter and included promotion of championship boxing matches, six-day bicycle races and dances.

Arrangements for his funeral, however, were held up to-day, pending the result of serious injuries suffered by his wife, Mrs. May Harmon, who with Dr. Thomas Brand, was in the automobile.

Thousands of youngsters and grown-ups, who as youngsters, benefited by Harmon's Christmas charities during the last twenty years, to-day mourned his death, as did hundreds of others who were associated with him.

Semi-finals Are Reached in Title Football Tourney

Montevideo, Uruguay, July 23.—The world's soccer football championship tournament, now in progress here, has reached the semi-final round with the United States, Argentina, Uruguay and Jugoslavia as the sole survivors.

The draw for the semi-finals pitted the United States against Argentina on July 26 and Uruguay against Jugoslavia on July 27.

Empire Competitions

By JIMMY THOMPSON

Although the British Empire Games are still a month away yet, enthusiasm is already high in the Ambitious City of Hamilton, Ontario. The city has already spent approximately $200,000 on this monster meet which will bring as guests such outstanding men as Lindbergh, Lord Derby, Count Baillet-Latour, the international president of the Olympic games. Among the athletes there will be such figures as Lord Burghley, the Olympic 400 metre hurdle champion; Bobby Pearce, Australian sculler, Morgan of New Zealand, the Olympic boxing champion; Eric Liddell, the Scottish parson and Olympic middle distance champion; Walter Spence, the British Qulanian swimming ace; O'Callahan of Ireland, who hurled the hammer further than anyone else at Amsterdam in '28, besides many others. Canada will present her big four in the sprints, Percy Williams, Leigh Miller, Johnny Fitzpatrick and Ralph Adams. (The two former are 9.3 men and the latter two are 9.4). They will clash with London and Cohen, the British flashes, and Legge and Gerhardt of South Africa, all of whom are well in the 9.4 division. There will be no team competition. Only individual winners will be recognized. Special attention will be given to the time-keeping as it is fully expected that many world records will go by the boards.

Moe Is Facing Stiff Field In Big Western Amateur Tournament

Match Play Got Under Way To-day With Youthful Portlander Meeting Veince Huntington of Chicago; Chick Evans and Johnny Lehman Share Qualifying Honors With Totals of 147; Cyril Tolley and Phillip Perkins Both Reach Select Group.

Canadian Press

Chicago, July 23.—The tussle for the western amateur golf championship, worn by the youthful Don Moe of Portland, Oregon, swept into the match play grind to-day with a strong, internationally-flavored field in the fight.

Facing the young champion as the fight opened over the stubbornly trapped and tree-lined Beverly Country Club course were at least a half dozen campaigners able to give an argument in almost any kind of tournament. They were the two Britons, Cyril Tolley and T. Phillip Perkins, who have won their own country's national amateur titles; Chick Evans and Johnny Lehman of Chicago, who battled to a deadlock with 147 totals for the medal in the thirty-six-hole qualifying round; Keefe Carter of Oklahoma City, former champion, and Bob McCrary, fighting Scot from Des Moines, Iowa, who already has captured two trans-Mississippi championships in succession.

FAST FIELD

From the standpoint of rail threats, it was probably the fastest field in the tournament's thirty-three years of play.

Moe, spared the task of qualifying, faced an experienced golfer as his first rival in Venice Huntington, of Chicago, who breezed into the qualifying bracket yesterday with a 155 total. Moe ranked a big favorite, naturally, but his game has been slightly off color since his return from the Walker Cup wars in England and Huntington expected to stop his march before he started.

HARDER BRACKET

Evans, Tolley, McCrary and Carter were located in the lower and harder bracket and faced tough matches from the outset. Tolley was paired against Ben Goodwin, of St. Louis, a player apt to set a course record one day and take an 84 the next; Evans was challenged by Dick Martin, of Chicago, the big ten titleholder; Carter faced Art Sweet, the golfing reported from Chicago, who reached the semi-finals last year at Kansas City, and McCrary had Al Huska, the long driving amateur of Chicago, who qualified with a 158 yesterday despite an outrageous 10 on the final, par five hole.

Boston, 6-0, 6-2, and Ruth Bailey, St. Louis, 6-1, 6-3.

K.O. Christner Scores Knockout

Denver, Colo., July 23.—K.O. Christner, Akron, Ohio, heavyweight, knocked out George Mantry, Denver light-heavyweight, in the second round of their ten-round bout here yestedray evening. Mantry was a slight favorite in the betting.

Edith Cross Is Beaten By Dark Horse in Tourney

Manchester, Mass., July 23.—Edith Cross, San Francisco, third ranking woman tennis player and defending champion in the Essex Country Club's invitation Tourney, yesterday was eliminated by Virginia Hillesary, an unsung player form Philadelphia, in a quarter final match, 7-5, 6-3.

The Californian reached Boston from England Sunday with Sarah Palfrey and Mary Greef, her Wightman Cup teammates.

In a second round match, Miss Cross had easily defeated Fanny Curtis, Boston, 6-0, 6-2.

Brooklyn Scores Close Victory to Regain Top Place

Again Lead National League Following 1 to 0 Win Over St. Louis; Thurston, American League Cast-off, Twirls Robins Through; Cleveland Indians Make Big Gain by Double Victory Over Yankees; Athletics Drop Close Decision to Detroit.

Two teams which sometimes look as if they might get somewhere in the major league pennant races but which are not doing it are the St. Louis Browns and the Philadelphia Nationals. Both clubs are having unusual winning streaks for them, with three successive victories apiece.

St. Louis yesterday downed Washington Senators, 3 to 1, for a third straight win. The Browns have beaten the Senators oftener than they have lost to them, a thing no other club has done this year, and now are in sixth place.

The Phillies trounced Pittsburgh 11 to 5 for a third straight victory. This was somewhat overshadowed by the return of Brooklyn to first place in the National League. For Brooklyn, Hollis Thurston, American League castoff, held St. Louis Cardinals to three hits to win a 1 to 0 decision.

The Robins received a lot of assistance from the New York Giants, who sent Chicago's Cubs downward by winning the second game of a double-header 6 to 1 after the Cubs had won the first 5 to 4. Ethan Allen's homer with loaded bases brought most of the Giant runs in the second game.

The Cleveland Indians registered the day's big gain in the American League, taking both ends of a twin bill from the New York Yankees, 6 to 5 and 10 to 8.

Philadelphia Athletics dropped a 6 to 5 decision to the Detroit Tigers.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Brooklyn, July 23.—Frank Frisch's error, followed by singles by Gilbert and Bressler, gave the Robins a 1-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals yesterday. Hollis Thurston held the Cards to three hits. The run gave the Robins the National League lead again.

Chuck Klein blasted the way to the front in the Big Six and National League batting race yesterday, taking advantage of an afternoon's slump on the part of his teammate and rival, Frank O'Doul, to gain first place. Klein hit three times in five trips to the plate and lifted his average three points. O'Doul went hitless four times and dropped six points. Al Simmons registered a gain, picking up a point with two hits in four tries to go into third place ahead of Stephenson, who appeared only as a pinch hitter and did not hit, losing a point.

The Yankee pair of Lou Gehrig and Babe Ruth registered a gain and a loss, Lou going up a point with three hits in seven times up and the Babe dropping three with two hits in eight tries.

HANBURY ATTRIBUTES CANADA'S PROGRESS TO LIBERAL POLICY

cannot get any place by parliamentary stealing. The time to stop that idea is next Monday," he asserted.

CONDITIONS VARY

"When we come to this question of taxation you would think that a people as well educated as are the Canadians could develop something different from the United States. The tariff arrangements suited to the States are not suitable to Canada," he declared, comparing the divergent banking systems of the two countries, with individual units in the States and huge bank chains in Canada. The 215 men who control these well-managed Canadian banks are the men who run the industries. They control the currency of Canada. The local managers of the branches cannot make loans without telegraphing Montreal or Toronto.

MORE FOR THE FEW

"Are we going to authorize tariff legislation giving them further advantage for their industries? Where will the industries so developed be located? Near the head office of the bank which finances them! The whole policy of protection means the upbuilding of Toronto and Montreal. What value is that to the people out here on the coast and the margins of Canada? We would be just placing millstones around our necks."

ALWAYS ASKING MORE

"There never was a tariff which did not have to be increased, increased and again increased. In six months the manufacturer thinks that tariff aid is his right. Industries needing such protection collapse without it," he warned.

"Where will Mr. Bennett be at the Economic Conference? He will be wanting to 'blast his way' to trade agreements. The wheat board tried blasting its way and see what came of it!

ONLY BEGINNING

"This conference is only the beginning of great things. There are many lines of inquiry to be examined. Compared with the United States we are 10,000,000 beside 120,000,000, but as a member of the British Commonwealth we grow; we become 400,000,000 people talking together. That is something big. We will find what each part can best produce, we shall become a trade community which can control the world!" he said, amid applause. "Where are we going to be between Mussolini's United States of Europe and the United States of America unless we of the British Empire start out, as we have done, with the Dunning budget and all that it implies?" he asked.

GREAT PROGRESS

Mr. Henderson recalled that when Mackenzie King attained power Canada was borrowing money to pay the interest on her national debt. Conditions had been revolutionized by Liberal policies. The debt was being reduced. Already $270,000,000 had been paid off, trade had been developed and the germ of a new Empire, such as the world had never before known, had been born. "What the voters have to consider is, shall Canada continue along the road which opens out before her," he pointed out.

Mr. Henderson said the only item of constructive legislation introduced by Conservatives at Ottawa had been General A. D. McRae's scheme to spend $300,000,000 on bringing to Canada 300,000 British immigrants. "Such as it was, I fancy the Conservatives only allowed the McRae plan on the floor because it was a rich man's hobby, and in the hope that the Liberals would kill it," he commented.

COMING HOME AGAIN

Discussing the exchange of population between Canada and the United States, Mr. Henderson quoted official figures showing a progressive betterment since 1923. "When we began to reduce our debt our people began to stay here. Mackenzie King showed he could control expenditures, pay the interest on the debt, reduce that debt, stop the exodus of our people and bring our Canadians back," he said, comparing the loss of 41,000 Canadians a few years ago with the net loss of eighty-two persons in 1929.

GENEROUS ATTITUDE

The federal achievement had not been attained at the expense of, or by stinting, the provinces. "Mackenzie King has been most generous. Take old age pensions, the Federal treasury pays half. When Mr. Oliver was offered pensions he grabbed at it. He was a Liberal. He was practical. At that time the Conservatives said 'the provinces do not want it, the people do not seek pensions.' Yet to-day Mr. Bennett says that if given power, he will pay the whole cost from the Federal treasury.

"But it is easy for him to make promises; he knows he will not be elected to office," he pointed out.

"This is a most important election. It is no question of taxing citizens or farmers, no question of trade, it is a question of taking a step, as a nation, which will do more for the Empire than any step previously taken in history," Mr. Henderson concluded amid applause.

SQUARE SHOOTER

Mr. O'Halloran said he had great personal pleasure in speaking in support of Mr. Henderson, having been born at Lillooet where Mr. Henderson practiced law for many years. "He is known all over British Columbia as a 'square shooter.' I am sure Victoria desires to send to Ottawa such a 'square shooter.'" he said.

"The Dunning budget is designed to build up Canada and keep the Empire together. That could well be the slogan of the Liberal party. With the voters this election is not a question of whether this or that candidate is elected, or this or that party is returned to power. What the people are thinking of is how the interests of the Empire will be best advanced," Mr. O'Halloran said.

"'Trade follows the flag' is an old saying with a great deal of truth. If there is truth in the idea that trade tendencies in the past have inclined towards absorption of Canada with the United States, then it must be true that, when the trade links of Canada and Britain are broadened, the strength of the ties must be increased," he said, asking why oranges recently landed from Australia, were not to be purchased in local stores, 5,000 cases being shipped to eastern Canada. "A fair question for the people of Victoria and Nanaimo to ask is: 'Are our business people tied up with California interests?'

"It seems certain the Mackenzie King Government is going back. Is it not time the people of Victoria send to Ottawa a Liberal? Stuart Henderson is a man of well-known energy and ability, who will do all in his power to advance the interests of Victoria," he asserted.

Maurice Larvaron, French scientist at the Reenes Farm School, has announced he has perfected a method for determining the quality of seed by radio. Waves emitted by inferior seed are easily distinguished by a special receiver of his.

Future Actress Was a Daring Little Girl

"Look! watch me jump!" Charlotte's brother Charles stood watching his daring sister. They were playing on the wharf that belonged to their father, a shipper. A freight boat was tied up, and Charlotte was amusing herself by jumping from the wharf to the boat and back again.

She jumped so often she grew careless, and suddenly she lost her balance and tumbled into the water between the wharf and the boat. Her small brother stood dumb with terror. That might have been the end of Charlotte, but a man who happened to be passing by heard her scream as she fell. He ran down the wharf and rescued her. She was taken into her fathers warehouse and given a sailor's trousers and jacket.

She was so happy at "dressing up" in that costume that she soon forgot all about her fright, and had great fun.

Charlotte Cuchman, born in Boston, July 23, 1618, became a great actress.

New Post In C.P.R. Telegraphs

Growth of the Canadian Pacific Telegraphs and pressure of business have brought about the appointment of an assistant general manager, a new position, creation of which was made effective this month. The new assistant general managership goes to W. D. Neil who was assistant manager western lines, stationed at Winnipeg, No. 4 of illustration. Other appointments resulting from this are: No. 3, W. M. Thompson, superintendent, Ontario Division, Toronto, to be assistant manager, western lines, Winnipeg; No. 1, H. S. Ingram, superintendent, eastern division, Montreal, to be superintendent, Ontario division, Toronto; and No. 2, W. S. Emery, chief operator, Montreal to be superintendent, eastern division, Montreal.

FORBES URGES LUMBER TRADE TO REORGANIZE

He Sees It as Key to Prosperity Along the Pacific Coast

For First Time in Growth of America, Unemployment Appears Serious

Seattle, July 23.—Organize the lumber industry!

This was the challenge that B. C. Forbes flung to the business spirit of the Pacific Northwest at the meeting at the Seattle Chamber of Commerce that marked the pinnacle of the noted financial writer's Northwest visit.

It is a matter of "co-operation and teamwork," Forbes said, to put the biggest payroll of the section back where it belongs, on a profit-making basis.

Forbes had two other messages for Pacific Coast business.

For banks—"Now is the time to loosen up a little."

For Industry—"Now is the time to expand—to start preparing for the next onward march of this country."

UNEMPLOYMENT IN PROSPERITY

"For the first time in America's history," he explained, "we had in the height of prosperity a considerable degree of unemployment.

"The problem for us to solve is how we can handle our resources, our facilities, ourselves and our capital, to make it possible to provide for all our people.

CHANCE IN ASIA

"While in British Columbia I met a newspaper owner who had returned some time before from the Orient. He talked along the same line that Capt. Robert Dollar often talks—the development of Asia.

"There perhaps lies a cue as to how the problem may be partly solved.

"I rather thing another phase will be the shortening of work hours for us all. As I read the outlook of progress from the twelve-hour day to ten, eight and for some of us the seven-hour day, I cannot help but feel that it will continue and that within a few years the five-day week may be quite common. It must not be unduly forced, or it will throw the wheels of machinery out of gear."

As to his subject, "The Business Outlook," Forbes said he could summarize his beliefs in a minute. He repeated what he has said before, that he believes security and commodity prices, with the possible exception of wheat, are scheduled for early recoveries.

CHECK OVERPRODUCTION

"The lumber industry for the last few years has suffered as much as any from gross overproduction and unremunerative prices. Is there any remedy?

"You are familiar with what is happening in another even larger and more complicated industry—oil.

"If it has been possible for leaders of that industry to check the almost criminal overproduction and waste, surely it should be possible if the right men take hold of it to bring about much improved conditions in the lumber industry.

"I hope before I return again the lumber industry can organize itself legally and govern supply to meet the demand.

MOTOR INDUSTRY CUE

"The motor industry has taken a tumble to itself, and this year is producing only what cars can be sold. I hope your lumber magnates can take a leaf out of that book.

'It is a question of co-operation and teamwork. With the spirit prevailing, teamwork and co-operation should not be impossible."

Oh, How Mean!

"Jones is the meanest man on earth."

"What did he do?"

"He's deaf—and he's never told his barber."

SEE RECOVERY WELL UNDER WAY IN FINAL QUARTER

"The present decline in business commenced in June of 1929, and at the middle of 1930 business is apparently bumping the bottom," declares a quarterly review by McLeod, Young, Weir & Company.

"The business cycle regularly consists of improvement, prosperity, crisis, recession and depression. At the present time we are apparently well into the depression period. The question is how long should this period last, and our opinion, based on available statistics, is that recovery should be quite evident in Canada by the final quarter of this year."

MORTGAGEE'S SALE

Tenders will be received by the following for the purchase of the following parcels of lands:

First—Lot 31 and the East 40 ft. of Lot 30, of Lots 3 to 8, of Block 1, Fairfield Estate, Map 937, Victoria District, being No. 1156 May St., Victoria, B.C.

Second—Lot 7 of Block 3 to 7, Spring Ridge, Map 38, save and except the southerly 12 ft. thereof conveyed to the Corporation of the City of Victoria, vide 28048-I, being No. 1394 Fort St., Victoria, B.C.

The above properties contain two houses. The above land is offered for sale by the mortgagee pursuant to the provisions of the mortgages upon the said properties.

All tenders should be in before the 30th day of August, 1930. Full particulars of the properties may be had from the undersigned. The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

Strawberry Vale Institute Held Quilting Bee

Members of Strawberry Vale Women's Institute held a combined meeting and quilting bee on Tuesday afternoon, for the purpose of making the wool which has been given by the B.C. Worsted Mills Limited to the institutes into a handsome quilt which will be entered for competition at the Victoria Fair in August.

The secretary was instructed to convey to Mrs. J. D. Gordon the appreciation of the president and members for her generous gift of books to the institute library. Plans were made for a fair to be held on the grounds adjoining the school on Wellington Road, which will take place on Wednesday, July 30, and will be opened at 3 o'clock. A great variety of games, such as housie-housie, hit-the-baseball-man, cocoanut shy, spinning wheel, touch-and-take stall, guessing competitions, together with fortune telling, are among those offered for entertainment. There will also be a stall where one can be served with the ever-popular "hot dog" and ice cream, and afternoon tea may also be enjoyed.

The fair is given under the auspices of the institute with the co-operation of the young people of Strawberry Vale and is certain to be a great success under the able convenorship of Mr. and Mrs. Huntington. Good prizes will be given and a most enjoyable time is assured to all who attend.

Landslide Vote

First picnicker: Isn't this an ideal spot for a picnic dinner?

Second ditto: It must be. Ten million insects can't be wrong.

A committee that has been studying conservation of lumber in the United States has estimated that some woodworking industries waste from fifty to forty per cent of their raw material.

Many roads... which one shall I take?

WHEN the long road dips sweetly down a hill and ends up in a blank and puzzled amazement at a jumble of crossroads, unless you know your way, you'll push down hard on the brakes! And then look around to see where you're going. . . .

Five roads jutting off in various directions of the compass. One road is yours. Four to lead you astray. But a brief glance—and you're off. On the right road. For a sign was over each road to direct your way!

Just as the directions point out the way in a maze of roads; so does modern advertising guide you in the right direction through the multitude of products offered in present-day markets.

Advertising points the way, straight and clear, to economical and advantageous marketing. It distinguishes the good product. It directs your way by indicating the article best adapted to your needs.

Read the advertisements in this paper carefully as you would the signs above the crossroads. They point out your buying road as surely and as safely!

Le DeVey, elderly resident of Sooke, this morning pleaded guilty before Judge F. S. Lampman to committing a statutory offence on June 29 at Sooke, and was sentenced to serve fifteen months' imprisonment. J. L. Clay, prosecutor, asked imposition of a severe sentence.

DeVey had nothing to say in mitigation and His Honor remarked that, while the accused had a previous good character the offence was serious and could not be treated lightly.

BEAUTIES OF CHINA SHOWN

Herbert C. White Gives Illustrated Lecture on China to Summer School

China, the country of rich architectural beauty, of priceless relics, of high spirituality and deep culture, was outlined by Herbert C. White, in a splendid illustrated lecture before the students of the Summer School at the High School Auditorium yesterday evening.

Mr. White, with his twin brother, went to China in 1922 as missionaries and studied many spots of beauty and interest in that land. Penetrating to many forbidden areas, he gleaned information and pictures of considerable value showing the structure and many features of several institutions from which foreigners were kept until very recently.

Describing the Temple of Heaven, to which old Chinese Emperors went, after weeks of preparation by fasting and prayer, to seek intercourse with God, the speaker maintained that the Chinese people were not always idolatrous.

ARTIST'S PARADISE

They had found an artist's paradise in old Peking, Mr. White stated, going on to describe the beauties of picture collections and other objects of art. The Hill of the Ten Thousand Ages, at the foot of the western hills, was shown in a striking slide. The speaker noted the work of the late Dowager Empress Tzu Hsi, who introduced into modern China a veritable fairyland in that place.

He told of the elaborately made statuary, and the splendid gardens created by the Dowager Empress and noted the self-willed, autocratic whims that often moved her to have marvelous pieces of art made.

VALUABLE BRONZES

Mr. White made particular reference to the bronze lions fronting the Throne Hall, saying that Manchu rulers had offered $2,000,000 for the figures, but had failed to secure them.

Fine slides were also shown of the Forbidden City in which the Emperor's palace, the Throne Room, characterized as the "Westminster Abbey of China," the Imperial Library and other marvelous architectural relics were situated.

Vancouver Plane Splits Exhaust; Lands at Sidney

While nearing Sidney on the regular noon flight to-day from Vancouver the Fairchild seaplane, piloted by Capt. G. K. MacKenzie, was forced to make a landing. The exhaust manifold split and Pilot MacKenzie decided to drop into Sidney for repairs, which were expected to take one hour to complete.

The four passengers aboard the plane from Vancouver were brought to the city by taxi, and the passengers who had planned to leave here at 1.30 o'clock on the plane for Vancouver were sent to Sidney. The plane was ordered to return to the Mainland airport as soon as repairs were completed.

Board to Discuss Applications For Teaching Posts

Consolidation of applications for vacancies in the city school teaching staffs will be given at the meeting of the School Board this evening, starting at 8 o'clock. A large number of applications are in hand at the School Board office for the few posts available.

The board will also discuss fuel tenders, submitted at the last meeting, and the contracts will probably be awarded.

NEWS IN BRIEF

D. Robinson was fined $20 in City Police Court this morning for driving an automobile to the common danger on Yates Street. Robinson was also charged with failing to return to the scene of an accident and was remanded to July 30 on this count.

Vernon H. Meadows, awaiting trial on two charges of committing wilful damage to city property by breaking equipment at the city jail, this morning appealed to Judge F. S. Lampman for bail pending trial, which has been set for August 1. Bail of $1,000 in two sureties was allowed.

The monthly general meeting of the Victoria branch of the Canadian Pensioners' Association will be held on Friday evening, July 25, at 8 o'clock in the association rooms at 720 Fisgard Street. As important business is to be discussed a full attendance of members is expected.

Victoria plumbers are holding their annual picnic at Elk Lake on Saturday. The picnickers will leave the city at 10 o'clock in the morning, and will be conveyed to the picnic grounds in private cars and busses of the Vancouver Island Coach Line. Because of the outing all plumbing stores will be closed on Saturday.

This afternoon's breeze caught the awning in front of the real estate office of Beaumont Boggs at 620 Broughton Street, whipped it up on the air, tore loose the steel support arm and then plunged it through the heavy plate glass window, scattering glass everywhere. No one was near the window inside when the long steel arm shot through, but a couple of persons on the street just escaped injury by a few feet.

Victoria Has Great Air Future Declares Aviation League Head

Could Be Made Terminal of Transcanada System But Citizens Must Provide Facilities, Says General J. H. MacBrien; "Would Have Flown Here With My New Plane If I Was Sure of Landing Field," He Says.

Great possibilities for Victoria as a commercial air centre, if the citizens built up adequate facilities in the way of airports and air harbors, was seen by Major-General J. H. MacBrien, president of the Aviation League of Canada, who arrived here to-day to meet flying men of the city. Whether Victoria went ahead in the aviation world and became the terminal of a transcanada commercial route, depended upon the facilities it provided for air travel, he said. General MacBrien noted the potential value of airports here, saying that the city could attract travel from the north, south and east should suitable arrangements be made.

Speaking definitely of a Dominion-wide system, he stated that, with the exception of two links, from Calgary to the coast, and from Winnipeg to Ottawa, a regular route was now in existence. Within two years he expected to see these two divisions included in the chain.

ROCKIES LINK PRACTICAL

Referring to the passage over the Rockies, General MacBrien said:

"The Crow's Nest Pass is a difficult but practical route. With proper ground organization it could be made quite dependable. However, it should be flown by multi-engined planes."

He made the trip through the Crow's Nest Pass in his own plane while journeying from Calgary to Vancouver.

"I would have flown here with my new De Haviland Puss Moth if I had been sure of a good landing field," he said.

Referring to the national air system, General MacBrien said that air mail was being carried successfully over the links now in operation. The letters would be followed by express parcels and would eventually give way to passenger travel.

AMPHIBIAN BEST HERE

The possible Victoria-Vancouver link would be best served by an amphibian plane, General MacBrien stated.

This morning he conferred with members of the Victoria Aero Club along with other plane enthusiasts of the city at the Union Club. He invited the local club to act as a branch of the Aviation League of Canada to promote air-mindedness here. Such a branch could assist model aircraft, glider and flying clubs, the general stated.

Dealing with the success of British Columbia model aircraft fliers in the recent Canadian championship contests at Ottawa, General MacBrien said that they had done splendidly and would encourage aeronautics here.

PROGRESSIVE TRAINING

It was the league's idea, he said to carry on its work in progressive stages, interesting young boys in model building before helping them in glider and flying schools.

"We are also attempting to have technical school and universities establish courses in aeronautical sciences," General MacBrien stated, adding that in eastern Canada this move had met with considerable success.

Such work could be carried on by a local branch in co-operation with the Dominion body, he said.

Speaking generally, the head of the Aviation League of Canada stated he had noted a hundred per cent improvement in flying in the west since his visit last year. Airports and hangars were being built in Medicine Hat, Calgary, Vancouver and other cities, and were adding greatly to the safety of plane travel.

GLIDER EXHIBITION

This afternoon members of the Victoria Glider Club were to give the visitor a demonstration of their prowess in the engineless machines at Lansdown Road field.

CHRISTENDUM REUNITED IS KING'S VIEW

Congratulates Lambeth Conference on Constructive Work and Achievements

Churchmen Received By His Majesty and Queen at Buckingham Palace

London, July 23.—Hopes for a reunited christendom were expressed by the King in reply to an address from members of the Lambeth Conference, when he and the Queen received them in Buckingham Palace to-day.

"I thank you most sincerely for your address and for the spirit of devotion and affection which animates it," said the King, addressing his guests. "I was especially touched by the assurance of your sympathy with me in my recent illness and your pleasure at my recovery.

"It is a deep satisfaction for me to receive and welcome this great assemblage of bishops of the Anglican Communion, which includes not only bishops from by dominions but from the United States of America.

"I have observed with interest that among the delegations which have visited Lambeth has been an important one from the Orthodox Church.

GREAT GROWTH

"Looking back upon the beginning of this series of Lambeth conferences, it must be a source of pride and thankfulness to reflect what testimony they bear to the growth and development of the Anglican Communion. One hundred years ago it was little more than the church of a single kingdom. The present conference is a world-wide gathering of united, though mostly self-governing churches, which has attained the proportions of a general council.

REUNION FOREMOST IN 1920

"I remember ten years ago, when I had the pleasure of receiving the sixth Lambeth Conference, that the question of reunion of christendom was foremost in your thoughts. You put before the Old World an ideal of unity and a plea for new endeavor to heal rents in the fabric of the church. I am most happy to learn that appeal has not been fruitless. It is my earnest hope and prayer that the work which your last conference began may prosper and that the deliberations of this present conference may result in some notable advance toward this most desirable end.

"I learn from your address that the main subjects for your consideration are summed up in the general head, 'The faith and witness of the church in this generation.' The subject has been well chosen and with keen insight into the needs of the present day.

STILL PERPLEXED BY WAR

The obvious and material damage of war is not now so manifest as when you last met, but men's minds and souls are still troubled by the wounds which the war inflicted and perplexed through the shocks thereby dealt to their old beliefs and spiritual loyalities. At such a time the fathers of the church do well to take council together how best to bring home to the world to-day, in a way most appropriate to the difficulties which beset it, the truths of the everlasting Gospel. God reigns and I pray that his blessing may rest upon your deliberations."

Old wooden paving blocks on Broughton Street near the corner of Government have become so dry that when a passerby about 2 o'clock this afternoon threw a cigarette on the road it set fire to the blocks. The wind fanned up the flame. A fire department chemical wagon put out the fire.

H. W. Ross came in from Edmonton to-day and is at the Empress Hotel.

HEAVY RAINS BRING FLOODS IN YORKSHIRE

Stokesley, Yorkshire, Eng., July 23.—Four days of incessant rains in the West Cleveland district of Yorkshire have caused severe inundations.

The level of the river rose three feet within twelve hours. The swirling waters washed away bridges, sheep and poultry, and damaged crops everywhere.

In Stokesley many families are marooned in their cottages, with the furniture floating about in the lower stories.

Coastguards to-day were rushed inland from the fishing port of Whitby to assist in the rescue of inhabitants of the valley of the North Esk River.

It was feared that despite the prompt measures taken some loss of life might have occurred.

The village of Sleights is completely marooned by the rising water, which converted the roads into raging torrents and drove the people, trapped in their homes, into the upper rooms of their homes.

WOMAN DROWNED

At Ruswarp, a young woman, Miss Mary Brown, was swept away from the grasp of a man who attempted to rescue her and was drowned.

A report was also current that a woman staying at a holiday camp at Rushworth had been drowned.

BARTHELMESS IS LURED TO ISLAND BY TYEE SALMON

Join Clive Brook and Large Party of Screen Stars at Comox

Will Spend Some Weeks in Pursuit of Wily Tyee at Upisland Points

The lure of the tyee salmon has drawn a number of Hollywood celebrities to the Island. Clive Brook and a large party have been ardently pursuing finny warriors for some time at Comox Bay. To-day they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Barthlemess, their daughter and son, Mary and Stewart and the children's nurse. After a short stay at Comox the anglers plan a descent on Forbes Landing and places north. Altogether they will be on the Island for some weeks.

Considerable interest has been aroused by their presence at up Island points and there has been much speculation as to the success they achieve with rod and line.

The Barthelmess family arrived on the Island via Seattle, the first point of call on their five weeks' holiday. The presence of the children makes their plans somewhat more complicated than those of their friends however for when discussing Forbes Landing in Seattle, debonair Richard is said to have remarked, "They tell me the fishing there is fine but say, can you tell me if it's any good for children"

PREMIER KING TO-DAY SPOKE IN PALMERSTON

Addressed Gathering While on Way to Chesley To-night

By RAY BROWN

Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

Palmerston, Ont., July 23.—From the rear platform of his railway car, Premier King addressed a gathering of considerable size here to-day. The Prime Minister was on his way to Chesley for a meeting to-night, but a wait of some twenty minutes here shortly after noon gave him an opportunity to speak in this constituency of North Perth.

Mr. King said the record of the government and the budget were the main issues of the campaign and he asked his audience to consider these things well. Canada was now the fifth of the trading nations in the world, he said, and the Dominion had been lifted to a condition of prosperity.

Palmerston is a railway centre and the Prime Minister made special reference to the government's record in this respect. The present government had co-ordinated the Canadian National system, he said.

PENSION QUESTION

The present government had engaged Sir Henry Thornton, but before the government engaged Sir Henry, said Mr. King, he had stipulated the pension rights must be given back to the 1910 strikers on the old Grand Trunk. Sir Henry had replied that if the facts were as stated there would be no difficulty in having that done. The result was that the pensions were restored.

Another thing the government had done was to appoint a labor representative on the board of the Canadian National Railways. This representative was Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

Permit for a seven-room bungalow for W. P. Worthington at 1360 Craigdarroch Road was taken out at the City Hall yesterday. The residence will cost approximately $4,000.

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

By Branson, Brown & Co. Ltd.

Winnipeg, July 23. — Wheat: The wheat market to-day was almost an entirely local affair with the smallest trade passing seen in the last two weeks. Prices were somewhat erratic within a narrow range, but were firmer during the last half season.

Liverpool was firmer than due, especially in the deferred positions which was credited to good buying by the continent, but North American export sales overnight were apparently small, and there was very little evidence of any business out of this market. However, sentiment appears to be more friendly with the general news perhaps, a little more bullish than it has been. Corn was again strong with prices advancing rather sharply, which undoubtedly is helping wheat.

There were plenty of rust reports around with some Manitoba samples on the floor, which showed rather heavy infection, but without any damage so far, and much will be dependent on the weather the next week or ten days. Fortunately the Manitoba plant is very healthy and sturdy this year, and is also nearing maturity in southern areas, as much of the wheat is beginning to turn color. However the situation is such as to cause some anxiety and curtails selling pressure.

There was a fair demand for shippers for all grades of cash wheat, but offerings continued very light and trade volume was quite small. There was a better demand to-day for feed wheat, which has been dormant for some time. There was no change in the flour situation.

There were a few light, scattered showers in the west, but the weather was generally clear, with temperatures somewhat higher with warm weather predicted.

European news continues mostly bullish, and Broomhall reported that the threshing returns in Hungary and Jugoslavia were exteremely disappointing. These countries last year harvested 205,000,000 bushels of wheat. Would confine purchases of wheat to the dips. Wheat closed unchanged to ¼ lower.

Coarse grains: There was very little business passing in the course grains to-day, and the cash demand was insignificant from eastern Canada with no export business fit anything, and no inquiry from abroad. There was a little profit-taking by longs, but the buying power in the pit was very thin and featureless.

Liverpool is due unchanged, based on Winnipeg.

By Branson, Brown & Co. Ltd.

Chicago, July 23—Wheat: General run of news to-day both foreign and domestic was about a standoff so far as the market effect was concerned. Hedging pressure did not seem to be as heavy as recently, and there was a fair export demand reported but was plenty of wheat for sale on the rallies.

Far southwest receipts have dropped to moderate proportions, but central terminal markets had heavy receipts and the primary run was 5,582,000 bushels against 4,757,000 a year ago.

Weather reports showed but little rain in the spring wheat country and reports confirmed loss both to quality and quantity in our northwest. Some Canadian reports indicating general estimates are less than a few weeks ago. Export sales in all positions since July 1 are estimated at from 40,000,000 to 50,000,000 bushels from Canada.

French reports confirm serious losses, but the French are banking on a heavy carryover to keep them supplied the coming year. However, the feature of the situation in that country is that much good wheat will be needed for mixing. The market appears to be a two-sided affair at the moment but at this level prefer buying side on the setbacks, until the spring wheat crop is harvested.

Corn: Profit taking was heavy at times, while the market was susceptible to reports of rains in the southwest. The weekly weather report of the government was taken as extremely bullish on corn saying irreparable damage has been done in many states as result of prolonged drought coupled with high temperatures.

Cash demand to-day was fair, but the country sold more corn on the rally, 210,000 bushels being booked. Shipping sales 160,000 bushels. Primary arrivals 809,000 bushels against 873,000 bushels a year ago.

The weather map showed mostly fair conditions except for the showers in southwestern Kansas.

Open interest in July was reduced yesterday to 4,327,000 bushels. The July was fairly strong to-day and there also appeared to be active buying of September. December corn has advanced twelve cents in past few weeks and looks too high compared to wheat, but it is a weather proposition.

Oats: Trade narrow but rather firm in sympathy with corn. Country selling continues of small proportions. Cash demand fair.

RUST FOUND IN MANITOBA BUT NO CAUSE FOR ALARM

Winnipeg, July 23.—Throughout the southern Manitoba area there is plenty of rust on wheat sheaths, but only traces on the stem as yet. Cutting is two to three weeks away. A sample of Garnet from thirty miles north of Winnipeg to-day was bad with rust and will suffer from damage as it will not be cut for three weeks yet. Garnet is the wheat mostly affected by rust so far this season. There is no cause for undue alarm yet.

Cromwell to-day reported by wire from Prince Albert, Saskatchewan:

"From here to Meifort and return, wheat is very good at twenty-five bushels, but needs showers for best filling. The earliest will begin cutting on August 15 to 20, or ten days early. Most feed grains are late and heading short. Everywhere north of this line wheat is reported very heavy.

Donovan to-day reported by wire from Regina:

"Condition of wheat in a wide circle around here, covered on Tuesday, ranges from poor to very bad and continues poor southward to the boundary line. This is considered to be this crop's poorest section in either Saskatchewan or Alberta. Recent rains have checked damage in places and made some improvement, but more is now wanted, especially in sections southwest of here. Black rust in this vicinity has not advanced rapidly enough to look very dangerous."

Washington, July 23.—Drought conditions persist generally over the corn belt. In northeastern portions, especially from northern Kansas northward, rather general showers occurred near the close of the week which were beneficial in affording temporary relief, but generous rains are badly needed in nearly all sections as soil moisture is very small. Much corn is now tasselling and silking, which is in a critical stage as regards moisture supply, while reports indicate much firing, especially on light soil and uplands, rather generally over belt. Considerable harm already has been caused in many places. In Missouri, Arkansas and Oklahoma, corn already is deteriorating generally and this is marked on light soil and uplands with much firing and burning.

To-day's prairie weather reports show:

Winnipeg, 70, part cloudy, southwest wind, past twenty-four hours has been mostly fair and warm, no rain. Lethbridge, 64, clear and bright, very light shower last night, forecast clear and warm. Calgary, 60, clear and bright, no rain last twenty-four hours, forecast clear and bright. Moose Jaw, 63, fine, few drops of rain last night. Regina, 60, clear and bright last twenty-four hours, few drops of rain; forecast, fair and warm, possibly few scattered showers. Edmonton, 59, part cloudy last twenty-four hours, fine and warm; forecast, possibly a few showers.

General forecast, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, mostly fair and warm, possibly few scattered thunder showers; Alberta, fair and warm.

INDUSTRIALS UP ALSO IN TORONTO

Toronto, July 23.—Advices from New York indicating improved sentiment regarding the copper situation had its effect in strong prices among the base metal stocks on the mining market to-day.

Waite-Ackerman maintained its gain of 35 at $3 to the end, and Nickel and Noranda finished fractionally higher. Calumet closed up 3 at 51.

Golds were only lightly traded and closed practically unchanged. Howey moved up 3 to 49 and Vipond gained a point. Stadacona, Barry and Bunker Hill Extension were also slightly higher.

In the oils, Ajax and Petrol were up a point each, but Acme and Calmont eased a couple each.

Toronto, July 23.—With volume above 12,000 shares, the best this week, the market on Toronto Stock Exchange firmed again to-day.

City Dairy was up a couple at 60½; Beatty Brothers advanced to 26 and Service Stations shot up 1½ to 44.

Nickel and Brazilian were between ½ and 1 point up, Brazilian sold at 40 and Nickel above 25.

LETHBRIDGE WELL HITS PRODUCTION

Lethbridge, July 23 (By Canadian Press.—Inland Petroleum No. 1, financed by Crow's Nest Pass and Southeastern British Columbia mining men, drilled into production last night, and is rated a 225-barrel well with the bit only six feet in the sand.

A 5,000,000 foot flow as gas, which has been saved and will be marketed, was struck at 2,477 feet, and the oil was found at 2,522 feet, rising 2,000 feet in the casing. The well will be put on test before it is decided as to whether or not it will be deepened.

PRICE BETTERMENT SPREADS TO TORONTO MINE AND OIL LIST

Toronto, July 23.—Specialized trading in a small number of the lower priced stocks was responsible for some betterment in total sales on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange, Miller, Court and Co. say this afternoon.

The number of stocks receiving attention is increasing and the price movement is more strongly to the gain column. Of the sixty-eight stocks traded in yesterday twenty-seven registered gains, seventeen declined and twenty-four held the position at which they closed in previous trading.

ARNO DEVELOPMENT

In a letter to shareholders J. Lorn McDougall, secretary of Arno Mines Ltd., states that the Cosheathore system is at a stage of transition on the 340-foot level, where work has been recently concentrated and on this level the bottom of one ore system and the top of a second zone is indicated. The management now proposes to explore the lower horizon. Accordingly, it is the intention to start sinking the shaft to the 500-foot level and start lateral work. All necessary mining equipment is installed on the property.

INERTIA RULES BOND MARKET

New York, July 23.—The listed bond market suffered from inertia today as the quietness which has prevailed this week was emphasized by further slackening in activity.

Price movements of insignificant proportions took place in the domestic group, and the best activity was in a few foreign issues and stock privilege bonds which, as usual, responded to the strength of equity issues for which they are exchangeable. Convertibles made the best showing among the issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange with some profiting to the extent of a point.

The strong fundamental position of the market was further enhanced by a further easing in time money rates for thirty days, being cut ⅛ of 1 per cent to 2¼ by some dealers, while call money renewed at 2 per cent.

While interest in railroad mortgage issues ebbed and some heaviness developed, a good demand existed for convertible issues of several carriers, and Alleghany 5s, Atchison 4¼s, Baltimore and Ohio 4½s, Chicago and Northwestern 4½s moved forward.

TO-DAY'S REPORTS ON CALGARY OILS

By Special Service of Miller, Court & Co., Victoria Office

Moose Dome—Official representatives of the private eastern syndicate operating the Moose Dome Wildcat stated that more light crude had been struck when drilling was resumed at the first of the week. This important Devonian limestone test a week or so ago encountered a large flow of gas estimated at about 10,000,000 cubic feet, but operators are firmly convinced that the flow was merely from a pocket. This supports the theory that crude will be found in the area instead of naphtha gas similar to Turner Valley. When drilling was resumed from 2,780 feet, operators broke through bridging and drilled about two and a half feet of additional hole before freezing again caused delay. It is understood that the Timmins interests are backing this test.

Mercury No. 2, which has been producing nearly 100 barrels daily for the last few weeks, is being cleaned of debris caused by the shot of nitro glycerine, which brought the well into production. Field officials expected that an appreciable increase of production will follow this operation. Late yesterday tools were in the hole.

Mercury No. 5 was 100 feet beyond lost tools at 4,002 feet. It is planned to attempt once more to remove the lots equipment before running ten-inch casing, which will be carried to between 4,500 and 4,600 feet.

It was reported that a start has been made on the cellar for Mercury No. 6 and the derrick for No. 7 wells.

Rotary rig was being installed at Mercury No. 1.

No. 3 was producing between 180 and 190 barrels daily.

McLeod No. 5 has struck the Home sands, which yielded a minor showing of crude, according to George H. Cloakey, managing director. They were preparing to cement ten-inch casing twelve feet in the sand stratum. The bottom of the hole is 4,060 feet.

McLeod No. 3 was bailing mud in the course of a cleaning operation designed to recover full production. Good progress was reported.

Mayland No. 1 is unofficially reported to have frozen off production.

Askalta, drilling south of the Central Red Coulee producing zone, was drilling at last report at 150 feet, said William G. Fisher, managing director last night. Some additional footage will be made before surface casing is run and cemented, he added. This operation has considerable interest, located as it is, close to Hannah Porters producer and financed in Calgary.

Model. — During the last five days Model has been producing 150 barrels steadily, according to William G. Fisher. This well on entering production made 100 barrels. The gravity of the products is sixty degrees Baume, and the pressure is steady.

United.—Machinery and equipment are being placed and conditioned at United No. 4 well to attempt to clean out the hole and recover the maximum production. This well, which is one of the freak wells of the valley, has been producing from the Dalhousie sands for a considerable time.

NEW YORK CITY GETS CHEAP MONEY

New York, July 23.—The City of New York to-day sold $130,000,000 short term bonds bearing interest at 2¼ and 2½ per cent.

The Chase National Bank took $57,000,000, J. P. Morgan and Co. took $33,000,000, the National City Bank $30,000,000 and Barr Bros and Co. $8,000,000.

BROOKMIRE SEES BUSINESS IN FINAL PHASE OF DECLINE

Business now appears to have entered the final phase of the 1929-30 decline, according to to-day's report of the Brookmire Economic Service, Inc., which continues:

"The decline, which carried our index to a new low in June, is gaining momentum. The extreme low which we expect this month or next should be well under 85 per cent of normal. Recovery will be slow until the fourth quarter. It is important to remember that business and the market do not necessarily turn together. The market usually starts up first.

EXPECTS LOWER WAGES

"Some apprehension is now felt over the possibility of a generally downward readjustment in wages. After all, wages represent payments for a commodity and when the supply is more than sufficient to meet demand some readjustment is logical. Manufacturing payrolls have been declining faster than employment, which is certainly an indication that things have been moving in the direction of lower wages."

COAST BREWERIES DROPS TO NEW LOW; PREMIER STRONGER

Vancouver, July 23.—Premier was somewhat stronger during the forenoon session of the Vancouver Stock Exchange, selling up to 1.00 with Woodbine at 2½, and Portland Canal attracting considerable attention in British Columbia mining circles.

Big Missouri attracted bids at 61, but the stock was held for higher prices.

Word was received that George Enterprises was closing down. It was one of the few Bear River properties to open this season.

Pend Oreille sold at 1.30 with 95 bid for Reeves-McDonald. Pioneer, Cotton Belt, and some of the smaller stocks were firm.

The general trend of the oil list was steady, A. P. Consolidated sold at 71, Home Oil at 3.68 and 3.70, C. and E. at 70. Calmont down to 93, United at 39 and the balance of the list stood at about the same level as during the previous day.

Coast Breweries dropped to a new low at 18.00, off another 1.00 as a result of the intimation that there are to be some political changes in the beer situation here next month.

MEEHAN STIRS BUYING WAVE, RADIO IN LEAD

Stocks Resume Determined Upward Move, With Old Leaders Active

Volume in Radio Corporation Runs Nearly One-tenth of Total Market Trading

Spectacular Wall Street Speculator Returns and Takes Bullish Position

New York, July 23 (B.C. bond).—At the close of the market this afternoon the Dow Jones average of thirty industrials stood at 239.32, up 5.03 points for the day; for twenty rails at 134.58, up 0.66 points; and for twenty utilities at 86.63, up 1.68 points.

Sales for the day totaled 2,523,400 shares.

New York, July 23.—General Motors Corporation in the second quarter this year, earned $1.17 a common share, compared with $1.01 for the like period last year and 92 cents a share in the first quarter this year.

Mike Meehan, who was the bright particular star of the last bull market, having risen from a messenger boy to make dozens of millions of dollars and, having seven seats on the New York Stock Exchange, returned from his vacation in Europe several days ago. To-day in paid advertisements in all the morning newspapers he announced his stand as bullish on the market and, under the leadership of Radio, the old Meehan specialty, the market leaders swung up to new high for the move.

Trading volume in Radio ran to 217,000 shares, which was nearly one-tenth of the total volume of trading on the stock exchange for the day. From a low of 39¾ yesterday, Radio to-day was up to 46⅛.

American Can also continued its big rise of yesterday.

Weekly reviews mentioned an improvement in sentiment in steel circles and added that this had not yet been translated into increased inactivity or in actual orders.

The market was much like that of yesterday except that advances were not as sharp. Leadership passed rapidly from one to another of the industrials with Steel, General Motors, Radio and American Can standing out above the others.

STANDARD ONLY OIL LEADER

Although news from the oil industry indicated that refiners and producers were gradually establishing a stabilized condition, something which has been sought for the past year, the only oil stock to show positive activity was Standard of New Jersey.

Call money remained at 2 per cent.

MOTORS FIRM

It was stated that Ford would extend its vacation shutdown another week, but the motor shares remained relatively firm, especially General Motors and Chrysler.

There was division of opinion as to whether large banking interests had joined market operators on the buying side.

STEEL COMMON BULL MOVER

U.S. Steel assumed its usual role of leader, and was probably aided by reports that at a forthcoming meeting the directors may declare an extra dividend. The current earnings, of course, would hardly justify such a disbursement, but the Corporation is well fortified with a surplus and could afford to make such a payment as this time, thereby stimulating sentiment considerably.

Montgomery Ward was in good demand, evidently reflecting the recent declaration of the regular dividend. This action is given a wide significance, as it is felt that the management by doing so expressed their faith in an upturn in business during the current half of this year, especially as the dividend was not earned in the second quarter.

MOTOR HOPES

An encouraging news item was the large advance sales report for the new Buick car, involving $10,000,000 and 7,000 buyers.

Also suggestive note as to what is probably going on in the way of accumulation of shares in most well-established companies, was the report that Packard Motors had gained nearly 10,000 stockholders since last year.

STRONG POSITIONS

The Journal of Commerce said that the statement of Westinghouse Electric that sales billed for the first half of this year showed a decline of only 4 per cent on products other than radio tubes and sets, gives an idea of the importance of its radio business. Previous to the transfer of Radio Corporation, sales for the first half of 1929 are estimated to have been 18 per cent of the total during that period.

The New York American stated that sharp gains in Foster Wheeler reflected knowledge that first half earnings were about $4.30 a share.

It also declared that despite the fact that Warner Bros. earnings have been somewhat disappointing recently, affiliated banking interests maintain that the regular quarterly dividend of $1 a share will be declared on August 6.

SETBACKS ABSORBED

Wall Street Mirror to-day issued the following to its clients:

A further advance will be seen in the stock market. The complete reversal of sentiment in the financial district has been shown by the ability of the market to absorb all offerings on each small setback. In quarters that are usually correct on market movements, is now stated that the low prices made on recessions since last Friday, may prove to be the low prices for some weeks to come. The important factor is that now many professional traders and individual operators are waiting for reactions on which to buy stocks in much the same manner as they awaited rallies on which to sell during May and June.

DOINGS FOR FOX

"An important market operator, whose name was linked with many of the startling upward movements last year, is said to be a large buyer of Fox Film during the last few days. A price of 70 for the stock within a short period is predicted.

SHORTS SUSPECTED

"National Cash Register still harbors a large short interest and any attempt to buy the stock in any volume would be the means of causing a sharp upward movement.

"Borden Company has been accumulated during the period of market recessions by those close to the company. This is one of the companies that will show material benefit from the low price of commodities used in the manufacture of many of their nationally distributed packaged goods.

New Buick Eight Brings $10,000,000 Orders Before Debut

Detroit, July 23.—Advance orders for the new Buick Eight, to be announced before the end of this week, total more than $10,000,000, according to C. W. Churchill, general sales manager of the Buick Company.

"Our advance sales to consumers this year is one of the greatest ever recorded by our organization," said Mr. Churchill. "More than 7,000 persons have placed orders without seeing the 1931 model."

WHITNEY LETTER

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Limited)

New York, July 23.—Whitney of Wall Street Financial Bureau says to-day:

UNCONVINCING RALLY

"Expectations for the day, yesterday, were expressed here as holding forth the promise of a noon rally which would not be indicative of a definite turn in the market, not worth following on the long side. While yesterday's rally ran considerably beyond the noon hour and succeeded in carrying a half dozen issues upwards to the close, I see nothing in its general aspect to be construed as an indication of a general turn nor, for that matter, possible of sufficient extension from current levels to make it worth following from anything but the hour-to-hour profit aspect.

"What stocks went up yesterday clearly reflect the work of practically a single group, and while I believe their efforts are most commendable in that they occur at a time when public psychology is at a low ebb, I do not think that anything more can be accomplished at the present time than simply keeping the market from sinking to a dangerous level, a development which would, under present conditions, admittedly bring forth a new wave of pessimism.

"What this market is confronted with is some way out of recording a new low figure until business will provide the basis for its turn of its own weight, and with the assistance of a bear party, it would undoubtedly be brought to the lows of mid-June, in which event any further raiding would not only bring on a new wave of liquidation, but seriously interfere with the very delicacy of the situation which business finds itself. If the concerted action of any group can prevent, or forestall attempts to raid this market and do no more than maintain prices at or around present levels, or even those moderately lower, until business is given a fair chance to make its turn, tehn that action will have served a useful purpose to the extent that business will repay the market a hundredfold for permitting it to make its turn unencumbered by renewed pessimism.

"Market-wise, the whole situation therefore, simply narrows down to the outlook that you are going to get higher prices later on, that accumulation has been going on, and will continue until such time as prices actually turn up, but that you cannot expect to make day-to-day profits on the long side for a little while yet. In the meantime, however, there is no reason why you should not continue to use setbacks to buy moderately of the issues you will want for the medium long term position, the main consideration being at the moment to confine such buying to weaker spots than we had yesterday."

PREFERENTIAL TARIFF MEANS TO THIS COAST

Canadian Press

Vancouver, July 23.—"If the Canadian people repudiate the Dunning budget and its offer of reciprocal trade with Britain, you may depend upon it the British-Argentine treaty, now lying in the Foreign Office in London, will be signed," Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Minister of Immigration and Colonization, declared in an address at a meeting in his own constituency of Vancouver Centre yesterday evening.

"That treaty arranges for the sale of Argentine wheat in Great Britain, Capt. Mackenzie said.

"Canada would lose the sale of 50,000,000 to 100,000,000 buahels of grain a year. That treaty has been held up because of representations by the Canadian government on the proposals made in the 1930 budget. If the budget should be rejected that treaty would be signed and Vancouver would pay a bitter price.

EMPTY ELEVATORS

"The export trade through this port would be throttled. Our elevators would be idle and our wharves empty. The buying power of the west would be curtailed and our warehouses would stagnate.

"You could forget all about the Peace River wheat and pay the producers for growing it.

"That is the prospect you invite if you vote against the Dunning budget and for candidates supporting the Bennett policies," Mr. Mackenzie declared.

GREAT OVATION

Capt. Mackenzie was received with a great outburst of cheering that lasted for minutes. Outbursts of cheering punctuated his address and when he concluded it was fully two minutes before the roar of applause subsided sufficiently for the orchestra to strike up the National Anthem.

The minister was preceded by Dugrid Donaghy, K.C., who gave a graphic account of what the Australian trade treaty meant to his city in creating a market for Powell River paper. The Powell River Company had only a few years ago doubled its plant, and was now increasing it another fifty per cent, employing hundreds of workmen at the task.

WILL BROADCAST KING'S SPEECH SATURDAY NIGHT

of Canadian imports and showed how the Dunning budget would stimulate Empire trade. Mr. Bennett makes a mistake when he says we are self-supporting. Our country is one of the richest in the world, but we cannot live to ourselves. We are partly dependent upon the good-will and commerce of other nations. Both will be increased by the Dunning budget.'

RECORD OF ECONOMY

"The King government has a record of economy and efficiency which cannot be denied," she said. "It is up to the people of Canada to make sure of a continuation of these policies."

Mrs. Smith appealed to her hearers as a soldiers wife speaking on the returned soldier question. She showed what benefits have been conferred on returned men by the Liberal administration.

Persons able to lend their cars on election day are asked to communicate with Liberal headquarters.

Liberal Gains East Of Ottawa Foreseen

Observers Predict Quebec and Maritimes Will Send 80 to 85 Members to Commons

Ottawa, July 23—An appraisal of the political situation as far as the Maritime Provinces and Quebec are concerned indicates, according to the National Liberal Bureau here, a number of substantial gains for the King Government on July 28. Analysing the general situation as pictured in reports received from observers in various parts of the Atlantic region, the national bureau estimates the Liberal representation from the Maritimes will be increased from the eleven government members in the last House of Commons to nineteen in the next Parliament. Quebec, which sent sixty Liberals to Ottawa in 1926, is expected to add one more to that figure.

The total representation of Quebec and the Maritimes is ninety-four seats, divided as follows: Quebec, 65; New Brunswick, 11; Nova Scotia 14 and Prince Edward Island, 4.

NOVA SCOTIA OUTLOOK

In Nova Scotia, it is taken as certain the three Government supporters, Hon. J. L. Ralston, J. L. Ilsley and William Duff, will be returned for Yarmouth-Shelburne, Hants-Kings and Antigonish-Guysboro, respectively.

Three of the four Cape Breton seats formerly held by Conservatives are expected for various reasons to fall into the Liberal column.

On the Nova Scotia mainland, two gains are regarded as certain, Queens-Lunenburg and Digby-Annapolis. In those two counties the Government's Maritime record, added to the satisfactory manner in which Premier King met the representations of the fishermen, will be the deciding factor.

In Digby-Annapolis the adverse 1926 majority of small proportions will be returned to a Liberal gain, observers say.

POSITION OF HALIFAX

Halifax is experiencing boom times. That much is reluctantly admitted by even the Opposition newspapers. The city's trade has increased by leaps and bounds, building activities have shattered old records and the outlook is one of unusual optimism.

The Liberal policies have had their expected effect all through the Maritime Provinces. Like the rest of the Nova Scotians, the citizens of Halifax have been quick to appreciate the reasons for their prosperity.

The Liberals have a large adverse majority to overturn, but times have changed since 1926, so much so that Liberals are talking of a landslide similar to 1921 throughout the province.

Prince Edward Island is expected to send a solid bloc of Liberals to the next Parliament. Of the four members in the last House, three supported the Government. Considerable strength has been contributed to the Liberal party by the appointment from that province of a minister of fisheries, Hon. Cyrus McMillan.

NEW BRUNSWICK

In the New Brunswick field, in Gloucester, Hon. P. J. Veniot is expected to be elected again and bring with him once more Kent, Restigouche-Madawaska and Victoria-Carleton. In the other six constituencies the fighting is strenuous and the Liberal candidates have made considerable headway in the past ten days.

Westmorland, one of the St. John seats and Charlotte are regarded as excellent prospects.

QUEBEC PROVINCE

In Quebec there were but four Conservative seats, and of these the Government expected to recapture one, St. Antoine.

Local grievances which militated against the Liberal vote in St. Antoine in 1926, have been completely removed. Inter-party fueds within the Conservative ranks are too bitter to justify any opposition hope of converting the Liberals of Quebec.

Quebec and the Maritimes are declared to completely defeat Conservative ambitions. To the Government they are stated to represent eighty sure seats in the next House of Commons, with a possibility of eighty-five.

It is asked where Mr. Bennett can make gains to cancel these.

MEEHAN TAKES BULL STAND

New York, July 23.—The following advertisement signed by M. J. Meehan & Company—the head of which important Wall Street firm is Mike Meehan, who has just returned from Europe and who sponsored Radio in the big bull market—appears in all the New York papers this morning:

"We believe in the future of the United States, in the ability and financial courage of its industrial leaders, that securities of many of our great corporations are selling at levels which do not truly reflect the assets of these corporations, their earning power and their future possibilities.

"For these reasons we believe that the present market offers many excellent opportunities for the prudent investor to secure stocks of these corporations at attractive levels. And we recommend the purchase of such stocks now."

Newsprint Output Held Satisfactory

June statistics of production of newsprint are at hand and reveal a situation in some ways quite satisfactory. Wood, Gundy and Company say to-day. During the past half of this year production was very slightly below that of corresponding period of 1929, namely: 1,263,922 tons as compared with 1,311,322. In comparison with conditions prevailing in many other industries this is a very satisfactory showing. Incidently, production by Canadian mills during the first six months of 1928 amounted to only 1,158,723.

Due to the increase in capacity of Canadian mills the ratio of operation of the industry as a whole has dropped off substantially from last year being 73 per cent for June 30 as compared with 86.7 per cent for June of 1929. There is little prospect of more machines being brought into operation in the immediate future and, in that event, the tendency will be for normal increase in consumption to catch up with present capacity.

PANIC SCENES IN ITALY AS EARTH ROCKS

The shocks were felt as far away as Ancona and Bari on the Adriatic coast, and at Chieti, Terano and Quila in the Abruzzi region.

The panic in Naples was increased when electricity was cut off, the frantic inhabitants rushing about in the darkness, shouting and crying.

SPREAD TERROR IN JAIL

The panic reached its height in the jail, where terrorized prisoners moaned, grasped their bars and pleaded to be freed for fear the roof would crumble. Carabinieri quickly quieted them.

A nine-year-old boy and a baby were among the victims in Naples. The boy was killed when a wing of a building at the Casanova Bridge fell, and the baby died in the crumbling of the floor of a building.

The Duchess of Aosta, wife of the cousin of King Victor Emmanuel, left her palace at Capodimonte immediately after the tremors and went among the injured in a Red Cross uniform, doing much to alleviate the alarm.

A relief expedition left Potenza this morning. Technical and sanitary experts, soldiers and workmen armed with tools to clear away the debris, were on board a special train.

SEVEREST IN MEMORY

Elderly veterans of frequent earthquakes in this region said they could not remember any shocks more severe than those of this morning.

Potenza, Italy, July 23—A slight earthquake shock was felt in this region at 3 p.m. to-day. It was the fifth since an hour after midnight, when the great quake occurred.

NEW ZEALAND IS SEEKING NEW TRADE PACT WITH CANADA

Canadian Press Cable Via Reuter's

Wellington, N.Z., July 23.—With the view of negotiating a new trade treaty between New Zealand and Canada, Dr. Craig, comptroller of customs, will sail August 12 on his way to Ottawa to open discussion with Canadian authorities and carry matters as far as possible before the opening of the Imperial Conference in London.

Dr. Craig subsequently will go to London to assist in the Imperial Conference discussions on tariff and allied economic questions.

POLICE COMB DETROIT FOR THREE KILLERS

G. E. Buckley, Radio Speaker, Slain Just After Mayor Recalled By Electors

Detroit, July 23.—Two and a half hours after he had announced over the radio the recall of Mayor Charles Bowles by the voters of Detroit, Gerald E. (Jerry) Buckley, political commentator of radio station WMBC, was shot to death by three gunmen as he sat in the lobby of a hotel early to-day.

The slaying was the climax of three weeks of gangster killings which paralleled the intensive and bitter campaign over the proposal to recall the mayor on charges which included inefficiency and toleration of lawlessness.

Four hours after the slaying the entire enforcement machinery of the state was set in motion. Governor Fred W. Green took a hand, ordering Colonel John S. Bersey, adjutant of the National Guard, to Detroit.

TRAVEL BY PLANE

By 9 a.m. the governor, Colonel Bersey and ranking officers of the state police were on the ground assisting local police in an investigation of the crime. The Governor and Colonel Bersey came to Detroit by airplane.

Mayor Bowles, for whose recall 120,863 Detroiters voted yesterday, had been assailed in political summaries given over the radio station by Buckley. The announcer also had unsparingly attacked the city's gangster elements, who have carried out ten spectacular slayings in the last three weeks.

OPINIONS VOICED

Coming as it did on the heels of the mayor's defeat, the slaying was seen by some as an outgrowth of enmities caused by the campaign. Police Commissioner Thomas C. Wilcox, however, saw no connection between the two and indicated he attributed the slaying to Buckley's radio attacks on gangsters and gamblers. Paul Buckley, brother of the slain man and former assistant prosecutor of Wayne County, said the recall battle was "the sole reason for the shooting."

W. Wright Gedoe, secretary of the Michigan Broadcasting Company, which operates station WMBC, said Buckley had told him of receiving threats for the last two weeks because of the part he was taking in the recall campaign.

FLIERS SEEKING $25,000 PRIZE

Paris, July 23.—Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte have agreed to fly on from New York to Dallas, Texas, if they succeed in their proposed airplane jump across the Atlantic from France, according to Colonel W. E. Easterwood Jr. of Dallas.

Should they carry out their promise, they will receive the $25,000 purse Easterwood has offered for a Paris-New York-Dallas flight.

A white whale, declared to be rare among the denizens of the sea, was sighted off the Newfoundland Banks recently by a coastguard cutter.

150 BELIEVED LOST AS RIVER BRIDGE FALLS

Thirty-four Bodies Recovered at Coblenz, Germany, After Disaster During Celebration

Death Toll Unknown Till All Reports From Homes Are Received By Authorities

Coblenz, Germany, July 23.—Thirty-four bodies of the between 100 and 150 persons who were swept into a backwater of the Moselle River by the collapse of a rickety pontoon bridge yesterday had been recovered to-day.

Exactly how many perished probably will not be known until relatives report those missing from home, for the spot was dark and there was no way of determining just how many went down on the flimsy little crossing.

It was heavily crowded, however, by people who had been watching fireworks from the historic fortress of Ehrenbreitstein to celebrate the evacuation of the Rhineland by French troops, and reliable estimates place the death toll at 150.

Of the thirty-four bodies recovered, seventeen were those of men, eleven women and six children.

Ten persons were rescued and taken to a hospital.

Among the victims were Sisters of Mercy who were in charge of a group of schoolgirls.

PEOPLE HOMEWARD BOUND

When the great crowd which had gathered near Pfoshafen to watch the illumination of the old fortress started homeward, the frail bridge quickly became massed with people.

The illumination of Ehrenbreitstein was just dying and all those crossing crowded to the side facing the display that they might see the final glow. With this lopsided load the structure suddenly dropped into the water.

CRIES FOR AID

Frenzied shouts for aid were heard and police and firemen quickly began rescue work by torchlight. Their efforts were handicapped by the tendency of the panic-stricken victims to cling to one another as they went under. Others were pinned beneath the collapsed framework and many were killed when struck by loose timbers.

Anxious relatives waited all night for the bodies to be extracted, while pitiful scenes were witnessed in the nearby shed used as a temporary morgue.

GLENN CURTISS, FAMOUS AIR PIONEER, DIES

course, traveled faster than man ever had before, a mile in 26 3-5 seconds.

His fame spread and drew the attention of the late Major Thomas Scot Baldwin, builder and operator of balloons. In 1904 the two men met in Hammondsport and installed a Curtiss motor in Baldwin's Balloon. With that machine they made a circular flight at Oakland, Cal., in August, 1904, being the first to fly that way.

TURNED TO PLANES

Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, commissioned Curtiss to build a motor for a man-carrying kite. Gliders were experimented with for a time, and then the men turned their attention to power airplanes.

Lieut. Thomas Selfridge, one of the associates, was responsible for the first machine, known as the Red Wing, which made its first flight March 12, 1908.

Curtiss in turn demonstrated a plane he called the June Bug. He used less wing spread than others, a higher-powered motor and small horizontal rudders at each wing tip, forerunner of the present day ailerons.

When the Great War started the Curtiss "Jenny," the old type of training plane, came into its own. Business boomed and Curtiss became a rich man.

After the war, what was to be known as the Curtiss-Wright group came into being. Curtiss eventually abdicated direct control and virtually retired from active flying, although remaining a director of the company. His advice, nevertheless, was always eagerly sought by airmen the world over.

He was born May 21, 1878, in Hammondsport, N.Y.

FINANCIAL POLICY OF PROVINCE MAIN CONVENTION THEME

maximum of $570,000 as the share of motor license receipts distributed to the municipalities. With extra costs incurred by municipalities as a result of motor traffic many claim they are entitled to the share which the increasing revenue would bring. Previously they received one half of the receipts and this distribution netted them $220,000 in 1929. This increased to $569,000 last year, and reasonably presuming that it would again double in the next seven years, the municipalities would receive only half a million instead of roughly one million dollars.

Dissatisfaction is also voiced by the municipalities at the new method of distributing liquor profits which limits them to 25 per cent or $1,000,000, whichever is the lesser. Although the municipalities may not immediately suffer by the change, allowing for the normal growth of the Province, their share of receipts from this source would be less in years to come than it would be under the system previously in force.

WANT ROAD HELP

The new highway policy of the government has also come under criticism. While the modified highway policy adopted last session creating arterial highways and primary highways may, in some instances, help district municipalities and cities of from 1,500 to 2,000 population, it is pointed out that cities above that population, some of which are sorely in need of provincial help on highways, receive no assistance. Cities like Vancouver, Victoria and Oak Bay, which it is claimed need relief most, are not helped under the new policy.

It is anticipated that the convention will also ask for an amendment to the Municipal Act as it concerns taxation of railway property. After asking for an amendment to clarify legislation in this respect last session the amendment, when made, was found to be one which meant a loss of many thousands of dollars to cities like Victoria, Kamloops and Port Alberni. Where separate assessment was provided for railway land and steel before, the amended act was found to provide only for assessment on steel, depriving the municipalities of considerable revenue especially in the cases where there are terminal yards.

LAND TAXATION

A change in recently passed legislation in relation to land held in blocks of three acres or more for agricultural purposes will be sought by the City of Victoria at the Union meeting, pointing out that valuable building land might be held in city limits and be taxed only as agricultural land, the city asks that the new amendment should apply to districts only and not cities.

The City of Victoria also will present a resolution in regard to property which has been damaged or destroyed by fire. The resolution asks that the Zoning Board of Appeal be given power to permit the renovation or reconstruction of the building to its former status regardless of provisions in the Zoning Act, passed since the original building was erected, which would prevent another building of the same type being erected.

The right to appeal to a judge of the Supreme Court for a ruling on municipal matters will be sought in a resolution to be submitted by Saanich. Saanich will also bring the subject of unemployment before the resolutions committee of the convention.

A resolution regarding the Public Health Act will probably go forward from Oak Bay.

Where to Buy Bonds

THIS is an important point in the purchase of bonds, since it is necessary for the bond buyer to rely so largely on the presentations of the bond house from which he or she buys bonds.

This House has carefully safeguarded the interests of a large and growing clientele for many years. It is known throughout the length and breadth of the British Empire. It is on this record that we solicit your business.

For the convenience of our clients we maintain membership in the Montreal and Toronto Stock Exchanges and Curb Markets.

Investor's Age Is Important

Investment work in the client's interest covers a wide field. No two problems are exactly alike. Each must be worked out individually and a policy planned from the analysis of personal requirements.

The age of the investor has a great deal to do with the investment banker's counsel. A young man's financial future differs from that of later years. The business woman's need differs from that of the woman who must live on income alone.

Every investor should seek experienced counsel.

The Dancing Floor

By JOHN BUCHAN

The Broken Spurs came to France in the early summer of '18, but I had no chance of meeting them. My life was rather feverish during the last weeks of the campaign, for I was chief staff-officer to my division, and we were never much out of the line. Then, as you know, I nearly came by my end in September, when the Boche made quite a good effort in the way of a gas attack. It was a new gas, which we didn't understand, and I faded away like the grin of the Cheshire cat, and was pretty ill for a time in a base hospital. Luckily it didn't do me any permanent harm, but my complexion will be greeney-yallery till the day of my death.

I awoke to consciousness in a tidy little bed to learn that the war was all over and the Boche hustling to make peace. It took me some days to get my head clear and take notice, and then, one morning, I observed the man in the bed next to me. His head was a mass of bandages, but there was something about the features that showed which struck me as familiar. As luck would have it, it turned out to be Vernon. He had been badly hit, when commanding his battalion at the crossing of the Scheldt, and for a day or two had been in grave danger. He was recovering all right, but for a time neither of us was permitted to talk, and we used to lie and smile at each other and think of all the stories we would presently tell.

It was just after we got the news of the Armistice that we were allowed to say how d'ye do. We were as weak as kittens, but I, at any rate, felt extraordinarily happy. We had both come through the war without serious damage, and a new world lay before us. To have Vernon beside me put the coping-stone on my contentment, and I could see that he felt the same. I remember the thrill I had when we could stretch out our arms and shake hands.

Slowly we began to build up each other's records for the four years. I soon knew, what I had guessed, the reason of that inhuman composure which Charles had described. Vernon had had a complete assurance that his day of fate was not yet due awhile, and therefore the war had taken a second place in his thoughts. Most men who fought bore the marks of it in harder lines about the mouth and chin and older eyes. But Vernon had kept his youth intact. His face had always had a certain maturity beyond his years, and his eyes had been curiously watchful. These traits were perhaps slightly intensified, but otherwise I noticed no difference.

"You remember what I told you when we last met in October '14?" he said. "I was wrong and I'm rather sorry. I thought the war would last for six years, and that the last stage of my dream would be in the field. That would have been such a simple and right solution. As it is, I must wait."

I asked if the dream had come regularly in the past four years.

"Quite regularly," was the answer. "The room hasn't changed either, except that the dark shadow in the corner has moved, so I think it must be a human figure. The place is quite bare and empty now, except for the silver fire-dogs. . . . I think there is a little window in the wall, rather high up."

"You have only two years more to wait," I said, "less—a year and a half." It was then November '18.

"I know. . . . But I am impatient again. I thought the climax would come in the war, so I stopped speculating about it. . . . I thought I would be called on as a soldier to do something very difficult, and I was quite ready. . . . But that has all gone, and I am back in the fog. I must think it all out again from the beginning."

The immediate consequence of peace was to keep Vernon and myself apart. You see, we, neither of us got better very quickly. When his wounds were healed a kind of neuritis remained; he was tortured with headaches, didn't sleep well and couldn't recover his lost weight. He was very patient and cheerful about it, and did obediently what he was told, for his one object seemed to be to get fit again. We returned to England together, but presently the doctors packed him off abroad with instructions to bask in the sun and idle at a Riviera villa which had been dedicated to such cases. So I spent a lonely Christmas in London.

Heaven knows I had nothing to complain of compared with most fellows, but I count the six months after the Armistice the most beastly in my life. I had never been seriously ill before, all the four years of war I had been brimming over with energy, and it was a new experience for me to feel slack and under-engined. The gas had left a sort of poison in my blood which made every movement an effort. I was always sleepy, and yet couldn't sleep, and to my horror I found myself getting jumpy and neurotic. The creak of a cart in the street worried me so that I wanted to cry; London noise was a nightmare, and when I tried the country I had a like horror of its silence. The thing was purely physical, for I found I could think quite clearly and sanely. I seemed to be two persons, one self-possessed enough watching the antics of the other with disgust and yet powerless to stop them.

Acton Croke was reassuring. "You're a sick man, and you've got to behave as such," he told me. "No attempt to get back into harness. Behave as if you were recovering from a severe operation—regular life, no overstrain, physical or mental, simply lie fallow and let nature do its work. You have a superb constitution which, given a chance, will pick up its balance. But don't forget that you're passing through a crisis. If you play the fool you may have indifferent health for the rest of your days."

I was determined that at all events that mustn't happen, so I was as docile as a good child. As I say, I had mighty little to complain of, when you consider the number of good men who, far seedier than I, came back to struggle for their daily bread. I had made a bit of money, so I had a solid bump to live off. There was a dearth at the time of leaders at the Bar, and I could have stepped at once into a bigger practice than I had ever dreamed of. Also, I had a chance, if I wished, of becoming one of the law officers of the Crown. I was still a member of Parliament, and at the December election, though I had never gone near the place, my old constituency had returned me with a majority of more than ten thousand. A pretty gilded position for a demobbed soldier! But for the present I had to put all that aside and think only of getting well.

There has been a good deal of nonsense talked about the horror of war memories and the passionate desire to bury them. The vocal people were apt to be damaged sensitives, who were scarcely typical of the average man. There were horrors enough, God knows, but in most people's recollections these were overlaid by the fierce interest and excitement, even by the comedy of it. An any rate that was the case with most of my friends, and it was certainly the case with me. I found a positive pleasure in recalling the incidents of the past four years. The war made me younger. You see—met few of my own year and standing. I had consorted chiefly with youth, and recovered the standpoint of twenty years ago. That was what made my feeble body so offensive. I could not regard myself as a man in middle age, but as a sick undergraduate whose malady was likely to keep him out of the Boat or the Eleven.

You would have laughed if you could have seen the way I spent my time. I was so angry with my ill-health that I liked to keep on reminding myself of the days when I had been at the top of my form. I remember I made out a complete record of my moutaineering exploits, working them out with diagrams from maps and old diaries, and telling myself furiously that what I had once done I could do again. . . . I got out my old Oxford texts and used to construe bits of the classics, trying to recapture the mood when those things meant a lot to me. . . . I read again all the books which used to be favorites, but which I hadn't opened for a score of years. I turned up the cram books for the Bar exams, and the notes I had taken in my early days in chambers, and the reports of my first cases. It wasn't sentiment, but a deliberate attempt to put back the clock, and, by recalling the feelings of twenty-five, to convince myself that I had once been a strong man. . . . I even made risky experiments. I went up to Oxford in vacation and managed to get put up in my old diggings in the High. That would have been intolerable if they had recalled war tragedies, but they didn't. The men who had shared them with me were all alive—one a Colonial bishop, one a stockbroker, another high up in the Indian Civil Service. It did me good to see the big shabby sitting room where, in my day, a barrel of beer had adorned one corner. In March, too, I spent three nights at a moorland inn on the Borders which had once been the headquarters of a famous reading-party. That was not quite so successful, for the weather and the food were vile, and I was driven to reflect on the difference of outlook between twenty and forty-three.

Still my childishness did me good and I began slowly to gain ground. The spring helped me, which was early that year, you remember, so that the blossom had begun on the fruit trees in the first days of April. I found that it was the time just before the war that it comforted me most to recall, for then I had been healthy enough and a creature more near my present state than the undergraduate of twenty. I think, too, it was because those years were associated with Vernon. He was never much out of my mind, and the reports from him were cheering. The headaches had gone, he had recovered his power of sleep, and was slowly putting on weight. He had taken to sailing a small boat again, had bought a racing cutter, and had come in third in one of the events at the Cannes Regatta.

I had this last news in a letter which reached me while I was staying at Minster Carteron, and it turned my mind back to the yachting trip I had made with Vernon in 1914 in the Aegean. It revived the picture I had almost forgotten—the green island flushed with spring, the twilight haunted with wild music, the great white house hanging like a cliff over the sea. I had felt the place sinster—I remembered the two men with scared faces and their charm against the evil eye—and even after five years a faint aura of distaste lingered about the memory. That was sufficient to awake my interest, and one afternoon I rummaged in the library. Piskos had been the island's name, and I searched for it in gazetteers.

It was the day of the famous April snowstorm which wrought such havoc among English orchards. The windows of the great room were blurred with falling snow, and the fires on the two hearths were hissing and spluttering while I pursued my researches. Folliot, I remember, was dozing beside one of them in an arm chair. You know old Folliot, with his mild cattish ways and his neat little Louis Napoleon beard. He wants to be the Horace Walpole of our time, and publishes every few years a book of reminiscences, from which it would appear that he has been the confidant of every great man in Europe for the last half-century. He has not much of a mind, but he has a good memory, and after all there is a faint interest about anybody who has dined out in good company for fifty years.

I woke the old fellow when I dropped by misadventure a big atlas on the floor, and he asked testily what I was after.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily's Mysterious Ride

(Copyright, 1930)

By HOWARD R. GARIS

"We are all out of molasses, Mr. Gruff!" said the big black bear lady to her husband bear one morning as he shuffled around the den, his paw nails making a clicking, clacking sound on the stone floor.

"All out of molasses, are we?" growled Mr. Gruff, who, though a bear, was not the jolly gentleman sort like Mr. Stubtail, the father of Neddie and Beckie Stubtail. "Well, I'd better go get some," went on Mr. Gruff. "We need sweet stuff! Where's the can?"

"Here it is," his wife growled back at him. Mr. and Mrs. Gruff, being bears living in a den, were always growling at each other.

Mr. Gruff took a big tin can, the kind that holds milk before it is put into bottles, and placing this large can on his wheelbarrow, the old bear started for the molasses store. There was nothing in the can now, for all the molasses had been taken from it by Mr. and Mrs. Gruff. As he walked along, pushing the wheelbarrow, Mr. Gruff said:

"Yes, indeed, we bears must have sweet stuff to eat once in a while, and molasses is the best thing I know."

Just then, a little way ahead of him, on the path, Mr. Gruff saw a rabbit gentleman hipping, hopping along.

"Bless my funny little tail!" growled Mr. Gruff. "There's Uncle Wiggily! Talking about sweet things to eat, he is sweeter than a lot of molasses; I think I'll catch him and take him home to my wife before I go on to the store."

The rabbit was clapped inside the can.

Now Uncle Wiggily wasn't thinking of bears, molasses, big tin cans, or even wheelbarrows, so he did not hear Mr. Gruff slinking up back of him. And the first thing Uncle Wiggily knew he felt himself caught by his ears in the paws of the bear and—presto, the poor rabbit gentleman was clapped inside the molasses can and the lid was pushed on.

"Dear me! What can have happened?" Uncle Wiggily asked himself when he could catch his breath. He found himself in darkness, but by feeling about he could tell he was inside a tin can. It was so large that he could move about and there was enough air so he did not smother. There were dents and holes around the lid, where more air came in, and a teeny, wee bit of light.

"Ha! Ha! Talk about molasses! I've got something sweet" laughed Mr. Gruff in a loud voice. Uncle Wiggily knew that bear's laugh.

"He has caught me at last" thought Uncle Wiggily. "I'm shut up in his molasses can! I wonder what will happen next!"

The next thing Uncle Wiggily knew he was being given a mysterious ride. He felt himself being trundled along inside the milk can, but could not guess the can was on a wheelbarrow, as he had not seen that before he was caught. There was a loud, rumbling sound as the wheelbarrow, with Uncle Wiggily in the molasses can, bounced over the stones.

"Hello, Mr. Gruff!" Uncle Wiggily heard a voice say. What have you there, molasses?"

Some thing sweeter than molasses, Mr. Bob Cat!" answered the bear. "I've caught Uncle Wiggily and I'm taking him to my den."

Then the rabbit gentleman, shut up in the can and being ridden on the wheelbarrow, knew the worst had happened. He did not know what to do. He did not known how to get out and he felt very sad when, all of a sudden, he heard a little voice saying:

"Don't be afraid, Uncle Wiggily! We are going to save you!"

"Who are you and how are you going to save me?" asked the rabbit in surprise.

"We are a lot of ants that crawled inside the can to get some of the sweet molasses stuff out of the cracks," was the answer. "Listen! The bear will take you to his den. As soon as he gets there he will take the cover off the can to show you to his wife. As soon as he does that we ants will crawl all over those two bears. We'll tickle their noses and their ears and they'll be so surprised that they'll forget about you for a minute. That will be your chance to hop out of the can and run away fast."

"Oh, I'll do that all right!" said Mr. Longears. "Thanks a lot!"

On rumbled the wheelbarrow with Uncle Wiggily on it in the can. Reaching his den, Mr. Gruff called to his wife: "Here I am!"

"Did you bring the molasses?" growled the bear wife.

"Come here and look!" shouted her husband. "I have brought you something much sweeter than molasses!" She looked into the can as he took the cover off and shouted:

"Uncle Wiggily! How wonderful!" Then, before the two bears could nibble the rabbit, out of the molasses can swarmed thousands of black and red ants. They crawled all over the big, shaggy creatures tickling them on their noses and ears so the bears had to scratch and, for a moment, they forgot about the rabbit in the can.

"Here is where I go!" cried Mr. Longears and out he hopped and ran down the hill away from the bears' den safe to his bungalow.

Mr. Longears was thankful to the ants for saving him and he laughed when he thought of his mysterious ride in the molasses can. And if the pussy cat will take the cover off the story book so the words can play tag with the pictures, I'll tell you more about Uncle Wiggily's jimpity jump.

A Point To This

SOMETHING GOOD FOR SUPPER WHEN EVERYONE'S HUNGRY

What sudden and overwhelming appetites families develop—when you least expect it! You know the signs—everyone wonders when dinner will be ready, and displays exceptional interest in whether or not there is to be "something good". What they mean is something hearty and warm and satisfying. And sometimes it is a little difficult to think up a dish that fills these requirements and yet is a variation on the usual.

by Mary Blake

I suggest that on such occasions you try the recipes here. They are quite simple to prepare, most deliciously appetizing and have the "filling" quality that is just what you require to satisfy keenly-whetted appetites.

The Added Richness and Nourishment of Good Milk

One of the best features of these recipes is that they combine with other foods the rich, wholesome nourishment of pure whole milk. For, as you will note, both call for Carnation Milk.

Perhaps you didn't know that Carnation Milk is twice as rich in cream as ordinary milk because it has been reduced by evaporation to half its original bulk—in order that it may go into convenient sized cans. Because of the extra richness you can effect many economies in your cookery.

In one other respect Carnation Milk differs from ordinary milk. The cream particles are broken up to keep them distributed all through the milk. The finer particles give foods the most marvelously smooth texture—a fine velvety quality that you couldn't get by using ordinary milk: Carnation Milk is simply the best, of pure, sweet, whole, milk. It has nothing added to it, and nothing taken out except about half the water. It comes from dairies where the highest sanitary standards prevail, and is sterilized so that it keeps safe and pure until it comes on your table in the form of rich, creamy soups and sauces, smooth, velvety ice creams, delicate, fine-textured custards, light, fluffy cakes, and fragile delectable desserts. Their extra deliciousness is proof of the extra-goodness of this uniform and convenient milk.

Send for free Carnation Cook Book. Address Carnation Co., Limited, 134 Abbott Street, Vancouver, B.C.

Carnation Ham, Country Style—2 slices of ham (medium size), 2 tbsp. brown sugar, ¼ cup carnation Milk. Pan fry ham until well browned; sprinkle both sides with brown sugar; continue cooking until sugar is melted. Remove ham from pan; add Carnation to syrup in pan. Cook until slightly thickened, stirring carefully to prevent scorching. Pour browned cream gravy over ham. Serves 6.

Carnation Veal Fricassee—1½ lbs. veal steak, 3 tbsp. flour, salt and pepper, 2 tbsp. butter, 1 cup water, 1 cup Carnation Milk. Cut veal in 2 inch squares; dip in flour well seasoned with salt and pepper. Brown in butter and add water. Cook slowly until tender (about 30 minutes), add Carnation and continue cooking until milk has thickened. Serves 5.

Not only food value but flavour is added to your meals when you cook with Carnation. Twice as rich as bottled milk, always pure, always dependable, it makes the best of dishes. And how it saves on cream and butter!

Shall the Art of Matrimony Be Taught?

Dorothy Dix

Believes Pupils Would Fail to Profit

A FAMOUS educator and psychologist suggests that the most feasible remedy for the mismating of youth in marriage would be the establishment of courses for matrimony in schools where family life in its social, economic and biological aspects could be studied. This is an intriguing theory. It is cheering to think of a young man giving as much thought and effort to learning how to be a good husband as he does how to be a good plumber and studying the idiosyncrasies of the feminine temperament as thoroughly as he does the workings of a gasoline engine. Likewise it is encouraging to think of flappers taking matrimony in a serious way and devoting as much time to developing their technique in handling husbands as they do to acquiring the touch system in typewriting.

Certainly a school of matrimony that would teach young people how to pick out their mates scientifically instead of marrying on the grab-bag principle, as they do at present, would meet a long-felt want. Also, it would have a wide scope of usefulness if it could prepare them beforehand for the inevitable disillusions and disappointments of connubial life and thus take the edge off the shock of their finding out that they had married just plain, ordinary human beings instead of the romantic heroes and pin-feathered angels that they thought they were getting.

One loves to contemplate the earnest-eyed young students committing to heart the precepts that would teach them that marriage is very much like any other business and the way to make a success of it is by going at it with intelligence, tact, patience, perseverance and a settled determination to make a go of it.

Surely no institution of higher learning could do more to spread sweetness and light than the one that taught boys and girls how to live together in peace and harmony, how to sell themselves to each other, how to avoid arguments and family spats, how to respect each other's personal liberty.

Without doubt girls would be taught in the matrimonial kindergarten the importance of feeding the brute and that no love can survive being fed dish-water coffee and soggy bread and tough meat. They would be instructed as to the auspicious moment in which to ask for money and tell that mother is coming for a nice, long visit and taught generally how to rub a husband's fur the right way so that he would purr under their hands and how to avoid getting his goat.

And surely in even the pre-school period a boy would be taught the ABCs of matrimony, which so many illiterate husbands never learn—to tell their wives every day that they get more beautiful in every way; to keep up their batting average of kissing, and especially would they be drilled in the matrimonial multiplication table of bills, food bills and rent bills and doctors' bills and dress bills and beauty-shop bills and bills and bills and bills, so that they would not be paralyzed with amazement when they found out that when a man dances at his wedding he has to pay the piper.

Unfortunately, up to now we have all had to be self-educated in matrimony, and by the time we have learned how to read the partners of our bosoms like a book and have got their numbers, our knowledge comes too late to do us any good. We have made the mistakes that are past all rectifying and spilled the beans that we can never pick up again. So, undoubtedly we would be saved many heart-breaking blunders if we had taken a college course in matrimony that had taught us before marriage the things that it took us thirty or forty years of experience to find out for ourselves.

But if this utopian plan of establishing classes, in which the young shall be taught the art or science of matrimony were put into actual operation, would they learn anything from it? For, after all, what is every home but a laboratory in which every girl and boy has ample opportunity to study family life in its every aspect?

From its babyhood every child takes daily cognizance of the attitude of its father and mother toward each other and with uncanny astuteness it knows the mistakes that each makes in dealing with the other. It knows to a hair's breadth which one takes advantage of the other, which one does his or her duty and which one reneges. It hears all the family arguments over money and in its little mind referees all the domestic fights. There is nothing really that any one can tell a ten-year-old child about family life that it doesn't already know.

Yet these children who have seen marriage at close range with disillusioned eyes; who know that father's and mother's romance has burned itself out and left only a pinch of ashes; who know how hard and sordid is the struggle to bring up a family on a small income, go along themselves and get married expecting to be perfectly happy and to live in a rose-colored paradise.

Every girl is utterly sure that the handsome youth she is in love with will never make the sort of husband that her father is. Of course, father is fine and noble and all that, but she simply doesn't see how mother stands being married to a man who just takes her for granted and never pays her a compliment and who likes to slouch around the house and is fussy about the food and grouches over the bills.

And every youth is certain his Angelina will never be the kind of wife his mother is. Of course, mother is a dear, but there is no denying that she is fat and that she is nothing to write a song about in looks, and she certainly does nag and keep father on the leash.

And every young couple who get married know beforehand that they are never going to let their marriage slump the way other people's do and that they will never, never quarrel or grow tired of each other.

Yet, in spite of all their theories, marriage works itself out for them very much as it does for others, and because they know the rocks that others have gone to pieces on doesn't enable them to steer a safe course.

So perhaps, after all, the college of matrimony wouldn't bring about the domestic millennium, for marriage seems to be one of the things in which no one is able to profit by another's experience.

FERRY OFFICIALS READY FOR BUSY HOLIDAY SEASON

Black Ball Ferry officials report an increasing proportion of tourists into the Pacific northwest, and Washington residents, too, getting off the mainland and seeing the beauties of the Olympic Peninsula, the San Juan Islands, Vancouver Island and Whidby Island. The fame of the evergreen playground is spreading and strategically placed signs point out the routes and roads to follow.

Anticipating the heaviest vacation travel of the year—in the latter part of July and the first two weeks in August, ferry line officials are laying plans to increase service so that no wait for ferries will be necessary, even with unusually heavy traffic. An extra ferry will be in operation on peak days between Mukiltea and Columbia Beach, an extra boat will be run between Alki and Manchester, extra runs made between Seattle and Bremerton.

This extra service will increase the sailings of Black Ball Ferries to nearly 300 every day. Additional sailings made over the July 4 holiday took care of approximately 9,500 cars, and on only one route was there a delay, and that was but fifteen minutes on the short run between Mukiltea and Columbia Beach.

MAQUINNA ARRIVES

From the west coast of Vancouver Island, the C.P.R. steamer Princess Maquinna docked at the Belleville Street docks to-day at noon with a fair list of passengers, most of whom made the round trip to Port Alice. After visiting in Vancouver the Maquinna will sail to the Coast again from Victoria on Saturday night at 11 o'clock.

German Motorliner Here On First Visit to This Port

Arrives With Twenty-six Passengers After Rough Trip From California

Local Shipping Men Guests of Company at Informal Affair Last Night

On her first visit to Victoria the motor ship Seattle of the Hamburg-American Line, docked at Rithet piers here last night at 6.10 o'clock from Europe by way of the Panama Canal and California ports. The ship had a rough trip up the coast from San Francisco and was delayed ten hours in arrival here. Heavy ground swells held the ship off the coast of California, the skipper reported, and for more than a day the speed of the ship was reduced to a minimum.

There were twenty-six passengers aboard the Seattle when she arrived last night. All of these left the ship here and will proceed to-day to Vancouver and Seattle. There were three cars aboard and the owners of them, after motoring in the Northwest, will return to their homes in California over the Pacific Highway. All the passengers were from Los Angeles and San Francisco, the passengers from Europe having left the ship at those ports.

As soon as the passengers had disembarked last night the captain and officers of the ship were hosts to a large number of Victoria shipping men at an informal buffet supper aboard. Supper was served in the main dining-room, and with it went typical German hospitality and courtesy. This trip is Capt. Schoning's first to the Northwest, and he expressed his pleasure at being put in charge of a ship in this service. H. Bode, manager of the Hamburg-American Line in the Northwest, spoke a few words of welcome to the guests, and briefly sketched the history of his company, telling of the humble beginning thirty years ago and covering the steady growth of the company until now it boasts more than 100,000 tons of shipping.

IS FINE SHIP

After the supper the guests wandered over the ship, inspecting the accommodation for first class and third class travelers, and remarking on what a splendid trip one could have on such a vessel through the Panama Canal. There is accommodation aboard for twenty-five first class passengers and an equal number of third class. There are double and single rooms in the first class and two de-luxe suites with private bath and showers. All the first class rooms are large and airy, and have all modern conveniences, such as hot and cold running water, electric lights, thermos bottles, comfortable beds and other modern necessities for pleasant traveling. The smoking-room and the lounge in the first class are separated by the main dining saloon, which seats the entire list of passengers and the officers at one sitting. These three rooms can be thrown into one when occasion demands. The smoking room and the lounge are handsomely and comfortably furnished with leather and upholstered divans and chairs and small tables. The lounge boasts a radio, gramophone and piano. The dining saloon is set out with tables for four.

DIESEL ENGINES

The Seattle is of 7,000 tons gross register, has a length of 480 feet, a breadth of sixty-one feet and a speed of about fourteen knots. She has Diesel engines and Burmeister and Wain motors.

The deck space is most liberal. There are two promenade decks running completely around the ship, the lower one for the third class passengers and the upper one for the first class. Above the upper promenade is the boat deck, which is wide and spacious and suitable for dancing and deck games. A portable swimming pool is carried on board and is erected when he ship is in the heat of the Panama Canal regions.

Although one left Yokohama forty-eight hours ahead of the other, two transpacific passenger liners are now steaming towards this port from the Orient. Both will arrive at the William Head quarantine station on Friday afternoon about 5 o'clock.

The two ships are the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada and the American mail liner President Madison. Capt. A. J. Hailey, R.N.R., master of the Empress of Canada, this morning wirelessed the local C.P.R. office that he would bring his command into the quarantine station at 5 o'clock on Friday afternoon. Although no word has yet been received from the President Madison it is expected she will be along about the same time. Only the inside of Pier 2 at the Rithet docks can be used by liners the size of the Canada and the Madison, so that it will be a case of "first come first served" on Friday.

Both the Empress of Canada and the President Madison have good passenger lists and average cargoes. The Canada will proceed to Vancouver from here and the Madison will continue to Seattle.

DUE SATURDAY

A. H. Hebb, local N.Y.K. agent, was advised this morning that the liner Siberia Maru, of his company, will reach Race Rocks from the Orient at 4 o'clock Saturday morning. The Siberia has a good list of passengers and a valuable parcel of freight. One cabin passenger, twenty-three tourist and nine steerage will leave the ship here while eighty-two passengers will go on to Seattle. The passenger list is a cosmopolitan one, there being Canadians, United States citizens, French, Japanese, Italian and Chinese aboard.

For Victoria the ship has 150 tons of general cargo, including fifty-six packages of raw silk. She has 160 bags of mail, including seven bags for the seaplane for quick delivery to Seattle.

Capt. B. Kaneko is in charge of the Siberia Maru.
